DEATH OF A RESPECTED CITIZEN. Mr. W. H. Elder, one of our most respected citizens, and for a long time employed as a clerk, at the Freight office of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in this place, died very suddenly on Monday morning last. It appears that he had, sometime ago, contracted a severe cold, which settled on his lungs: but notwithstanding this, he had been attending to his daily routine of duty regularly, up to Saturday evening last.

A SAD ACCIDENT .- On Thursday afternoon, the 28th ult., Miriam Williams, a little girl aged about eight years, daughter of Edward Williams, while playing about some cinder, near the Rolling Mill of C. S. Maltby, Esq., was very severely burned. The cinder having been but a short time before deposited there, and still being hot, the clothing of the child touching it, caught fire, and in an instant her whole body was wrapped in flames. Some of the workmen in the mill hearing the before assistance reached her she was seriously, if not fatally, burned.

NEW BUILDINGS TO BE PUT UP .- We learn that a considerable number of new buildings will be put up during the approaching season. John B. Bachman will finish an elegant mansion on Second street; and many houses of smaller proportions will also be put up. We are glad to know that some of our citizens have at length had a little public spirit and energy instilled into them, and that they are now beginning to see the real want of Columbiamore houses to accommodate the present population, as well, also, to induce strangers to settle amongst us. By a little effort in this direction, the population of our town can be doubled in the course of a few years, and new branches of business inaugurated that will add to the general pros-

FASHIONS .- A new era is about to dawn upon us. A reform in the dress of our wives and sisters is about to be established, which will be as comely and elegant as it is sensible and desirable. No longer are our side-walks to be swept with the clegant and costly fabrics of the day, to the disgust of the observer, and the great discomfort of the wearer. This greatly need-

The Post Office. MR. EDITOR:-In the last issue of your paper, a correspondent, signing himself "Progress," "goes off at a furious "ate," because the Columbia Post Office is not kept open until he sees fit to call for his mail matter, in the evening. Let "Pro-gress" bear in mind that it was by the comfort of the wearer. This greatly needed and gladly welcomed change is a contraction of the crinoline to one-third of its late fearful dimensions; and a consequent shortening of dresses so that they will not reach the ground. This reform is destined soon to become universal. It must at once recommend itself to every intelligent lady, both for its fitness and comfort, and its elegance and economy—which last consideration is no small one in these hard times.

The river is at about its usual stage, during this season of the year. The general during this season of the year. The general opinion was that when the snow melted, up the country, that we would have a consideration is no small one in these hard times.

I would suggest that as it is impossible for "Progress" to get his mail matter before the oflice closes, that he will hand his name to our worthy "Post Mistress" and her assistants, and that they will so manage it that "Progress" will get his mail before the office closes, will get his mail before the first and continues the series. that "Progress" will get his mail before the office closes, as no doubt the office will be closed hereafter at 7 o'clock. I hope "Progress" will see the effect of his com-munication, in the 'quaint old adage that "an oak is not felled by one blow."

Post.

MR. EDITOR:—A communication appeared in your paper, last week, over the signature of "Progress," in reference to clossing the Post Office at 7 o'clock P. M.; in which he states that it does not give general satisfaction. I wish to state, that two weeks before I closed the office at 7 P. M., I sent a paper around to the principal citizens and business men, to see if they would have any objections to closing the office at the above named how. the above named hour. Every one signed the paper, willingly. There were a number of the business men and citizens, who I was unable to see, but judging from the number I had asked, I did not suppose that any one would have objections I would also state that there is plenty of

> For the Spy Ringing Church Bells.

ED. SPY .- Much has been said lately about the ringing of our church bells—indeed, G. Y., Jr., (a peculiar significance in the "Jr,") whines like a spaniel, on hearing the solemn peals of our church bells, calling Christians to the house of God. I know it grates harshly on the ears of unbelievers; but the bells will still continue to send forth their solemn sound. And if G. Y., Jr., does not like it, he should go to parts where they know not the religion of our blessed Saviour. It would, probably, suit his nature and disposition better. BELL RINGER.

These THE WORLD always nims to give with conscientious ac-curacy, and with equal fulness and fidelity, whether they make for or against its own whether they make for or against its own views of public policy. Prompt activity in spreading before its readers every kind of news in which any part of the public takes an interest, is the first duty of a newspaper, and the facilities of the The World for discharging this obligation are unsurpassed by those of any journal in the United States. Whatever else it may full it is containly will not fail to furnish the E, it certainly will not fail to furnish the news, nor to supply it with such prompti news, nor to supply it with such prompti-tude, spirit, freshness, abundance, variety, accuracy and candor, that no class of read-ers can miss anything of interest which they wish to find. The World will pub-lish documents and arguments prepared by political foes just as freely as those pre-pared by political friends, making its own pared by political friends; making its own comments on them, of course, but never suppressing or garbling them because they are calculated to damage its own party.
Adverse arguments, which it cannot refute, it is content to leave to make their full impression. THE WORLD adopts this rule because it believes no other is honest; because it conceives that its first duty to its readers is to keep them thoroughly informed on every passing subject of importance. In polities, The World will continue to be the bold advocate of Philadelphia, to consider the propriety of increasing the Capital Stock to One Million of Dollars, and of creating a Mortgage Loan of Two Millions of Dollars.
