THE STANDING COMMITTEE. The Standing Committee, at its meet ing on Saturday last, quietly but firm ly set its seal of condemnation on the factious and disorganizing attempt. made at the previous meeting, to overthrow the action of the committee in selecting a delegate to the State Convention. Those who had introduced a resolution to that effect, at the meeting of May 29th, and boasted that they would accomplish their purpose at the last meeting, were ingloriously overwhelmed. When they discovered that their trickery had been unearthed, and that two-thirds of the committee-aswell as scores of the best men of the party, who took occasion to enter their Indignant projest against the contemplated outrage-were against them. they did not even dare to introduce their resolution, or assail the position of the chairman: and after the transaction of some miscel aneous business. the committee, by an almost manimous vote, resolved to adjourn, thus sustaining its original action.

This action of the committee meets the approval of all right-thinking men. and the spirit of courteous firmness manifested by the majority towards those who had attempted, by misrepresentation and trickery, to usurp its authority; cannot be too strongly com mended. It is due to the majority of the committee to say, that in the meeting of May 29th, notwithstanding it has been boldly asserted that there were scarcely any substitutes present, therewere eighteen or nineteen substitutes. several of whom obtained their letters of substitution by the most shameless misrepresentation, and in committee voted directly in opposition to the known views of those who had substituted them. This substitute business seemed to be a craftily concerted scheme to set at defiance the regularly expressed will of the party. It was well known that the original committee-men could not be induced to convict themselves of duplicity by reversing their former action, and therefore it was sought to accomplish this result by getting together a meeting composed largely of sub-titutes. No better evidence of this fact could be produced than the result of the last meeting, for when a meeting of the original comwhen a meeting of the original committee was obtained, its original action was sustained by an overwhelming vote. Some of these parties seemed to have rather a low estimate of the honor and honesty of the gentlemen composing the committee. It was suggested to some of the committee-men that they had been to considerable expense in athad been to considerable expense in attending the numerous meetings of the question, arrangements would be made to

The decided expressions of disapproval which we heard on Saturday last, from men grown gray in the service of the party; showed how deeply our people are feeling on this subject. We have been requested by a dozen gentleman of prominence, to speak plainly on this ques tion, and it is a case which calls for plain language. It is no welcome duty to do so, and were our own feelings of hundred and thirty four dollars worth personal comfort or personal friendship of real estate, yet at the next session of to control us, we would probably not have alluded to the matter at all. On the evening previous to the election Forney and other political adventurers ddressed the blacks at their club rooms, and in almost direct language advised them to pursue the very course they did pursue. "Carry your candidates at all hazards, without egard to cost or consequences," was he language used to the blacks. After being harangued, whiskey was furnish d to the half-civilized negroes, most of whom remained up all night, drinking, arousing and getting their weapon ready for the day's work before them Long before daylight they congregated by thousands about the windows where the voting was to take place, and there they remained, most of them with his tols, razors, clubs and stones in their hands, during the entire day. Of course thousands of white men as well a desired to vote against the conspirators, were intimidated, and made no effort to approach the windows. One negro an old resident of Washington, and property-holder, did vote the conservaive ticker, but for his bravery he recoived a broken head, two cuts from razor, and a general nummelling. At least-two of the radical Philadelphia dailies, the Moraing Post and the Evening Telegraph openly oppose the election of House man and six of the legislative nomi nees. THE REIGN OF VENALITY.

A Radical newspaper says: * "The country is drifting into the pos-ession of the Tite Barnacle family. Officers are obtained not from any cononders are obtained not from any considerations of comment filness, but because the successful men have traded with the 'ring,' paid down the stipulated price, and agreed to do the behests of the political Philistines. In fact, office is regularly bought, being sold to the highest bidder."

It is not often that a publication in the interest of the Jacobin party is America utters so much truth concern ing the corruption of its own political associates. But things have arrived at such a pass that there is not much use, The Radical leaders think all this, sheet to attempt to discuise the facts—the people, no matter what party them carry the fall elections, and they they vote with, know from their own daily observation that every charge in to the highest office in the land demeaning the nation he represents by "an itching palm, to sell and mart its offices for gold." The federal officeholder under the present administra tion who has been appointed "for any considerations of eminent fitness," no man can name. The men who have gained the highest offices are those who have crossed the palm of the appoints ing power with the largest price. Cases not only of eminent unfitness, but of actual incapacity to perform the duties of the office given as a reward for favors received, will occur to every one. The "ring ' which represents the circumference of official patronage is a circle of gold with the inscription "Venality;" or it is the circumference of a tumbler, through which have looked the seedy crew of political vagabonds d scribed by Senator Drake as "Grant's damned old bar-room cronies."
