Deepl and Thorought Working. Do farmers in general reflect upon and practice enough of what we have headed this article? We think not—we know to do so takes time and labor. But cultivators are now much aided in preparing properly their hand by great improvements in labor-saving machines and implements. How much plows, for instance, have been improved in the last thirty years, both for common in the last thirty years, both for common plowing and subsolving; also in cultivators, harrows and clod crushers. How wonderful are the results now proved by subsoiling, draining, trenching and pulverizing. All these operations take time, and, therefore, money. But do they not well repay the cost? The subsoil plow is very valuable. By its use the soil, of course, will be less wet in great rains and more moist in great-droughts. Generally, where the subsoil and drainage are practiced in comparison with only the common plow, the yield will be fifty per cent. more, and the crop in dry weather always green; but if the subsoil is a still clay, it should be turned to the surface only gradually. Many farmers are destroywonderful are the results now proved gradually. Many farmers are destroy-ing the productiveness of their farms by shallow work. As they find their crops shallow work. As they find to it crops are diminishing, they think only of extending their acres of surface, as they suppose their title deeds only give them a right to six inches of earth. But the law has in reality given them three farms instead of one, if they only will in some way work deep.

FLAT FEET IN HORSES .- M. Bronson writes Prof. Law, that his horse has been lane for two years, and is grow-ing worse. Within two or three weeks after being shod, he shows lameness in the other, getting over it in a few days if the shoes are taken off. He shows it most when first taken out of the stable, and is inclined to walk on snow rather than hard road. Turning around short appears to hurt him more than walking straight forward. He is flat footed, and has very tough, hard feet.

Prof. Law answers through the New York Tribune:
Fat feet are always liable to lameness, from the shoe setting down upon the sole some time after shoeing. The growth and strength of the horo should e encouraged and preserved as much as possible. When preparing for the shoe the sole should not be cut away below the level of the wall, so as to leave that without its natural support, exposed to breaking or splitting. It is better to bring the sole and wall to the same level by the use of the rasp, and to round the edges of the wall by the same means, in order to check any tendency to breaking down. Prepared in this way, these parts mutually support each other, and the wall does not so readily give way, nor allow the shoe to settle down upon the sole, or bruise it.

The shoes should be somewhat long-er than usual to protect the heel, and as the desired shape and form of the foot can only be attained after several successive shorings, it is often needful to apply a round bar shoe so as to throw a portion of the weight on the frog until the rest of the foot is sufficiently strong to bear it alone. The shoring should be done by the best workman you can secure, and the toughness and growth of horn should be sought by daily smearing of the hoof-sole included— with a mixture in equal parts of tar

TO MAKE CUTTINGS GROW.-It has been ascertained that a cutting will develop roots much sooner in moist sand than in rich soil. But the sand cannot maintain its growth for any length of time. To prepare pots for raising cuttings they should be filled nearly to the brim with rich garden from dark and pores a not draw and nearly to the brim with rich garden loom—dark and porous, noted yey and soggy; then pour in one inch in depth of scouring—tad—sea sand will do as well as the yellow sand. Wet this thoroughly, and place the cuttings, from which all but the three or four upler leaves have been removed, close to the side of the pot; the contact of the ware against the stem of the cutting promotes its growth. Pies the wet sand firmly around the tiny stem. A great deal of your chance for success in raising slips or cuttings depends upon this ing slips or cuttings depends upon this - Plant as many cuttings as the pot will hold, from six to a dozen, accordwill hold, from six to a dozen, according to the size of your pot; when they are firmly set in the sand, two or three can be insected in the middle of the pot. Set them away in a dark, warm place for twenty-four or thirty six hours. Thus, cuttings will grow quickly in a hot bed; because the temperature is not dry. Their growth depends a great deal upon light, heat and moisture. If a bid is dose at the base of a cutting it will strike root more easily—is not so a bud is nose at the base of a cutting it will strike root more easily—is not so apt to decay. The root shoots from a bud, and the lower down it is the sureryour success. When the leaves drop the plant is commencing to grow; if they wither on the stem, it has begun to decay. By following these directions. to decay. By following these directions no one can fail to grow all kinds of house pants. Roses and all the ra est flowers of the greenhouses are propagated in this manner. in this manner.

