Against the wall at the rear of the apartment is fastened an indifferent picture, representing in full size and modern who, as a sacred worthy said, lived to be over five hundred years old, became the father of one hundred sons, and rejoiced in the remoter multiplication of himself into one thousand grandsons, all, we are bound to conclude, resembling their venprable ancestor, so far, at least, as facial angles, unsal protuberances and oblique orbital arches are concerned. He is fur-uance is rather serious. He seems to be satistied with the offerings of liquor and the perfume of a few consecrated incense tapers burning before him. Visitors are scated at his left, according to the Chiuese idea of the place of honor, which is the reverse of ours, for the sheep are on the right, while the goats stand on the left, in the Christian theology.

At about two e'clock P. M. an express wagon was hauled up before the door, laden with three or four hogs and sheep, and a large quantity of chickens, etc., most of them cooked whole. Upon the arrival of these offerings there was a tremendous rattle and clatter of drums and cymbals, a shricking of reed pipes and explosion of squilgees, as if a great band of the gorilla species had got out their whinyards and started on the terrible war-path after buzzards. The priests, clad in long robes of blue silk, fastened at the waist by girdles, filed out of the temple and sat down on stools in the street, while celestial mudsills and the swe-struck Irish wagoner carried the roast pig, etc., into the court before the this, but it is as true as God's word.pipes till their cheeks seemed ready to burst, and the crackers below rattled like zrasketry.

There he bowed a number of times, and as Josh would probably find ome difficulty in masticating a whole liog at once, an attendant took a cleaver, sliced off a piece of its chops, severed the highly ornamented and slightly-curled tail of the porker, and passed them up. Spiritually, the whole hog went; literand still surrounded by the priests, threw it into the stove, where it was burned and thereby transmitted to actual possession ples of our religion among the people of | full of smoke, and the priest kept bow-China, they erect their temples and fill ing till the paper was consumed, and the them with idols in the very shadow of ceremony ended. A Home Scene.

Come, let us pull the curtains down, And gather up the playthings You've scattered far and wide: And place the lamp upon the stand, Heside the great arm chair, Now heap the coal upon the grate-He loves a cheerful fire-And leap up higher and higher!

Now place his shppers on the rug, And set his dressing gown; For papa will be tired and cold When he comes back from town Come let me bathe your glowing cheeks,

And make your bair look neat, And put your bright pink apron on-There, now you're clean and sweet!

Now sit down on the little bench That grand-pa made, and see How still you'll be while good mamn The tea-kettle sends forth its hum.

The biscuits are so light; I wish he'd come, it seems to me He's rather late to-night! Hark! wasn't that our gate that clicked!
"Hurrah!" shouts little Will,
And ere I've time to tell him hush, He's bounded o'er the sill.

And "papa's come?" he shouts again. And climbs up for a kiss; And "papa's tum! Oh, papa's tum!" Echoes his little sis. Oh! happy group that live and love Within that humble cot. Many who dwell in painces Might envy them their lot.
