Gift Jewelry Scoundrels, New Hampshire deals with lottery swind lers without gloves. A Boston lottery agent recently went into that State to carry n his nefarious trade, but at Mancheste was taken into custody, with hundreds, of letters from his dupes in his possession, and committed under bonds of $2,000. New Hampshire law officers enforce the laws of that State against lotteries, but, unfortunately, in New York the officials think the enti-lottery laws were passed only as or naments to the code, and were not intended to be enforced.

If all who have been quietly swindled by deans of New York bogus gift concerns should acknowledge their weakness and their losses, the developments would be very surprising. There are two propensitles which are very apt to lead men into foolish extravagancies and troubles—the love of getting things cheap, and the secret passion for gambling. The gift swindlers of the metropolis know how to make the most of these weaknessess, and many perons of the most unquestioned morality undoubled standing in society often indulge sub rosa in little lottery ventures, through the mail, and send their money to be gob bled up by worthless speculators. The number of gift concerns in New York, is estimated at two or three hundred, the greatest number of whom carry on their operations in Broadway, Bowery and Chatham street basements. But the character of these concerns is generally undertood. There are, however, about fifty establishments, that, operate through the mails, professing to have capital amounting o 370,000,000, but in reality probably having not more than a quarter of one per cent of that sum to their credit. They secure offices in "Crow's Nests" on Nassau street or Broadway, where any number of offices are partitioned off, and where it is difficult or their customers to find them. A favorite mode of operating upon th credulous is as follows: A circular is sent out containing a list of articles of jewelry of "great beauty and value." It is an nounced that every purchaser of a ticket is sure to get five times the value of his money, and perhaps a gold watch worth five hundred dollars. Tickets are also sent to persons in all parts of the country, three or four to one address, and it is promised that five dollars will pay for any one of the articles mentioned-a watch or something else of value. If the money is sent-that is generally the last of it, or at best, nothing but a worthless time-piece or piece of sham lewelry. This is only one of the many modes of swindling through the mails, of which all credulous people should beware.

A Word to Workingmen. A man who is out of employment, in the dead of winter, with nothing saved to guard against contingencies, is certainly in a pitiable condition. When business is prostra ted, as we now see it, and when the prospect ahead is uncertain, as is now the case, he situation of a person thus circumstanced is doubly pitiable. Yet there are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of persons at the present me, who are in just that condition. The hard times have found them with no provision for the future—with nothing laid up for the proverbial "rainy day.". In times of general prosperity, when wages were good and employment abundant, that class lived closely up to their means, increasing expenses in proportion to the increase o urces, and being content to enjoy-the good things of life as they came, without regard for the morrow. They ought, however, to have foreseen the present situation. Sagacious and prudent men, like the wise virgins in the parable, made timely provision for the season of darkness in the business world. They carefully husband d their resources, and made expenditures with an eve to just such a trade reaction as ve now experience. It is too late, of course, to help the present situation by telling men that they ought to have saved their money in the time of plenty. An important lesso may be learned in this regard, however, and one which ought to be of service thereafter. There always have been, and always will be alterations of, " good times" and "hard times." The latter follow the former just as naturally as winter follows summer, and this fact every man of ordinary percepion ought to understand. There is one neans, and only one, in which all the suffering incident to hard times can be guarded against. That is, by practising economy and frugality in the time of plenty. No workingman ought to live fully up to his income when wages are good and employent is steady. No man ought to spend his money recklessly or improvidently simply because he is earning it rapidly. here are now thousands who have nothing head, and who are in sore distress by eason of their poverty, who look bac wistfully to the time when they expended money extravagantly, with no thought of a dark future. They are deserving of pity, it is true, but the larger proportion might have saved themselves from this ordeal by the exercise of a little prudence and judgment during the time of the business har THE LATEST NEWS. A State Convention of the "Boys in Blue" was held in Philadelphia on Wednesday. The Convention nominated Gen. Grant for President and Ex-Governor Curtin for Vice President of the United States, and appointed a committee to wait upon these

The Got'ernor's Message. Governor Geary's message is printed and ready to be delivered to the Legislature, as soon as the House is organized. It is an olahorate document of twenty-nine printed pages, and the following is an abstract of the more important parts:

the more important parts:

The first part of the message is devoted to the consideration of the State Frances: The Governor calls attention to the fact that during the entire year a very large sum of money is in the keeping of the State Treasurer. This sum at present amounts to considerably over four millions of dollars. It is unnecessary that the greater portion of this money should be kept in the Treasury. It can be loaned, with ample security for its repayment when needed, for certain specific periods, at a reasonable rate of interest, and the proceeds placed in the Treasury for the benefit of the State. The fund thus acquired could be added to the sinking fund, and would materially aid in the reduction of the State debt. A glance at the condition of the State debt. A glance at the condition of the Treasury will show that at least four millions of dollars might be loaned, and at four per cent, would realize the handsome sum of $160,000 per annum.

