AND LECTURER. John Godfrey Saxe is a native of Vermo and was born at Highgate, Franklin county, June 2, 1816. After finding himself in the grammar school at St. Albans, he entered Middlebury College, where he distinguished bimself by his scholarship, and whence he gradu ated in 1839. After reading law at Lockport, New York, and St. Albans, he was admitt ed to the bar at the latter place in 1843, and speedily acquired an honorable legal reputati on and plenty of practice. The miseries of his "Briefless Barrister" were not sugge ated by experience. His dalliance with the n suses was deferred till he had established a position. A few years ago Mr. Saxe assumed the post of editor of the Burlington Sentinel, one of the oldest papers in Vermont, which he conducted with great ability for several years. Though still, we believe, a contributor to this paper, he has relinquished the charge of it, and disposed of his pecuniary interest in it. Mr. Saxe has filled the office of State's attorney, and is now inspector of customs at Burlington. Latterly, he has entered the field as a lecturer, in prose and verse, and the most brilliant success has attended him in his career. In a range of country reaching from Portland to St. Louis, wherever he has lectured, he has attracted brilliant and overflowing audiences, and the announcement of his name is what theatrical managers call a "sure card."-During the past winter, Mr. Saxe lectured no fewer than ninety times, no American lecturer enjoying a greater or wider popularity. As a poet, Mr. Saxe will hereafter be known by his comic effusions, though his serious efforts are very graceful and elegant. Next to Holmes. he is the most successful comic poet this country has ever produced. He resembles Holmes in the high and brilliant finish of his verses, but he has one advantage over Holmes in his faculty of punning. Saxe's puns have a sort of impromptu air-they fall naturally into the current of his verse-his train of thought or course of narrative never being diverted for the sake of embracing the pun-Dr. Johnson could never have read one of the brow, nor do we think, if he were alive, May 31.1856-16 that he would have considered his pocket-book unsafe in Mr. Saxe's company—notwithstand- With a Large and Superior Assortment of ing he classed punsters and pickpockets in the WATCHES, JEWELRY, AND unsafe in Mr. Saxe's company-notwithstandsame category. The "Briefless Barrister" and the "Cold Water Man," are felicitous specimens of his punning faculty. The former of these poems was the first he ever published.

COLD LEVER WATCHES, Duplex, Lepines, mand Quartiers, apprices to suite very body. Also among these poems was the first he ever published.

BREASTPINS and Ear-Rings, of the latest styles. It had a great run, and every now and then it is revived and goes the rounds over again .-Among the longer poems of our author are " Progress," the "Times," and the "Money King." The latter has not yet been published. as it forms part of the stock in trade. These are satirical poems-but in Mr. Saxe's hands satire accomplishes what it seldom performs, a good work. The reason of this is, that Mr. Saxe never indulges in personality-he has no private malice to gratify-and though he is intelerant of folly and vice, he does not war against individual offenders. His native geniality saves him from committing the ordinary mistakes of satirists. Among his minor pieces, the "Rhyme of the Rail" is a great favorite both in this country and in England. It was first published in the Knickerbocker Magazine. It is a very good specimen of his style-light, playful, humorous and witty, with the measure nicely balanced and adjusted to the subject .-The "Proud Miss McBride" is a long poem, irresistibly laughable, and full of home thrusts at the prejudices and follies and pretensions of the pseudo-aristocrats of our "fierce democracie." Mr. Saxe seems never to write except when in the vein. There is no "spinning out" in his compositions. Terseness is quite as much a feature in his verse as any other quality. Nor does he ever mix fun and sentiquality. Nor does he ever mix fun and sentiment together. He begins by putting you in good humor, and keeps you laughing till the end of his narrative. We never knew a man who, personally, less disappointed the ideas formed by reading his verses than Mr. Saxe. His face is genial and sunny, one overwhelm.

His face is genial and sunny, one overwhelm. His face is genial and sunny, one overwhelming with humor, and yet bearing the impress of high intellectuality. In person he is tall and athletic, standing over six feet in his stockings. A man of the world before he became a man of letters, his address is frank and easy; he has great conversational powers and tells a story inimitably. He is just such a man as Christopher North would have wellowed to his heart of hearts—just the man to have figured in the Nectes and the Ettrick!

