To WEAN A COLT.—It is not necessary nor even desirable that in weaning, the colt should be removed from the mare. It is a good plan to have a closed stall or box for her colt next to each mare's stall. She can then communicate in her own way with her colt, and will not be so uneasy as she would be were it removed out of sight, nor will the colt suffer in any way. Care must be taken to give the colt water four times a day, and feed with the best of the early-cut hay, and gradually a few oats, a handful at a feed at first, until a pint twice a day is fed. Colts must be kept thriving if a good horse is wanted. The curry-comb must be used, but gently; the young animal be caressed and taught not to fear but to love its owner; to become used to the various movements made around the stable, and the various articles contained therein. It should be taught "to lead" now, if this has been neglected up to this time. If there is any danger of the mare becoming troubled with excess of milk, it must be drawn from her, and dry feed be given her until all danger is past. When she is quite dry the colt may take exercise with her, but previous to this it will be better in

. DOUBLE YOUR CORN CROPS .- Now is the time to secure your seed corn. Do not postpone it until seeding time. By careful selection and proper culture can be made to pro e two or three ears, instead of one. Every farmer should secure the best seed offered for sale, after the crop matures, select the best at the time of husking the corn, always choosing from stalks that produce two ears. Take the lower one. But why take the lower one, you inquire, when the upper one is generally the largest? For two reasons—first, to three ears, instead of one. Every farthe largest? For two reasons-first, to have your corn throw out ears near the ground, and; second, to make it mature early. By selecting seed corn from the field in this way, from year to year, you will find that the corn will produce two and three ears to each stalk. We offer yellow, white and half white; also mulatto corn, considered the best seed corn ever offered the farmer, as great pains have been taken to secure the best seed that could be found, grown and improved until we can now offer the farmer the best seed corn in America.

FROZEN PLANTS.—Some clear, still night Jack Frost will find his way into the lady's parlor or chamber, in which she keeps her plants, and, ah me! next morning her sweet pets will be as rigid as the artificial flowers on her bonnet. Now, what shall be done? Don't hurry them into a warm room by the side of a stove, as you would a frost-bitten chicken, Let them remain where they were frozen; close the window shutters or drop the curtains, so as to make the room quite dark; then sprinkle the plants with cold water direct from the cistern, and wait for the result. Do not allow the room to become warmer than forty-seven degrees for twenty-four hours. If a few drops of spirits of cam phor are thrown into the dish of water before sprinkling it, it will be all the better. Plants treated in this way, though frozen so badly that the water will freeze on when sprinkled, yet by keeping the room dark and cool for an entire day they will come out unharm

HEMEDY FOR SORE SHOULDERS .-A correspondent of the Canada Farmer writes relative to sore or galled shoulders of horses: 'Wash them well every night and morning with a strong solu tion of oak bark, made by boiling bark in water, then rub them well with linseed oil.

Annoit them every night and morning with a salve made of three parts of linseed oil and one part of quick-lime. To make horses' shoulders tough, wash the shoulders well twice a day, for a week before working, with the oak bark solution.—Moore's Rural. bark solution .- Moore's Rural.

EVERYTHING IN ITS PLACE.-Farmers should have certain places for all Henry 2. Helmbold's Genuine Prepa their farm implements, and each one should always be kept in its place when not in use. They have to lose fifteen or twenty minutes in hunting up a hoe, shovel or otherwise, with two or three men ready to go to the field, is not very profitable. "A place for everything and everything in its place," is a maxim that farmers should remember, above all other persons.
