In the case of bodies more highly phosporescent than paper, the spectres of many different objects which may have been laid on it in succession will, on warming, emerge in their proper order. This is equally true of our bodies and our minds. There are cases on record of ignorant women, in states of insanity, uttering Greek and Hebrew phrases, which in past years they have heard their musters utter, without, of course comprehending them. These tones have long been forgotten; the traces were so faint that, under ordinary conditions, they were invisible; but these traces were there, and, in the intense light of cerebral excitement, they started into prominence, just as the spectral image of the key started into sight on the application of heat. We are involved in the universal metamorphosis. Nothing leaves us wholly as it found us. Every, man we meet, every book we read, every picture or landscape we sec, every word or tone we
