The President on Tuesday sent into the Senate a message returning the bill for the admission of Colorado as a State, without his approval, and giving his reasons therefor. It is understood that the President withholds his approval from the bill on the ground, first, that the establishment of a State Government is not necessary for the welfare of the people of Colorado; second, that, it is not satisfactorily established, that a majority of the people of the Territory desire it; third, upon the public mind of the ceremonious that the Territory has not population execution of criminals in this country, and sufficient to entitle it to admission; and the views of most of the leading journals will be "very handsome." So much for fourth, that while eleven of the old which have given opinions upon the sub States have been for some time and still ject are in opposition to the usual formremain unrepresented in Congress," caution should be exercised in regard to the admission of new States.

On my return I found the Queen City ively full of trade and travel, both of which are sought to be increased by the ever restless and enterprising spirit of our solid men. Our City Fathers have been engaged for some time in improving the sanitary condition of our streets and alleys in anticipation of an unwelcome visit of that Oriental scourge, the cholera. In 1849, our people flocked to churches and invoked divine aid and protection from its ravages by penitence and prayer. They now think it better to purify their vaults with line and remove the filth from their substitute of the content of the conte with lime and remove the filth from their habitations. With no disposition to be irreverent, our people seem to have more confidence in purity than in piety, as a prophylactic, and why should they not, for this scourge finds its origin and true home in the "far East," in the land of dirty bodies and superstitious minds, whence came, says a modern writer, all the pestilential notions of old theology, and also all the distempers of fushionable secturianism. A clean and healthy body is proof against cholera even as a rational mind is proof against secturianism. If I were asked how to prevent the introduction of cholera into a community, I would reply first; remove all causes that would vitiate the atmosphere. Second, dirty bodies and superstitious minds, give proper attention to personal clean inners. Third, keep the body at a uniform temperature. Fourth, do not perform temperature. "Got the Klues!" How often do we hear this complaint made.—
The reason generally ascribed is that something has gone wrong but if you question the patient in regard to health, habits &c., you will very often find that indigestion is the prime cause; the intimacy of the brain and stomach is very close, and nothing so sours the feelings and disposition as dyspepsin. It is a singular fact that most suicides are dyspeptites. If our nourishment is properly digested, the brain is free and unoppressed, and will solve our troubbles, pointing out sunshine ahead and inclining us to look on the bright side of life; thus it is our duty to guard against this monster—indigestion—and we know of pothing so potent to assist digestion as Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. It has cured some very bad anses of dyspepsia of even ten or fifteen years sisnding.
