DRUCKERMILLER AGAIN.—The Mount Joy poet has not been idle. He is again out with a sheet of the peculiar production of his muse. His subjects are Secession and Judge Vondersmith. He is, of course, an ardent Union man, and denounces the disturbers of the peace as traitors and knaves. The commutation of Judge Voneersmith's sentence is now accounted for in our mind. Druckermiller appeals for Vondersmith's pardon, and this eloquent advocacy has no doubt had its effect. > OLEAGENOUS ANECDOTE. - A Dutchman leased his lands to an oil company, last spring on condition of receiving one eighth of the oil procured. The well proved to be a pretty good one, and the farmer began to think that the oil men should give him a hetter chance, and ventured to tell them so They asked him what he wanted. He said they ought to give one twelfth. The agreement was finally made, with the understanding that the Dutchman was not to tell any one. All went smooth until the next division day came, when our friend was early on hand to see how much better he would be off under the new bargain. Eleven barrels were rolled to one side for the oil men and one for him. This did not suit him .--"How's dish," says he, I think I vas to get more as before: by jinks, you make mis. take," The matter was explained to him that he had formerly get one berrel of every eight, out it was his own proposition to only take one of every twelve. This revelation took him aback. He scratched his head, looked cross, and relieved his swelling breast of feelings of self-reproach by indig nantly remarking: ' Vell, by dunder, dat ish de first time as ever I know'd eight vas more as dwelve." - Trumbull Democrat.
