BARN BURNED AND ATTEMPTED OUT-RAGE.—On Saturday evening last, a rough looking specimen of humanity, of the 'bummer'' persuasion, came to the house of Samuel Sharp, Jr., in Newton township, about half a mile west of Newville just north of the Cumberland Valley railroad. He was asked if he wished to see anybody, and replied that he did not. Shortly afterwards he went off in the direction of the barn, where he slept during the night. Early on Sunday morning the girl living with Mr. Sharp went to the barn to milk the cows, and while in the cow-stable, this same man descended from the hav-loft, laid violent hands on the girl and afterented to outrage her person. He threatened to kill her it she made any esistance, but she shricked for a sistance, and Mr. Sharp, who was in bed at the time, hastily drew on his clothes and ran o her relief. As soon as the villian knew hat succor was at hand, he fled across the fields; and when Mr. Sharp arrived at the barn, he found the girl almost exnausted by her struggle with the beast. At the same time the hay-mow was discovered to be in flames. As it was soon vident that the flames could not be subued, every effort was made to get out the live stock. There were six valuable horses, in the stable, and three of them were saved and three were burned. Ten head of cattle were also burned, as well as the entire summer's crop of grain, and all the farming implements, vehicles and gears. The carriage house adjoining the ourn was also destroyed, together with the contents of the corn crib. Mr. Sharp's loss will be heavy; there was an insurance of $1,400 upon the barn, but none on the stock or crops. As soon as the neighbors assembled.

and it was found that nothing could stay he ravages of the flames, a large party tarted in nursuit of the miscreaut, and by scouring over the entire country. on traced him to the neighborhood of Stoughstown; thence they followed him to the vicinity of Shippensburg, where he was arrested. He gave his name as Peter O'Rorke, and on being brought to Newville, was identified by 'Mr. Sharp's fired girl as the min she enconatored in the stable. After a hearing before Esquire Barr, O'Rorke was committed to prison to await his trial, and was brought hero on Monday morning." If our information is correct, this man

O'Rorke, is a re-ular "revolving bumner," who was committed to our prison for vagrancy within a week or so. These vagrants are a terror to the entire comunity-they visit our town in gangs, beg and piffer during the day, get drunk and are committed to prison in the eveing. There are entire families who follivelihood. We see the same familiar aces upon our streets, day after day. The committed to prison by the Burgess or ustices of the peace. When they think they have bled our town sufficiently, they betake themselves to the country and over-run all its highways and by-ways.what these stragglers insolently demand, for fear of injury to their persons or property. Night after night their barus are Hed with bummers; they dare not drive them off for fear they will return and fire their buildings; and if they let them reessness in the use of fire, for most of smoke a pipe. And even when lodging and meals are furnished them, they frequently repay the kindness by insolence ind outrage to the females about the house. This evil cries foully for redress. It then turn them loose upon the communi utrage women. If the existing laws are not stringent enough, let us have laws be subscribed. that will meet the case, and let every ummer that comes to Cymberland coun ty be committed to prison for thirty, sixty or ninety days, and let them be compelled to earn their mainténance by breaking stone, or in some other useful employment. If this course of treatment were naugurated, it would soon become known throughout the fraternity of bummers and they would take good care to keep beyond the limits of our county. "COMPLIMENTS OF THE SEASON."-We take this occasion to wish our hosts of friends-bly and little, old and young rich and poor-a royal, old-fashioned, Merry Christmas and a right happy New Year. May Kris-kingle come with his arms full of presents for the children; portunity will be respect. We trust and may there be many a happy reunion around the Christmas hearth, where, rubbed afresh, the phospher traces of the rubbed afresh, the phospher traces of the olden days shall burn again. prosper." BONED TURKEY .- This is a favorite dish it evening parties and may thus be prepared: Boil a turkey in as little water as may thus be, until the bones can be easily separated from the mest. Remove all the skin; slice, mixing together the light and dark parts. Season with sait and pepper. Take the liquid in which the turkey was boiled, having kept it warm, and pour it on the meat; mix it well. Shape it like a loaf of bread, wrap it in cloth, and press with a heavy weight for a few hours. When served up it is cut in thin slices. Chicken can be p.epared in the same way.

HEAVY Hogs .- Our Democratic friend, Mr. John Pollinger, of Upper Allen twp. killed four hogs of the Chester white breed, sixteen months old, recently, whose combined weight was 1,870 pounds. The heaviest one weighed 496 pounds.

