Written for the Columbia Spy. Let Me Love You. BY WILLIE WARE. Let me love you darling, goetry.

Love the gentle smile That plays around your lips So free from every guile Let me love you, darling, Love your mild and love lit eye,

Love the jetty, glossy ringlet, Love your gentle sigh. Let me love you, darling.

Love you in this world of praise, Love you, though we now are parted, We will meet again. Let me love you darling,

While we dwell below, Let us gather forest flowers, Leave the thorns to grow

> (By Request.) SHIPS AT SEA.

I have ships that went to sea. More than fifty years ago , None have yet come home to me, But are sailing to and fro. I have seen them in my sleep. Plunging through the shoreless deep, With tattered sails and battered hulls While around them screamed the gull

Flying low, flying low. I have wondered why they strayed, From me, sailing round the world ; And I've said, "I'm half afraid

That their sails will ne'er be furled." Great the treasures that they hold, Silks, and plumes, and bars of gold ; While the spices that they bear,

Fill with fingrance all the air. As they sail, as they sail. Ah! each sailor in the port Knows that I have ships at sea

And the sailors pity me.

Till I put my fears aside,

I have waited on the piers,

Of the waves and wind the sport,

Oft they come and with me walk,

Cheering me with hopeful talk,

And, contented watch the tide

Rise and fall, rise and fall.

Gazing for them down the bay

Days and nights for many years,

But, the pilots when they land,

Stop and take me by the hand,

Saying, "you will live to see

So I never quite despair,

Till I turned heart sick away.

Your proud vessels come from sea,

One and all, one and all."

Nor let hope or courage fail; And some day, when skies are fair,

Up the bay my ships will sail,

I shall buy then all 1 need,--Prints to look at, books to read,

Everything except a heart,

Horses, wines and works of art,-

That is lost, that is lost.

Once when I was nure and young.

Ere a clout was o'er me flung, ----

Or a wrinkle creased my brow,

But she's something now divine,

They can bring no heart to me

Evermore, evermore.

There was one whose heart was mine ;

And though come my ships from sea,

Richer, too, than I am now,
