CAUTION! CAUTION!

A LL persons are hereby cautioned against a training a swinder who represents himself as my igent. He is going about soliciting persons to buy lighting Rods, which he represents as my Eluctric Pent Rods. In some instances he has produced a certificate, purporting to be from me, authorizing him to act as my agent. He has not confined himself to this city, but has been operating on the unsuspecting farmers in the adjacent country. In one instance, a building on which one of these rods had been placed, with assumates that was one of my minke, was struck by highining and burnt to the ground. The point was brought on w factory, and on examination proved to be a piece of cest from potished. Complaints of this kind are coming in daily. I now give notices that I have no agent with 70 miles of Philadelphia; and all orders must be adhered to the Pactory, VINE STREET, above 12th, Philadelphia, where they will receive prompt attention. This is the only place where the genume ILLECTRIC MACNET LICHTNING ROD can be procured in this city, wholesale or retail, as the Elective inducince wholly thought to myself. THE GREATEST HISTORICAL AND ALLEGORICAL PRINT OF THE AGE.

AND ALLEGORICAL PRINT OF THE AGE,

IN Commemoration of that most important event in the AMERICAN RIPOLUTION, THE BRITISH SURRENDERING THEIR ARMS TO GENIRAL WASHINGTON after their deleat at Yorktown, Virginia, October, 1781.
The engraving is executed by Tanner, Vallance, Kearney & Co., from no original drawing by J. F. Remonth, and published by Benjamin Tanner, Engraver, Philadelphia. The size of the print is 25 by 31 inches, nod was originally published to Subscribers at $12 in the sheet.

EXPLANATION.

The History—In the first and grand plan are exhib-were present at the transaction, with a Latinut accross of each.

In the first group is seen General Washington, General Rockambeau, General Luncohi, Colonel Hamilton, an old infiner enger to contemplate the scene, Billy the servant, and the Hore of General Washington.

In the second group are American and French Officers, General Knox, Secretary Wilson, the Duke de Luazua and the Marquis de La Fayette.

The third group is descriptive of the British surrendering their arms. Lord Cornwallis, General O'Hara, Commodore Simmons, Colonel Tarlion, with two hagers cut off, Lacutenant-Colonel Ralph Abercromice, Licational Colonel Dundas, Lord Chewton, &c. Lord Cornwallis appears presenting his sword to the first General Officer he meets, but General Washington is pointed out of him as the only person to whom he is to surrender his sword.

to him as the only person to whom he is to surrender his sword.

On the heights and in the distance are the different armies and crowds of speciators. The House of Secretary Wilson, occupied by Lord Cornwalns and his stall, which was bombarded and pierced with balls; the Marquis de La Payette having jennarked that they were carrying dishes for the dinner of Lord Cornwallis, asked leave of General Washington to serve him a dish of his own cooking, and immediately after several bomb-shellfell through the roof on the table, and wounded some and dispersed the party.

The ALECONY.—On the left is created a monument in honor of those illustrious heroes who sacrificed their tives and fortunes to insure to their catizens, the Liberty and Independence they now enjoy.
