The Rural New Yorker says: The Rural New Yorker says:
If farmers well understood and appreciated raising calves, there would be many more of them raised, and much better animals. The same method may be followed in raising for stock for the butcher, unless they are intended for breeding, in which case they should be fed a very small quantity of molasses or sweet, food for this, when fed in excess, will render females barren and males impotent, the reasons for which males impotent, the reasons for which have been often given. But in animals intended for fattening, sweet foods will strongly develop this quality. Bean or pea meal will be found an excellent addition to the oil meal for stock calves after three weeks old; but they should always be cooked. This they should always be cooked. they should always be cooked. This, made into a porridge and mixed with oil meal, will be found very nutritious, and possessing just the qualities desired to develop the frame, and muscle of the young animal. Pea meal is also slightly constipating—just the counterpart of oil meal. It will be found that one dollar and lifty cents thus expended in feeding a stock calf will make it worth double at six months. Fine calves may also be raised upon whey with this addition of oil meal, pea, oat or barley meal. The whey is principally composed of sugar, and needs, to make it a well-balanced food, some others containing muscle-forming and bone building elements. There is no policy so short-sighted in the farmer as that of raising pinched and stunted animals, wenty-five per cent, added to the cost of raising a worthless calf would devel op a fine animal.

Watering Horses

Horses should never be kept so long without water that they will drink largely when they get it. Give it to them often, and they will never injure themselves with it. Nothing is more common than to hitch a team to the glow, and make them work helf a day. plow, and make them work half a day without a drop. What man would sub-nit to such treatment? If the plow sturted at seven in the morning, water should be given again before ten; and again in the afternoon by four o'clock. Even if half an hour is thus consumed, more work will be done in a day. The objection that horses on the road should not be "loaded with water," is not valid. A horse weighing 1,200 pounds will not be much encumbered additionally by 29 pounds of water, while the distention will give him additional strength. Every farmer knows that when he himself undertakes to lift a large log or heavy stone, he can do more by first inflating himself with air, and not unfrequently he loses a button or work of the himself with air, and not unfrequently he loses a button or work of the himself with air, and the free himself with a horse of inflation by water will add to a horse's strength in a similar manner. In driving a horse on the read at a natural cate of prince to the road at a natural gate of nine or ten miles an hour. I have frequently had occasion to observe that he was laboring with perspiration until I left him drink freely, when he ceased to sweat, and evidently traveled more freely. Don't be afraid to give your horse water; the danger is in making them abstain too long-in which case care is needed.

The value of straw as a feeding sub-The value of straw as a feeding substance was never better proved than by the following fact: A firm having a large number of heavy wagon horses, had frequent occasion for the veterinary surgeon until they were recommended to mix a certain portion of fine cut straw with the clover hay. This has been practiced now for some years, and their bill for doctoring is at a minimum. The partner of the firm. years, and their bill for doctoring is at a minimum. The partner of the firm, who told me this, said how advantageous it was not to be deprived, as they formerly were, of several norses—to say nothing of the saving in expense and loss. The fact is, the food was too rich-or too mucitaginous, for I have often been told that fine hay, unmixed with straw chaff, balls in the stomache, and thus is deprived of action of the and thus is deprived of action of the and thus is deprived of action of the gastricjuices. We know that too much succulent or rich grasses are injurious, and no doubt straw chaff mixed with it acts mechanically, if not chemically, with advantage. It would be well for our agricultural friends to know that for several thousand horses belonging to the London General Omnibus Company, the food is all passed through the chaff cutter with, I believe, a certain proportion of straw. While spring grazing our bullocks tares, we mix straw with it in their early growth, but as they advance to flowering and podding, this is not required, because there is much wheat and oats grown with this, which gets intermixed on passing through the chaff machine.—

BOILING POTATOES.—There is a great deal constantly said as to the best way to boil potatoes. The following, said to be an Irish mode, is no doubt very good. It is said that in Ireland they always nick off a piece of the skin, put them in a pot of cold water, which is gradually heated, but never allowed to boil; cold water should be added as soon as the water begins to boil; when done, pour all the water off, cover the vessel with a cloth, and in a few minutes they are cool enough for use. utes they are cool enough for use.

How much of error have you discovered in your mode of treatment of the different crops you have grown? How much have you learned from your neighbors, from your agricultural paper, from your farm operacine in relation to your farm operacines? How much have you done to aid your wife and daughter in their household duties by furnishing them with improved household utensils, and the better location and arrangement of wells, cisterns, walks, wood piles, cellars and dairy rooms? How much of kindness and charity have you shown towards the needy and the helpless?—How much better husband, father and brother are you than you were one year ago? Now is the time to wells, the time to wells. brother are you than you were one year ago? Now is the time to reflect upon all these things.

Abortion in Cows.—A writer in the Western Farmer advances the theory that this difficulty, which is becoming a formidable one with dairymen in many sections, is owing to a want of phosphates in the food and water consumed by the animal. The avidity with which laying hens eat egg shells and fragments of bones, while at other times they do not cat them, and roosters never, and the fact that during gestation cows eat bones and boards, are cited in confirmation of the correctness of this theory. It is also said that this information is believed. are cited in confirmation of the correct-ness of this theory. It is also said that this information is being sold at a high price as a receipt for a cure of abortion, and that Mr. Lyman B. Sanford, of Cherry Flats, N. Y., had used it with perfect success. For several years his cows had been in the habit of calving prematurely; one year fourteen out of cows had been in the habit of calving prematurely; one year fourteen out of thirty-five miscarried between the months of January and March. Another gentleman had gathered bones and pounded them fine, and when the cows were salted, put as much bone dust as salt together and salted once a week.—
He advices keeping the bone dust from the air, until used, as it will otherwise the air, until used, as it will otherwise lose a portion of its phosphorus.

TEMALE MEDICINES. - Diseases of

Ayer's Hair Vigor

For restoring Gray Hair to 3 natural Vitality and Color.

Wair Renewer.

A dressing which is at once agreeable healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original colo with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thick, by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sedi-ment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its-occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume. Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., PRACTICAL AND ANALYTICAL CHEMISTS, LOWELL, MASS. PRICE $1:00.