CAUSTIC LIME FOR INSECTS.—There are few insects that can withstand a dose of freshly slacked time. We always keep a quantity off it on hand ready for sprinkling over plants infested with slugs of bugs of any kind, and it has always proved effectual if applied at the right time. Last year, the whitepine worm attacked nearly every pinetree on our place, but two or three dustings of lime when the trees were wet with dew banished or destroyed this pe-t, which in a few days, if unchecked, would have stripped every leaffrom our trees. The asparagus beetle appeared upon our beds of this vegetable in countless numbers, but a few doses of lime have made them leave, and the plants are healthy and vigorous at the present time,

We have driven from our garden the rose-slug, cabbage-flea, and numerous other nests by the use of this weed. CAUSTIC LIME FOR INSECTS.—There rose-slug, cabbage-flea, and numerous other pests, by the use of this same material, and we have never observed that the plants were damaged by its use. A correspondent at the West says he had entirely checked the ravages of he had entirely checked the ravages of the Colorado potato-bug by freely using lime upon the plants, and we have no doubt that others might be equally successful by a persistent use of this material. Line is so chea, that no one can object to its use on that so ore, and even it it fails to kill the insects, it will usually do the land good wherever applied.—Hearth and Home,

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to ils natural Vitality and Color. A dressing which

ened, fulling hair checked, and bald-ness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed or the glands atrophied and decayed But such as remain can be swed for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the heir with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING. nothing else can be found to desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Probably nover before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as b'is excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to care the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of theses and to young children, it is liable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Group, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them. Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the cases expend the consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. CHRONIC DISEASES, during the last sixty years. So highly is it estemed, that the demand is constantly increase iteemed, that the demand is constantly increase ing, not only at home, but we are duity receiving applications for it from the most remote sections of the country—North, East, South West, To meet this demand, as well as to prevent the public from being imposed upon we have determined to put this PBEFA. ATION, in such a form that it may be within reach of everybody everywhere.

Other Preparations, far-inferior to the genuine, having, been put out by certain parties, have been mistaken by some for our own, and as a matter of course the old Preparation of D. Fahrney & Son has been made to suffer some in reoutation, therefore to prevent this mistake, as well as to meet the increasing demand monitoned above, we have concluded to send the medicine out in LIQUID FOICM.

We will about the same time put out the original in package form for the benefit of some of our the customers and others who may yet prefer the customers and others who may it recommending the current of the customers and others who may yet prefer the customers and others.

We will also at the same time put out the original of the other than the same time put out the original of th

HAVERSTICK BROTHERS,
No. 10 North Hanover St.
Feb. 18, 1870—ly DROTECTION FROM LIGHTNING PROTECTION FROM LIGHTNING.
To those interested I would say that during the senson of Iss.7. Ind the Rod of the Cumberland Lightning Rod Company, erected upon my house and burn. In the severe storm of the 20th of June last, the Rod upon my house was struck by a very heavy bolt of Lightning meeting the point and running down the Rod coming in contact with the same a small portion of the fluid left upon the sponting, meeting it in several places, passed down the corners of the building taring off the corner boards and cracking the plastering in one corner of the room, three children sleeping upon the floor were not wakened. Upon notliying the company at their office, in the city of Cleveland, Mr. M. S. Clapp, came within in days from the time of said notice and paid me fally for the damage to my entire satisfaction ($30) thirty dollars. In every way this c mpany have been honorable and lyad the end not rested upon the tin spout my building would not have been harmed. I would recommend the cable Rod to any one who have buildings to protect.

The above is a correct statement in accordance ings to protect.

The above is a correct statement in accordance with the facts and seen Mr. Clapp, by the above amount and it is ample to repair the loss.

ISAAO FRY,

We are pleased to say that the Pennsylvania Lightning Rod Company, of this state, incorporated by an act of Legislature, with an authorized capital of $100,000,000, a large proportion of which has been paid in, have purchased the entire outfit and business of the well known Uleveland company, in this State. The object of this foreign dealers and irresponsible venders who foreign dealers and irresponsible venders who are using a cheap and inferior article, such as galvanized iron and joined Rods, they not thein presponsible for the damage, care not what they use.

The Home Company guarantee a protection

helng responsible for the damage, care not what they use.

This Home Company guarantee a protection for 10 years, and alse every way reliable and are receiving the patronage of the public as they fully wester. The Rod adopted by this company, is continuous without joints or breaks, being composed of 4 large telegraph and 4 copper wires combined in rope form, and is recom-mended by the highest authorities. The Home office of this company is at the corner of Second and Locust street, Harrisburg.
