and very general prejudice to the contrary, it may be safely asserted that the value of the progeny depends fully as much, if not more, on the dam, than on the sire; and that from the neglect of this maxim many failures have progeded. The productions of nature are of this maxim many failures have pro-ceeded. The productions of nature are so varied that an ample store of the elements almost everywhere exist, one animal is found of a finer form than another, produced by accident, and these varieties afford the instruments with which the further improvement is effected. No organ in the animal below effected. No organ in the animal body shows the results of a superior organization more quickly and more durably than the eye; in every case of refined systems it is prominent, pertand liely, and forms a point of great importance in the selection of animals.—American Stock Journal. THE CHICKEN DISEASE.-We have THE CHICKEN DISEASE.—We have complaints from various sections in Eastern Pennsylvania of the prevalence of a disease among fowls of a very fatal character. Some people call it "chicken cholera," some pleur-pneumonia, and others liver complaint. It is not confined to chickens, but attacks turkeys, ducks, ac., as well. From all that appears to be known of it, the liver seems to be affected. and phough the disease to be affected, and hours it, the liver seems to be affected, and hours the disease proves fatal in from twenty-four to forty-eight hours, a remedy has been found for it, it must of course be adminfound for it, it must or course be administered in time. It is a 'blue pill,' known as such by the apothecaries. Give each chicken, as soon as seized with this disease, a two-grain blue pill, and if not out of danger by the following morning, and in the absence of any certainty w may very reasonably allow an equal share to each agent in the business of procreation. The male may confer the bust qualities of organization, and all the sensitive parts may be derived from the female. Notwithstanding the strong another—two pills almost universally effecting a cure! This is an easy and cheap remedy. We have heard of farmers in the adjoining counties losing as many as from fifty to one hundred turkeys within two and very few escaped sometoss, except those who provided for their fowls dry, cleanly houses, pure water, gravel, a little lime, old mortar or pulverized oyster shells, corn meal mush, and once a week a little chopped fresh meat. Those who thus provided for their feathered recent are never with their feathered progeny are never visited with liver complaint, croup, pip, &c., and it is well that this should be remembered.

A farmer from Bucks county, who did not suffer in this way, in answering a question said, that he had no doubt that unscrupulous persons were offering some of this diseased poultry for sale, and it behooved all to be cautious in making their purchases. Diseased poultry was easily known by its unnatural color and want of plumpness and condition. A word, therefore, to the wise, etc.—Germantown Telegraph.

DOES FARMING PAY.—Mr. X. A. Willard gives an account in the Rural New Yorker, of the dairy of Mr. William Peck, of Herkimer county, New York. He says:

Mr. Peck commenced business here

Mr. Peck commenced business here as a farmer about thirty-five years ago. He was a young man without aneans, and began by purchasing a few acres of land for which he run in debt. After paying for this, he bought other lands adjoining, from time to time until his home farm, or land lying in one body, now numbers some nine hundred acres. He also has a tract of six hundred acres of timber situated about eight miles north of his residence. Mr. Peck has accumulated all this property by dairy farming. He has never been a speculator in any sence of the word, but has made his money strictly by farming. He has brought up a large family, been several times to Europe, and his success shows that farming, under fair managementan be made a source of competence and wealth with capital to begin with and wealth with capital to begin with, beyond health, industry and economy. It is now some twenty years that Mr. Peck has been keeping a dairy of a hun-dred course.

A member of the Herkimer County Farmers' Club, states that last spring he plowed an old sod in which there was an immense number of grubs. He sowed upon three acres and three-quarters, soon after plowing, two bushels of course salt. This was dissolved by rain which came a day or two later. The ground was then thoroughly harrowed and planted to corn, about half a pint of leached ashes being placed with each hill. The yield was very large, and there was not the slightest injury by worms.
