Written for the "Spy." "Cry aloud and Spare Not!" Our National Sins.

BY MARION.

Long hath this noble land of ours Been by three mighty sins beset; One of the three is swept away, But two are still remaining yet. No longer doth the Almighty frown Upon the sin of Slavery; The hideous crime is banished now,

And ev'ry human form is free. But what! O, what hath been the cost! What sacrifice of human life! How many hundred thousands fell In the great fratricidal strife!

God's judgments, sure, will come at last, Tho' I any years he gives us grace; But you fair stars now brighter shine— Our Country takes a higher place, But not unsullied is She yet-Two odious sins broadcast extend, High up to yonder Heaven they rise— To you Great Throne they upward tend.

God's punishment doth yet await "The Mormon Sin"—how deep the die! We are to answer for this crime As sure as reigns a Judge on high.

But this can soon be done away, Our Government can it prevent: With us, the people, this doth rest With those who are to Congress sent. Indignant, let the people rise;

"Let "Th' Clergy," Press, and all unite And soon another monstrous sin Shall be o'ercome and put to flight! And then the last we'll meet as men, "The monster, Rum," our mightiest foe; Intemperance hath millions slain, 'Tis the chief cause of human woe!

Let it re-echo far and wide; Come to the rescue!—let our crimes A Nation's sins be set aside. When this is done our-stars shall rise. We'll carry out God's great design; A Beacon Galaxy on high,

Battle the Demon! sound th' alarm!

Through coming years to brightly shine *Will the mighty movers in all moral and National reforms—the Press and the Clergy—awake to their duty in these great matters?
