Clothing.

Much attention should be paid to clothing, so as to adapt it to the change of seasons. It is evident that the body requires more clothing in winter than in summer, and more in autamn than in spring In all seasons, however, days may intervene of unexpected mildness or and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or inclemency; but it is highly imprudent to are aggravated by the same cause. a lapt a change too rashly, as the weather will is all probability return suddenly to its provious temperature; and being unprepared for it, a cold is likely to result. Flannel should be worn next the skin both winter and summer; but in order to derive due benefit from it, it should be Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, taken off at night on retiring to rest. The the most effectual remedy which the medical feet should always be kept warm and dry; skill of our times can devise for time the should always be kept warm and dry; where prevailing and fatal malady. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only. Scrofula, but also those other affecdress in this particular; and when once the evil is committed, it is in many cases irremediable. Water-proof clothing is BLOTHUS, BLAINS and BOIL, TUMORS, TETTER injurious on account of checking the and SALT RHEUM, SCALD' HEAD, RINGWORM, perspiration. A greatcoat or clock is preferable, with an unbrolla over the head; and if the clothes can be changed soon after coming into the house, very little mischief can accrue. The chest rilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, and shoulders should always be kept without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions. warm; and for the furtherance of this object, a double breasted waistcoat, which may be buttoned over or back at discretion, is very appropriate. Wrappers for for the neck are not beneficial, and certainly not necessary. When the wrapper is on, the throat attains an unnatural degree of heat, and when taken off a chilliness is experienced, not unlikely to superinduce sore throat. Clothes should superinduce sore throat. Clothes should never be made to fit too tightly; in other words,comfort should not be sacrificed to fashion. Boots especially are open to this remark. How many a man thrusts his feet into receptacles a size or two too small for him, for the sake of giving his feet a smaller appearance than nature intended—without being able to accom-plish the cheat after all. Comfort should be the first thing studied, and, in doing so, fashion need not necessarily be altoso, fashion need not necessarily be alto-gether repudiated; on the contrary, it is just as possible to have comfortable clothes with fushion as it is to have them without.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons: are invaded by this lurking in-fection, and their health is undermined by it:
