The Rev. C. H Spurgeonion Personal Service.

The service of God among us has grown -more and more a service by proxy. Judge ye what I say, and if there be but any measure of truth in it, let the truth come home to your soul. Do we not observe even in the outward worship of God, at times a great attempt towards worship by proxy? Do we not aften hear singing the praises of God confined to some five or praises of God confined to some five or six or more trained men and women who are to praise God for us? Do we not sometimes have the dreary thought, when sometimes have the dreary thought, when we are in our churches and chapels, that even the prayer is said and prayed by the Minister for us? There is not always that hearty union in the one great prayer of the day which there should be when we are gathered together. The thought suggests itself continually to the thinking mind, " Is not much of the devotion confined to the Minister, and in those few who pass through the service ?" In fact we have actually degraded ourselves by supplying the term " performance " to divine worship. "Performance !" A phrase begotten in the theatre, which certainly should have spent its existence there, has actually been brought into the bouse of God and the services are now-"a-days " performance," and the worship of God is gone through, and the thing is called the " doing duty" of the Minister, and not taking the delight and the en joying of pleasure by the people. Do we not observe, too that in all our Churches there is too much now-a-day of serving God in acts of benevolence, and of public instruction through the Minister? Your Minister is supported; you expect him to discharge your duty for you ; he is to be the means of converting sinners; he s to be the means of comforting the feeble minded: in fact all the mass of duties that belong to the Church are considered to belong to the one man who is especially set apart to devote himself to the service of the ministry. What conqueror or neighty warrior could expect to win a campaign if his troops should vote that one in a hundred should be stopped by their rations-that one in a hundred should go to battle? No, ye legions, you must all go every one of you draw swords.

Every heart must be stout, and every man's arm must be strong; the lion must not be composed of here and there a warrior and an interval between, but every man must march forward, with the spirit of a lion and the strength of God, to do battle against the common enemy of soul. We shall never see great things in the world till we have all roused ourselves to our personal responsibilities.
