Preserving hay when put into the ow in a greener state than his been sretofore thought prudent, by the usefair slacked lime, is gaining favor mag farm as every year. We have ever used lime for this purpose, but ve conversed with many farmers up the subject, who have and there apars to be a unity of opinion in regard its value. They claim that the may entirely preserved from moist, or andd, and comes out bright and green and that all kinds of stock cat it with rent avidity.

When the hay is thrown from the now, most of the lime at soff, so that use opposed to giving that material animals could raise no serious objection to using time for keeping or preon to using fine to account to the grant with a troop that the fine dust will ause heaves in well horses, and azgrate the disorder in those having it; thers, who have given the matter a pir trial, claim it to be a preventive of caves, and that it will stop the cough f a horse. It will be well for farmers walle puting up their present stock of grass, t st is efficiency by dusting with lime portion of their hay. The trouble or xpense will amount to but little, and the use of it is as profitable as adv ated by those who have used it, al nould know the fact, and get the benefit fit. The amount of line commonly sed is one peck per ton.— Lx.

Mr. B. Cartledge, of Sheffield, a tember of the Royal Veterinary Col-ge, calls attention to the very comon mistake made by keepers of hor s in limiting the supply of water to acir animals. Many owners of horses, jost grooms, and others who have the harge of them, profess, he says, "to now how much water a horse ought be allowed, and, when a poor, thirse, over-driven animal arrives at his surney's end, he is treated to a very mited supply and the pail is taken way before its necessity is half met, t is a mistaken notion that cold water equently produces "colie." I have nown it cure the disease. When cold ater does cause abdinomenal pain, is from hong abstinence, and when te horse drinks to exess. But even its is rure. I allow my horse to drink rom every trough I meet on the road. the water be clean, and in my stud, never had a case of colic. At home 19 torses always have water telere ups. A friend of mins to whom, the ther day I gave this advice, directed is servant to adopt it. The servant nock his head, and said, "he knew as rell as Mr. Cartledge when his horses quired water and how much." The wher, in reply told his servant that right be so, and he must allow his hor-

WHAT RAILROADS DO FOR FAR-(ERS.—The American Agriculturist 1853; To hand forty bushels of corn ity miles on a wagon would cost at ast twelve dollars for team, driver nd expenses. A railroad would trans-ort it for four dollars at most. Alwing an average of forty bushels per ere, the crop would be worth eight ollars more per acre or eight per cent, n one hundred dollars. As the relaive advantage is about the same for tve advantage is about the same for ther crops, it is clear that a raitroad assing through a town would add-1,10 per acre to the value of the farms, town ten miles square contains 4,000 acres. An increase of $100 per cre to $5,40,000, is enough to build 90 miles of raitroad, even if it cost 12,000 per mile But 200 miles of railraid would extend through twenty was ten miles somare and cost but and would extend through twenty iwns ten miles square and cost but on dollars per acre, if taxed upon the und. These figures are given merely an illustration. If the harmers had exed themselves to build all the rail-aids in this country, and given them way to any companies that would lock and run them, the present in tensed value of their lands would have sell repaid all the outlay.

HAY.—Very seasonably the question f the great advantage of cutting hay hen in a green state has been taken p by some of our agricultural publi-tion, although there can be no doubt meerning the propriety of uoing so, or every airmer who cuts a second crop nows how superior it is for milk proucing and feeding purposes concrally, then compared with hay when cut this in sine structure and the cut hen compared with may when cut hile in a ripe state, and when almost il the saccharine matter in it has gon If the saccharine matter in it has gon a constitute woody fiber,—No season as been more favorable for a trial of the early mowing pain than the present, which, so far as we can learn, comises to be good, for two crops—11 of first is seasonably harvested—and nen the rowen or second crop may arm out as liberal in quantity as the instance, the subject is one which furners would do well to thick over and sers would do were to think over and ct upon, even should broing to parti-ily neglected when the mowing seaon comes. In connection with this abject, the method of drying hay in the mow, may also be considered.

EARLA BEARING OF FROIT TREES.

We have not the least doubt that flowing trees to bear heavily when oung in injurious both to the hearth f the trees and its future bearing.—

Ve have noticed upon our own remises on several occasions that henever we allowed young trees to ear unreasonably it effected its future carriers for two or three presents. earing for two or three years. We ave since reduced the early product f a tree to from one to three speci-oens, and have found the trees aftercard to go on bearing regularly. It is ne-ame case when a tree, of whatever ge it may be, is permitted to mature hree times as much fruit as it ought to –Germantown Telegraph.

The seeds of the willow begin to prout within 12 hours after fatting to he ground. Those of clover, wheat and other grains genminate in three to we days. The fruits of the walnut, ine, and farch, lie four to six weeks goore sprouting while those of some prodes of other bands are the state. pecies of ash, beech, and maple, are aid not to germinate before the expiation of 1½ to 2 years. Those seeds which are starchy and thin-skinned erminate most readily; the oily seeds re more slow, while those enveloped a horny envelopes require longest horny envelopes require longest
