

A. M. RAMBO,
Editor
Columbia, Pa.

Saturday, Sept. 27, 1862.

Advertiser on the front page, in insertion, must be handed in, or before three days, to the printer.

Union Republican Convention.

JUDGE HENRY W. WILLIAMS,
Chairman.

Republican County Ticket.

ABRAHAM GORDON, Chairman.

ADAM C. REINHOLD, Major-at-Arms.

DAVID G. GREEN, General Agent.

WILLIAM THOMAS, Colonel.

RECORDED.

JOHN JAMES, Lancaster City.

JOHN STRICKMEN, Prothonotary.

CHRISTIAN L. ROHRL, Lancaster City.

DANIEL HORN, Pequea, Strasburg, T.

T. SCOTT WOODS, Paradise.

SAMUEL COOPER, Lancaster City.

STEPHEN W. P. BOYD, Fulton.

The undersigned President and Clerks of the Union Republican party of Lancaster County, who are the members of the Union Republican party of Lancaster County, the second Tuesday in October.

J. H. HARVEY, W. H. HARRIS, E. SMITH, Clerks.

Revised.

The last Chief Justice Woodward of this State, has been rewarded by his decision while upon the bench, that the "Draft" was unconstitutional, by a nomination for Congress in the 12th Congressional District. Thus all the men who gave aid and comfort to the Rebels, by crippling the energies of the North, received their thirty pieces of silver.

Death of Baron de Lisle.

Colonel de Lisle, Baron de Lisle, of France, who died in New York on Saturday, seems to have been as much a soldier of fortune as any of the leaders of the rebellion.

He was educated in Paris. He visited the United States, and in 1859 traveled through California. Then after assisting in locating the Nicaragua railway, he wandered through South and Central America until 1862, when he located at the city of Mexico. Macmillian says his captain's commission from which he rose to a colonelcy, when the emperor was sentenced to the spot where it was to be held, under sentence of death. He had no friends, and had no money to pay his passage home, so he sold his commission, and was compelled to go to the United States.

The Election in Maryland.

The Baltimore American of the 16th inst., says of the election in this State: "From the incomplete returns given elsewhere, it will be seen that the Democracy of the State yesterday succeeded in its ratification of its proposed Constitution and form of government, for the State of Maryland."

The Constitution itself declares that it shall go into effect as the law of the State on Saturday, the 5th day of October, 1862. We were not surprised at the result, as we had no expectation of defeat. The Constitution, however, was 10,240 to 1,000, and the Constitutional and Slaveholding party, giving a majority of 15,000 to 1,000, in a presidential election, when the question is put in a popular way, is a trifling victory.

— In April last, when the question of a convention was referred to the people, there was in this city but 1,785 majority for the call, the vote standing 10,000 to 9,200, with over 7,000 persons not voting. Since that time over 2,000 names have been added to the registry lists.

Our despatches from the counties indicate that the same course pursued by the Republicans here was practiced there, and that the opposition was allowed to go by default.

Edwin M. Stanton was born in 1815, and is consequently 47 years old.

There are 600,000 Jews in the world,

and 200,000 in the United States.

The English army in India is suffering terribly from cholera and small-pox.

The Queen of Sweden has had her diamonds stolen at the Paris Exposition.

— A man digging a well in Connecticut has been covered in Belgium.

— Advice from a friend that the Orphans still hold out in the mountainous parts of the Andes.

The Brahmin lynes are being transmuted through California.

— The Memphis and Ohio Railroad has been sold.

— W. Seward, Assistant Secretary of State, returned to his duties.

Edwin M. Stanton was born in 1815, and is consequently 47 years old.

— There are 600,000 Jews in the world,

and 200,000 in the United States.

— Our despatches from the counties indicate that the same course pursued by the Republicans here was practiced there, and that the opposition was allowed to go by default.

— We have received a letter from the Rev. Mr. St. John of God, informing him of his success in having his name removed from the list of rebels.

We give this statement just as we have received it, with the simple remark that we are inclined to believe that it is true.

Louisiana Colored Vote.

Somebody has blundered in the public newspaper of the state, and had better do so for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it was given out in the public newspaper that she had been ill for some time, and had been for some time. Previous to perfect understanding between himself and Gen. Grant, the regular correspondent of the New York Tribune says that friends of Mr. Stanton, in Washington, positively assert that that gentleman and a friend given him the "Death of Baron de Lisle,"

When Secretary Stanton left the War Department, it