Up to within the last few days, everybody was saying to his neighbor, "ain't this nice weather?" But it is not quite so "summery" now. Straw hats, linen coats, paim leaf fans and low necked article than one of Conlyn's beautiful dresses are at a discount.

REGIMENTAL REUNION The first an nual regulon of the 126-h Begiment Penn sylvania volunteers, was light in Chambersburg, on The day latt Over two hundred members of the legiment were present, and the occasion was a most de-lightful one. Col. Jangs G. Elder was called upon to preside, with Capt. W. H. Davison and Sergt, Seiders as Vice Presidents and Lientenant Mackey and Sergt.

Palmer as Secretaries. An eloqueut and appropriate address of welcome was delivered by Lieut, Col. D. W. Rowe, after which the annual oration was pronounce ed by Adjutant John Stewart. He took for his theme, " The viewents of a true citizenship as illustrated by the war," and the effort was probably the happiest of his life,-conched in pure and vigorous Anglo-Saxon, abounding in passages of rarest beauty, and delivered with grace and self possession. Gen. E. B. Tyler, of Ohio, who com manded the brigade in which the reginent was placed, was discovered in the undience, and a motion was made that he be requested to step within the bar, and that a recess of ten minutes be alowed to permit the regiment to take the and of their old commander. As the general rose from his seat to comply, he was greeted with a storm of applause. On motion, Major R. S. Brownson wa elected President for the ensuing year, Thad, M. Mahon was chosen to deliver the address of welcome, and William Kennedy selected to deliver the next Annual Oration, at Greeneastle. December

The soldiers present, together with number of invited guests, then repaired o Repository Hall, where a sumptuous panquet was partaken of. After the viands had been thoroughly discussed, a number of toasts were proposed and responded to in the following order: "The Union," responded to by Lieut. Jere Cook; "The patriotic women of America;" responded to by William Kennedy: "Our Dead Comrades" Drank in silence. "The Armu." responded to by Gen, E. B. Tyler: "The citizen soldier," by Lieut, Geo. W. Welsh; "Our friends of other reginonts," by Capt. G. W. Skinner; "Tho citizens of the border," by Cant. James Potts. Several pieces of patriotic poetres were then recited by Lieut, J. W. Fletch er and others; after which the tables we o removed, and the festivities closed with a grand promenade concert and hop,

CHRISTMAS.

The gladsome and eventful day of the year is here. Eighteen hundred and seventy years ago, in a stable in the village of Bethlehem, was born One whom Isaiah, in his beautiful prophetic vision, thus describes:

" For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the governmen shall be upon His shoulders; and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace." The world never before or since wit-obtaining a view of the new-born infant in the rude manger, where the beholders of the grandest and most sublime spectacle which ever greeted the vision of mortals. Their pilgrimage to Bethlehem has been sung in story, and sung for well nigh nineteen hundred years, and will be until time itselshall be no more. The same beautiful moon and stare which look down upon us looked down upon these men in their blessed pilgrimage nearly nineteen centuries ago. same sun give us light and warmth, which cast its effulgent and beneficent rays over the prople of Bethlehem. The same God who ruled then, rules now for all and over all, and will rule forever more. And yet what wonderful changes have taken place in the centuries which have rolled down the abyss of time.

The Christmas time comes, we trust, laden with "good and cheer" for all. Were the world as it should be, and the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as Ye would be done by," faithfully carried out, from one year's end to the other there would be a season akin to the one we are now commemorating. But so long as human nature remains as it is so long as the " Prince of Peace" is not nermitted to have un lisputed away over the minds and hearts of men, so long will crime and wickedness and misery prevail. The old year has nearly run its course, and it is the duty and interest of all to ponder well and reflect seriously before entering upon the new. "There is a time for all things," said the wise Solomon. The time for making and keeping good resolutions is now. A truce to moralizing, however. We wish our readers, one and all, a " Merry Christmas." May their homes be the abodes of peace, happiness and comfort. and may their lives be a continued season of sunshine and prosperity.

"A merry Christmus, then, to all, We echo the good wish once more For sure the greeting will not pail." Though we repeat it o'er and o'er—

"To each and all, to high and low, That weeting is the old one still, The tiding, uttered long ago, Of peace, and kindness and good will."
