AN Economical Stockholder.—A good story is told of a gay and festive stockholder, who visited Portland, Me., from "away down East," on the recent occasion of an annual meeting and a fine dinner at the Kearsage. He must have been one of these conscientiousmen who insist on good dividends.—He didn't dine at the Kearsage, because he hadn't got his good "divy." So with all the importance becoming his position, he took a dignified stroll into an ovster saloon: oyster saloon:
"Say, mister, what do you ask for an oyster?"

"One cent apiece was the reply.
"I guess as how I'll have one," said the stackholder.

The bivalve was duly opened upon a plate, and he was invited to "pitch in."
"Say, mister' is this all there is for a cent?".
"Yes."

"Can't you afford to give us another? How d'ye take it?" "Well some swallow it whole, and some cut it up into hash. A good many ways. You pay your money and take your choice." "It won't hurt a fellow, will it,

"So stockholder went for it," and in about two minutes the good thing was out of sight, with four large soda crackers to keep it company. "No body hurt." "Say, mister, don't care if I do have another oyster. Do you take any less where a fellow eats two?"

"Well, don't mind. I'll have Oyster No. 2 was disposed of and with it eight of the aforesaid crackers. Stockholder shelled out the two cents, and was about to depart, feeling great ly refreshed, when he was advised to keep his money as he might need it to get home with, and he was welcome to the oysters. He took the two cents, the most thankful creature ever seen in those parts and departed. It is not reported whether he arrived safely at home, nor whether he got his gold divi-dends. But he's one of 'em.

HARD ON THE LADIES.—Some old fogy (an old d lapidated bacheror of course) gets off the following at the excourse) gets off the following at the expense of the ladies:

Taken as a class, women can contrive more outlandish and ugly fashions than one would think possible without the gift of inspiration. Take for instance the waterfill. First, it represented a bladder of Scotch soulf; next, it is hung down a woman's back like a canvass govered ham, of forwards it counter. down a woman's tack like a canvass covered ham; afterwards, it counterfeited a turnip on the back of the head; now, it sticks straight out behind, and looks like a wire muzzle on a greyhound. Nestling in the midst of this long stretch of hair, reposes a little batter cake of a bonnet like a jockey saddle on a long backed lace horse.

Merchants who refuse to advertise their business are like the foolish boy of whom one of our exchanges tells the following story:

"He was sent from Croton to New London, one day last Summer, with a bag of corn. The boy was gone all day, returning the bag unopened, which he dumped on the floor, saying:

"There's your corn; go and sell it, I

"Sold any?"

"No; I've been all over London with it, and nobody said anything concerning green corn. Two or three fellows asked me what I had in my bag, and I told them it was none of their business what it was "

what it was."

Now, business men who will not advertise their wares, say, in effect, to the public: "It's none of business what we have to sell." How, then, can they CHRISTIAN WEIGHT AND MEASURES —A Christian pound weighs sixteen ounces, and is at least evenly balanced. A christian yard is thirty-six 'inches, and is not shortened by the handling of the stick.

A christian ton is 2,000 pounds, and is not roughly judged, but conscientiously weighed.

A christian bushel contains 232 cubic

A christian busine contains 252 cuble inches, and is filled brimfull.

A christian's day's work is ten hours, and is diligently and faithfully engaged in the employer's business.

A christian bargain or ale is one in which there is neither cheating for profil not being for oain. fit nor lying for gain.

HOW TO KNOW A GOOSE .- "Mother, mother!" cried a young rook, returning hurriedly from its first flight; "I'm so frightened! I've seen such a sight!" "What sight, my son?" asked the rook.

"O, white creatures! screaming run-ning, and straining their necks, and liolding their heads ever so high. See, mother! there they go!" "Geese, my son, merely geese," cam-ly replied the parent bird, looking over the common, "Through life child, obthe common. "Inrough life child, observe, that when you meet any one who makes a great fuss about himself, and tries to lift his head higher than the rest of the world, you may set him down at once for a goose."

A queer l'umorist, who has had a hard time of it, says: "When a man hegins to go down hill he finds every-thing greased for the occasion."
