Agricultural.

HINTS ABOUT WORK.

The first work in the spring, on our farm, when the snow begins to melt, is to let off any water that accumulates on the surface. No matter how carefully the dead furrows and outlets may have been made in the fall, there is always more or less to be done in the spring, to provide free egress for the water. A few hours' work with a hoe and spade, at this season, will often let off thousands of gallons of water, which otherwise would soak into the soil and keep it wet and cold for several weeks. We would urge every reader of the Agriculturist to attend to this matter. We are sure that many a farmer would in this way save enough in one year to pay for a dozen good papers and a score of the best agricultural books. In letting off a shallow pool of water, the easiest and quickest plan is to commence at the pool and make a little furrow with a hoe, letting the water follow you. But where the the water is in a somewhat deep basin, with little apparent fall from it to the outlet, a better plan is to commence at the outlet, and dig with a spade up to the basin; and in order to be sure that you lose no fall, dig the ditch deep enough to let the water follow you up to the basin. In this way we have rarely found a basin that could not be drained. There is nothing that people are so often deceived about, as the amount of fall to land.

Spring is a good time to Underdrain.—Unless we can do the work in the winter, spring is the best time to dig underdrains. The land is full of water, and it is much easier digging than in the summer or autumn. And it is no slight advantage to have water enough to level by. If the water flows freely through the tiles when laid, and care is exercised in filling the ditches, and packing the soil round the tiles tight enough to hold them in place, there is little or no danger of their stopping afterwards.

The Cost of Draining depends a good deal on the nature of the land and the depth of the drains. In sandy or mucky land a ditch 2½ feet deep for tiles should be dug, with labor at $1.50 per day, for 15 cents a rod; 3 feet deep, 20 cents a rod. On heavier land, nearly free from stones, a ditch 2½ to 3 feet deep will cost 25 cents a rod. A good ditcher, at these prices, can make two dollars a day. An unskilfull man who cuts the ditches unnecessarily wide, and is fond of using the pick, might work just as hard and not earn a dollar a day.

Spring Wheat is the first crop to be sown in the spring. We hope our readers will bestow extra pains in putting it in well, for we anticipate considerable demand for wheat next fall.

Barley, taking one year with another, is a well paying crop on good land and in the hand of those who know how to manage it. But it is a poor crop on poor land. A careless, slovenly farmer whose land is poor, wet, and foul, should not attempt to raise barley.—Oats will pay him better—or rather, he will lose less. As a rule, the earlier barley can be sown, the better. But a still more important point is, to get the land in good condition. It cannot be too fine and mellow. On very rich, mellow soil, sown early, 1½ bushel per acre, drilled in, is sufficient seed; but on average good land 2 bushels is none too much. In England, the best barley is grown on light, sandy land, made rich and firm by consuming a turnip crop on the land, the previous winter by sheep; but in this country our heaviest crops are raised on soil of a more loamy character. The essential point on these heavier soils is, to get them thoroughly fine and mellow the year or fall previous. Barley is sometimes sown on a clover sod, but unless it was plowed last fall is not a good plan. As a rule, barley is sown on corn stubble, and is followed by winter wheat.

Oats do not require as careful culture and nice judgement as barley, but they will well repay far better treatment than they generally receive. They will grow well on land too mucky for barley, and a great crop is sometimes obtained on heavy clays. We believe in thick seeding for this crop, and would drill in not less than 3 bushels per acre, or 3½ bushels if sown broadcast.

Peas should be sown early. If on sod land, we should plow as soon as the frost was out of the ground, and drill in the seed, 3 bushels per acre, as fast as the land was plowed and harrowed. After drilling roll the land smooth. Two bushels of plaster per acre, sown before or after the peas come up, as most convenient, usually prove beneficial.

Oats and Peas sown together is a favorite crop with us. If the land is rich enough and in good order, and the crop is sown early, a great amount of valuable fodder and grain may be obtained per acre. We would sow 2½ bushels peas and 1½ bushel oats per acre. They can be sown together with an ordinary grain-drill, but it is necessary to see that they are well mixed in the drill. Roll the land after the drill, and pick off everything that would interfere with a mowing machine. On rough land they are a troublesome crop to harvest, but when the land is so smooth that the machine can be set to run as close as a mower they can be cut and delivered in bundles with a self-raking raking.

Potatoes.—We are inclined to think that farmers seldom plant their potatoes early enough. If planted earlier and deeper, and the land was harrowed repeatedly with Thomas's harrow before the potatoes came out of the ground, and afterwards, far less hoeing would be required, and we think a better yield would be obtained.

Harrowing Winter Wheat is a practice we would earestly commend. Many farmers are afraid that the harrow will pull up the wheat, but such is not the case. If the land is dry, a good heavy, forty-toothed harrow will destroy many weeds, break the crust, stir the soil, and greatly benefit the wheat.

Harrowing Meadows and Pastures is often very beneficial, and we are surprised that the practice is so generally neglected. Put three horses to a harrow and get on and ride. Harrow the field both ways, and lap, if necessary.—American Agriculturist.

Medical.

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla,

For Purifying the Blood

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its many of which are truly marvellous. Inveterate cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scrofulous affections and disorders, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section in the country that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfelt tenant of the organism undermines the constitution and invites the attack of enfeebling or fatal diseases without exciting a suspicion of its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then on one favorable occasion, rapidly develop in to one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, tubercles may be suddenly deposited in the lungs or heart, or tumors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin or foul ulcerations on some part of the body.—Hence the occasional use of a bottle of this Sarsaparilla is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find in medicine relief, and at length, cure, by the use of this Sarsaparilla: St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Sore Ears, and other eruptions, or visible forms of Scrofulous disease Also in the more concealed forms, as Dyspepsia Dropsy, Heart disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Neuralia, and the various Ulcerous affections of the muscular and nervous systems.

Syphilis and Venereal and Mercurial Diseases are cured by it, though a long time is required for subduing these obstinate maladies by any medicine. But long continued use of this medicine will cure the complaint. Leucorrhœa or Whites, Uterine Ulcerations, and Female Diseases, are commonly soon relieved and ultimately cured by its purifying and invigorating effect. Minute directions for each case are found in our Almanac, supplied gratis. Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of extraneous matters in the blood, yield quickly to it, as also Liver Complaints, Torpidity, Congestion or Inflamation of the Liver, and Jaundice, when arising, as they often do, from the rankling poisons in the blood. This Sarsaparilla is a great restorer for the strength and vigor of the system Those who are Languid and Listless, Despondent, Sleepless, and troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fears, or any of the affections symtomatic of Weakness, will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.
