Singular Freak of Affection.

In the spring of 1861, when the calls to patriotism went like wildfire over the land, a young man in the 3d ward of Chicago, named George W. Treyster, was engaged to be married to a young lady in a western city, who died last week, and was buried here. He visited, promising to return as soon as the war was over, and left his affianced almost broken-hearted. At the battle of Wicks's Creek he was killed. When the news reached this city, his betrothed went into fainting fits, and for two days her life was despaired of. She never recovered her reason entirely, but lived, as it were, under the shadow of some impenetrable gloom. She selected a chicken from a brood and took it to her room, where she made a plaything or a pet of it. She gave to it a name which in time it new and soon came at her call. It would perch on her head as she would gaze looking from her window, and pick crumbs from her lips when she saw fit to feed it, and pick at her teeth as though they were kernels of corn. She would sit for hours gazing at the chicken, which grew fat and sleek and pretty a rooster as ever lived, and which formed an affection for its mistress truly wonderful. And thus the pair lived till three weeks since, when the chicken was killed by a dog. Since this time the girl grew languid, nervous, disheartened, and at last died with a broken heart. Such, in brief, is an actual incident which thus passes into the history of the singular freaks of affection.—Natchez (Miss.) Courier.

The Fiddled?

In the Pennsylvania Legislature, two years ago, there was a member named Charles Wilson, from one of the Northern tier counties, who considered himself among the great orators of the day, and, when pretty well filled with "Harrisburg water," would get off, for the edification of his colleagues, some very rich illustrations. Being somewhat interested in a bill before the House, he made what he considered one of his master-speeches during the delivery of which he used the illustration of "Nero fiddling while Rome was burning." He had scarcely taken his seat when a member tapped him on the shoulder and said—
"Say, Charley, it wasn't Nero that fiddled, it was Caesar. You should correct that before it goes on the record."

Happy for him, the speaker was so busily engaged that he did not hear him, but some members near heard and enjoyed the joke. Afterwards, some one told him that he was right in the first place, which resulted in his reading all the ancient history in the State Library during the winter, to assure himself as to who it was that "fiddled."

MATRIMONY—You ought to marry.

"Never."
"I know a good girl for you."
"Let me alone."
"But, perhaps, you—shaw—
"Don't know her. She is young."
"Then she is sly."
"Beautiful."
"The more dangerous."
"Of good family."
"Then she is proud."
"Tender-hearted."
"Then she is jealous."
"She has talents."
"To kill me."
"And one hundred thousand dollars."
"I will take her!"

IMPORTANT TO ALL INVALIDS.
IRON IN THE BLOOD.
It is well known to the medical profession that IRON is the vital Principle or Life element of the blood. This is derived chiefly from the food we eat; but if the food is not properly digested, or if from any cause whatever, the necessary quantity of iron is not taken into the circulation, or becomes reduced, the whole system suffers. The bad blood will irritate the heart, will clog up the lungs, will stupefy the brain, will obstruct the liver, and will send its disease producing elements to all parts of the system, and every vital organ will suffer in whatever organ may be predisposed to disease.

The great value of IRON AS A MEDICINE is well known and acknowledged by all medical men. The difficulty has been to obtain a preparation of it that would circulate in the blood. This is done by the use of the Iron Syrup, which will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children. The disease it originates takes various names, according to the organs it attacks. In the lungs, Scrophula produces coughs, and finally Consumption; in the stomach, it produces indigestion, and becomes ulcers sores; in the stomach and bowels, derangements which produce indigestion, dyspepsia, and liver complaints; on the skin, eruptions and cutaneous affections. These, all having the same origin, and same remedy, viz., purification and invigoration of the blood. Purify the blood, and these dangerous distempers leave you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot have health; with that life of the flesh healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is compounded from the most effectual articles that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far superior to any other remedy yet devised, is known by all who have used it, and its results with regard to purity, a slightly increased amount of the principle on which its flavor depends was determined by comparison with other samples. The indications of analysis show that this Brandy is produced by the same process as most of the imported Brandy.

THE PERUVIAN SYRUP Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Fever and ague, Loss of energy, low spirits. THE PERUVIAN SYRUP Infuses strength, vigor, and new life into the system, and builds up an "Iron Constitution."
