NEW MONTHLY.

BEGINNING OF A NEW VOLUME.

THE Number for January, 1863, begins the Eleventh Volume of the Atlantic Monthly.

From the commencement, in 1857 the Atlantic has rapidly increased in circulation and it now has the largest class of readers since its beginning, five years ago. Its prospects steadily augment, and it commences, amid all the fluctuations and dangers incident to our national crisis, a strong ground in the estimation of the public. At a time so pregnant with events which touch the future destinies of America in every vital point, no one Publishers and Editors do not deem it necessary to promise in pages well never swerve from the unchanging principles of loyal patriotism and universal freedom. Its columns have always been on the side of Union, Progress, and Right, and the course in future adopted in its early career, will ever be faithfully maintained.

The Staff of Writers regularly contributing to the Atlantic Monthly embraces all the best known authors in American literature and warrants the Publisher in promising to its readers,
