Is mot that a general opinion which has been growing up in the minds of thinking men amongst us, and is it not justified by the most notori- ous and indisputable facts? Gentlemen, it is with great, reluctance that I stand forward, here or elsewhere, to impeade the integrity of the Govern- ment under which I, live, or to call to account those public servants who have been entrusted with political powers for a false or corrupt exercise of the authori- ty with which they have been endowed. It would be much more agreeable for us to speak with pride of our State and of all its constituted authofities; it would be much more pleasant for us to day that the government of our State was pure and urgint, that it was able and wise; that in all respects the people might ex- pect hereafter to enjoy as they formerly enjoyed from its action, the peaceable fruits of good goverimment and of honest rule. But this is not possible. Would that we could do as the sons of Noah did. When that old mayingtor, somewhat over- come by the produce of his new vine- yard, required, for the sake of decency, that portions of his person should be hid- den from observation, his sons took a garment and went backward and covered his nakedness to that he should not be known.
