WHAT AIN BRATTON THIS TIME.

"We notice in the last issue of the Volunteer that Cumberland county with her Democratic voters, must be censured."

"What is the matter with you neighbor Bratton?"

"Have we not done our duty?"

"Have we not all as a body marched forth to victory and increased our strength?"

"Would a loss of almost four hundred votes have suited you better?"

"We trust the Democracy of Cumberland county will like our report, with our thoughtful neighbors and forgive him his sins as he forgives those who trespass against him."

"We take the above from the Shippenburg Valley Sentinel of last week. We have, for a year or more, submitted to the vile innuendoes in not base calumnies of that vehicle of slander."

"This should have served as a hint to the accomplished and polished genius who is so desirous to increase his availing lies even when they are directed against himself."

"We have been aware that for the last fifteen months he has been compelled to obey the behests of a master—that he and others in our county are in the employ of a political gambler—a Harrisburg adventurer—to slander us and to outguess him."

"We know this and can prove it. But let us assure this reader that, notwithstanding the loathing and contempt which he shall no longer throw dirt at us with impunity."

"It is a lie, a positive downright lie, an intentional lie, that we censured the Democracy of Cumberland for not doing their duty in the late contest. The fact is, we censured that worthy gentleman for not doing his duty for the noble majority they had rolled up. It was a larger majority than we had anticipated, and we felt proud of it and so."

"Now demand, (as the Sentinel has made a direct charge that we censured the Democracy of Cumberland for not doing better at the late election,) that Mr. R. J. Coffey, editor, quote our language on the subject. Let him do so, stand branded as one who makes assertions, knowing them to be notorious falsehoods."

"Would a loss of almost four hundred votes have suited you (Bratton) better?"

"We might submit to be interrupted by some man, concerning our political wishes, but those who talked 'loyalty' during Lincoln's reign of terror, and those who during the same time sneaked off to Europe, that they might shirk danger, responsibility and expense, have no right to talk to us concerning our political desires. We faced the situation when such creatures as Coffey and his underling quailed before it. Few men connected with the press of Pennsylvania, were so ruthlessly beset, persecuted and maligned for four long years as we were. Our property was destroyed and our life threatened. A resolution had been passed in the 'Loyal League' that the Volunteer should be stopped 'at all hazards.' The week following our office was torn to pieces, $800 worth of materials broken up by radical soldiers. But the Volunteer did not stop. We sent to Harrisburg for journeymen, and by working night and day, the Volunteer appeared the week following. After that we slept in our office, for several weeks, and with the aid of our apprentices boys and a few friends, guided by our own pen, we kept the paper going. Let him do so, stand branded as one who makes assertions, knowing them to be notorious falsehoods."

"We are not a party man, concerning our political wishes, but those who talked 'loyalty' during Lincoln's reign of terror, and those who during the same time sneaked off to Europe, that they might shirk danger, responsibility and expense, have no right to talk to us concerning our political desires. "This is Radicalism exemplified. The poor clerk who pockets the labor of this frolicking administration—his salary is to be 'cut down,' but Grant's own $25,000 salary and the salaries of his cabinet officers, his foreign ministers and others are not reduced. A bauble. We venture to say that of the thousands of clerks in the employ of the administration, there is not one so deficient in intellect as this clerk. He is as near a non entity as it is possible for the Almighty to make a man. And yet this nobody pockets $25,000 a year and more, for doing nothing. He is seldom at Washington, but puts in his time at watering places, the race-course and places of amusement, occasionally barttering away an office or a contract for five or ten thousand dollars in the meantime."

"Let Grant, the nobody, if he desires to 'cut down salaries' first attend to the amount he himself receives; then let him look after others who receive from ten to twenty thousand a year. These are the salaries to cut down. Let the poor clerks alone; cutting their salaries down is an outrage, for they scarcely receive as much now as keeps soul and body together. Strike at the big dogs, Mr. Grant, and let the whif-fets alone."

"THE GREAT SHAME.—We have now written in all its bold and damning details the reasons and wherefore of the shameful frauds at the election in Philadelphia, and of the judicial turning, and twistings in the recent decision of Judges Brewster, Allison and Pierce, whereby they ousted District Attorney Sheppard and certain other officials, and installed their own party friends. Judge Brewster was pronounced the official Attorney General, by Grant, if elected; hence his connivance with and screening extended to the infamous frauds of the Return Judges of the election. He had an axe to grind; and he has got his pay for moral delinquency if not perjury. If Grant had been defeated by an overwhelming vote outside of Philadelphia, then the decision of the Court in the matter of last fall's election would have been different—the matter would have been decided. Allison, therefore assists Brewster to get Geary's name in, and to procure Brewster his reward; and Brewster decides the contested election case, in order that Allison may get his reward. Was there ever a more shameful transaction perpetrated?"

"THE NEW YORK EXPRESS says: 'One of the modern plans for extorting blackmail in this city is to purchase property in some quiet respectable and wealthy neighborhood, and threaten to open a gin mill on the site. The neighbors at once club together and buy the property for double or treble its real value.'"