Finally the Americans retried to their tents and the Arabs withdrew, but unexpectedly returned and commenced firing upon the tent. Dr. Frank was slightly wounded on the knee and breast, and George, the cook, in the hip, severely. In the end, the Americans, to save themselves, were compelled to hand over to the robbers nearly two thousand piasters. They then set out on their ed eight hundred plasters. This was not paid, thousand plasters. They then set out on their journey and reached Hebron on the 9th of Febsuary.

ADVANTAGE OF HAVING THREE WIVES .-John S. Sprague has escaped punishment, at Portland, Me., by being proved more guilty than he was charged with in the indictment. He was tried by the Supreme Court for bigamy. last week, and the fact of his having had two wives, was clearly established, when his coun-sel introduced evidence to prove that he al-ready had one wife when married to the other two, in fact that he had three wives at once, and as the indictment was based upon the assumption that the second marriage was the first and legal marriage, it was contended that as to the last marriage's considered by them-selves, no bigamy was committed, because Sprague was the legal husband of neither. The judge sustained this position, the case was not pros'd, and the man who was charged with having two wives, got clear by proving that he had three. Great and wonderful is the law.

An African Exonus .- The Petersburg (Va.) Express, says that unusual numbers of slave are constantly passing through Perersburg on their way South, and to the minds of many the result appears inevitable that in ten or twenty years Virginia will be completely drained of that part of her population. The Montgomery (Ala.) Mail says that for the last week or two the number of slaves carried by the Alabama boats down the river, for New twenty years Virginia will be completely drained of that part of her population. The Montgomery (Ala.) Mail says that for the last week or two the number of slaves carried by the Alabama boats down the river, for New Orleans, has been large beyond all precedent.

They are mainly from Virgicia and North (Carolina.)

Maps are on the progressive principle. They are time-suving—time is money; so they must be moneysaving. The method of teaching from these maps is teaching by the eye, based upon the law of intellect, that the objects of sight more readily become the objects of conception and memory than those of the other senses; and the more distinctly they are seen, the more lively is the conception and the more lasting the impression on the mind. None but those who have Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrobials. A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle. And benefit is always experienced from the first bottle. And a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

Reader, I peddled over a thousand bottles of this in the vicinity of Boston. I know the effect of it in every case. So sure as water will extinguish fire, so sure will this cure humor. I sever sold a bottle of it but that I sold another; after a trail it always speaks for itself. There are two things about this herb that appear to me surprising; first that it grows in our pastures, in some places quite piential, and yet its value has never been known until discovered it in 1846—second, that it should cure all kinds of humor. In order to give some idea of the sudden rise rise great pepularity of the discovery. I will state that in April, 1534, I peddled it and sold about its bottles per day—in April, 1534, I sold over one thousand bottles per day—in April, 1534, I sold over one thousand bottles per day—in April, 1534, I sold over one thousand bottles per day—in April, 1534, I sold over one thousand bottles per day—in April, 1534, I sold over one thousand bottles.

In my own practice I always kept it strictly for humors—but since it a introduction as a general family inedicine, great and wonderful virtues have been found in it that I never suspected.

Several cases of chilepiic fits—a disease which was always considered meurable, have been cured by a few bottles. O, what a mercy if it will prove effectual in all cases of that awful malady—there are but few who have seen more of it than I have.

I know of several cases of dropsy, all of them aged people, cured by it. For the various diseases of the day, Cohleren over ten years, dessert from fully first than any medicine ever kno

THE POPULAR BOOK.

Kane's Arctic Exploring Expedition,

TOB Which Congress has so liberally apperent of the proud of every intelligent American should possess a copy. Its interest is unparalleted, and it is embellished with about 300 fine steel engravings, taken from sketches by the author. Every person, that has not received a copy from the travelling agent, should call at the Cheap Book Store and procure one. We have special brungements with the agent for this object, and have them in quantities.

The Court of Napoleon; or Society under the first Empire—with Portraits of its Beauties, Witsand Heroites. The plan of this work is to present in orie view the passage of French society, from the confusion into which it was thrown by the revolution, to a regular and normal situation under the dictatorship of Napoleon. The various periods treated of are lilustrated by their remarkable women; the Reign of Terror by its Heroines.

The illustrations are superb. The paper and type the very best. We have but a specimen copy on hand, which we invite all to call and see, and subscribe for it if desired. As a Gitt Book for the Hohdays it will be the faces of the season.
