HOW TO DRIVE A HORSE.

BY A. M.

Young man, I see you are about to take a drive this morning and will offer you some advice. Your horse is restive and wants to be off before you are ready, so you may as well break him of this now as at any other time, and hereafter you will find it has been a half hour well spent. Just give me the reins while you put your foot on the stop as if to get in; the horse makes a move to go, I tighten the reins and say whoa. Now put your foot on the step again; the horse makes another move, I hold the reins and speak to him again. The horse is getting excited. Pat him a little on the neck and talk to him soothingly. Put your foot on the step again and repeat this process until the horse will stand still for you to get in and adjust yourself in your seat and tell him to go. A few such lessons will train him so that he will wait for your order before starting.

Now, as your horse has just been fed, drive him at a very gentle pace for the first two or three miles until he warms up and his body becomes lighter. But before you start let me show you how to hold the reins. Take them in your left hand, have them of equal length from the bit and to cross each other in your hand the off side one resting on your first finger, the other on the forth finger, the back of the hand upwards.—Now, in guiding the horse you have only to use the wrist joint, which will direct him either right or left as you wish. Keep your hand steady with a gentle pressure on the bit,—no jerking or switching of the reins. If more speed is wanted, take the whip in your right hand to be gently used for that purpose—be careful not to apply it any harder than is necessary to bring him up to the required speed.

Speak to him soothingly and intimate in the most gentle manner what you want him to do and he will try to do it. So noble an animal should not be handled roughly, nor over driven.

When you return, have the harness removed at once and the horse rubbed down with a wisp of straw or hay.—Give him a bite of grass or hay and let him cool off before being watered or fed. Every one who handles a horse or has anything to do with one, should in the first place cultivate his acquaintance, let him know you are his friend and prove it to him by your kind treatment; he needs this to inspire confidence and when that is gained, he is your humble servant.

If your horse gets frightened at any unusual sight or noise, do not whip him, for if you do, he will connect the whipping with the object that alarmed him and make him afraid of it ever after. If he merely shies at an object, give him time to examine it, which with some encouraging words from the driver will persuade him to pass it.—You get frightened, too, sometimes, and would not like to be whipped for it.

MULES ON THE FARM.

There has always been a great deal of prejudice in some parts of the country in regard to using mules on the farm. It is true if they are not properly handled and broken in the first place they are apt to be unruly at times, but not more so than some horses, and if properly broken and kindly cared for, they are not nearly so liable to run away or frighten as horses. It is true they do not look so well to a carriage as horses, but where economy is consulted there is ceratinly much to be said in favor of the mule, as it does not cost much over half the amount to feed and shoe a pair of mules for one year, that it does a pair of horses, and, taking the year through they will do more work, besides this, they will last twice as long.

These are all important considerations in determining the most economical animal to use on a farm. Every farmer, in moderate or straightened circumstances, is willing to forego something in the matter of pleasure if thereby his gains are greater. If an animal can be raised to the age of usefulness, for less expense, can be kept after that time on cheaper food, if his sickness and shoeing cost the owner less money, and his working years are greater, a farmer can well afford to accept some drawbacks in the matter of appearance or ease of management. But there are many purposes for which the mule is almost universally regarded as the superior of the horse. One such employment is plowing among corn, potatoes, and other cultivated crops. For this purpose the mule has many advantages.—His feet are small and his disposition is to put them down very nearly in a line. This being the case he seldom injures ridges, hills or crops by treading on them. The plowing of cultivated crops must be attended to during the severest heat of summer. Horses are rendered more impatient by insects, and are less able to endure the extreme heat of the weather than mules; their skin is also easier chafed and they are much more liable to be laid up at the most important period of the year by various diseases then prevalent.

In the south the mule is almost exclusively employed for plantation labor, as well as for draft purposes on the road. For plowing cotton, corn and tobacco, or even for turning the shallow furrows, generally seen there in the grain fields, or those appropriated to cultivated crops, the mule seems singularly adapted. His gait is fast enough for his negro driver, whether on the turnpike or in the furrow. He is not epicurean in his tastes, and warm weather agrees with him. A mule in a cotton field is the right thing in the right place.

Breeding mules for the cotton and sugar plantations of the south has long been a very profitable branch of business in the Blue Grass regions in Kentucky. They are taken south in droves or are transported in cars or on boats. New Orleans, Mobile and Atlanta are now the leading mule markets.

An Irishman, to whom some wonderful story was told on authority of a penny paper, disbelieved it, saying he distrusted all he saw in 'cheap print.'

'Why shouldn't you believe the cheap paper,' he was asked.

'I don't think they can afford to speak the truth for the money.'

Coal.

CHEAPEST COAL!

The undersigned agrees to furnish coal to all parties, either for family or limeburners' use, at cheap rates, provided, they accept the following:

1. To order all coal in Company cars.
2. To charge nine weight, irrespective of any loss in shipment by leaky cars, &c.
3. To deliver your coal as it comes to hand, without re-screening, dirt and all.
4. That in the above-mentioned mode of business you will lose 10 per cent., so that when 20 tons are bought and paid for, you really get but 18 tons. To this fact all regular dealers will testify.
5. To strive to get your coal from any breaker you may desire, but as we have to receive what is sent, be it Summit Branch, Big Mick, or Short Mountain from Lykens Valley, some of these being not so desirable, the same applying to the hard coal breakers also. You take it as it is sent to us.
6. As this kind of business is done on the Railroad Company's sidings, do not ask to see a sample of coal. They do not allow more than twenty-four hours' use of sidings, we therefore cannot show what we can furnish you.

Should you wish to purchase coal where it can be seen at all times, kept in the dry, re-screened and weighed before delivery, call at either yard of the subscriber, where your orders will be promptly filled, and promise to save you the loss and vexation caused by using dirty and inferior coal, thereby giving your supply for less money than any one can do by furnishing the run of mine
