the progenitrix of the royal and unlucky house of Stuart. Lying midway between Edinburg and Glasgow, those rival queens of the east and west, but out of the common track of traffic and travel, it has been for ages a pastoral parish of small and rather backward farms. Of late years coal has been found there; and steam and trade, which bid fair to leave the world no rustic corner, are rapidly turning it into a mining district which nobody thought of about the time of the general peace, when Bathgate lived on its own oats and barley; wore its own hodden gray, and had but two subjects of interest-the corn-market and the kirk session. Among its peaceful and industri-
