THE variety, the sprightliness and the value of the I contents. There is a complete history of nearly all the public events of the year—there are unaple dissertations on the leading topics—there are the graceful triflings (not always strival, however, but protoundly in-trueture) of the Lounger—there are the takes and stories of Bulwer. Dickens, Tharkeroy, &c—there are the new and old—band, above all, there are the striking wood out representations of contemporary men and image, of follies and fastions, and of customs and countries—all contained within a single volume, and to be had for a song. It is a grand picture book of the human dife of the almetenth century, in all its phases, and in nearly all nations. Every class of cruders, moreover, may be interested by it—the old and thoughtful the young and gay; the man of business, the child and the woman—X. Y. Eccning Post.