The total amount in the Treasury, November 30, 1867, was $30,205,395.34. Payments during the fiscal year, $25,543,558.88. Balance in Treasury, November 30, $4,661,886.46, of which $2,937,978.55 are applicable to payment of over due loans, leaving a balance of $1,723,857.91. Pablic debt. No-

Of the school system the Governor then speaks, recommending uniformity of books and gradation of schools, and recommends the Agricultural College to the Legislature. He then refers to the Gettysburg Cemetery, protesting against the interment of Rebeldead therein. The thorough revision of the civil code by Wayne McVeigh, David Dickerson, and W. M. Hall, is said to be in satisfactory progress; and bills will be presented to this Legislature by the commission. The Governor urges the passage of a gen-The Governor urges the pussage of a gen-eral railroad law, and says it seems imral railroad law, and says it seems impossible that any person can receive injury from its adoption, whilst its benefits may be felt by all classes of citizens. Even the chartered companies have no reasonable grounds for oppositiou. The intention of the proposed law is not to deprive them of any vested rights or franchises, but to secure to others the same privileges and opportunities for competition. It will open new avenues to distant markets; improve the value of property; give new impulse to immigration, and add to our general prosperity. Other States have tried the experiment with satisfactory results, and there is no reason why Pennsylvania should be a laggard in the grand march of progress and improvement.

He recommends the establishment of an insurance department, as in New York, that shall control all companies within this State. Such enactment is required for the security of our citizens. Millions of dollars are paid out by them annually for insurance—much of it under such circumstances as to render it impossible for a private individual to know whether the company to which he pays is or is not reliable. Convidual to know whether the company to which he pays is or is not reliable. Consulting the insurance journals, we find that as a general thing, Pennsylvania insurance companies are acquiring an unenviable reputation abroad, affecting the honor and good name of the State. The great purpose of the proposed department should be protection.

He advises the creation of an office for the inspection of gas and gas meters to enable the people to appeal for redress from alleged impositions of the gas companies. Of national affairs, the Governor speaks enruestly, insisting that the Congressional plan of reconstruction shall not be surrendered. He defines the President's plan as demanding that those who devised the most infamous measures of war—the very leaders of the rebellion—should be allowed to possess all the rights of good citizens.

He thinks the general financial condition would be greatly benefited by reducing the number of articles taxed. A strong tariff is necessary for the protection of home laborand resources. The message concludes by invoking the blessing of God upon the Legislature—which there is reason to fear will be greatly needed. He advises the creation of an office for School Report.

J. P. Wickersham, Esq., State Superintendent of Common Schools, has just published his report for the past year. The statistics given by Mr. Wickersham shows a great improvement in the schools of the State, as compared with the previous year. For instance: 2.093 school houses were supplied with apparatus in 1864, against 860 in 1866; 2, 147 graded schools existed in 1867, against 1,921 in 1866; the Bible was read in 9,825 schools in 1867, against 9,280 in 1866; 5.111 directors were present at the examination in 1867, against 4,620 in 1866; 2,726 teachers had attended Normal schools in 1867, ugainst 2,223 in 1866; 7,458 had read books on teaching in 1867, against 6,917 in 1866; county superintendents made 13,507 visits to schools in 1867, against 12,969 in 1866; and attended 398 educational meetings in 1867, against 281 in 1866. Our schools appear to be, in a flourishing condition; though judging from what Mr. Wicker sham states there is still room for a great deal of improvement.

An Infidel Converted. Joseph Baker, of England, who some year ago, labored in this country as an Infidel lecturer, has recently written a letter to Rev. C. Collins, of Philadelphia, in .which he declares an utter recontation of his former views, and his hearty belief in the doctrines of Christianity. He says: "I am happy to be able to say that I have entirely renounced the views I formerly held with regard to the Divine authority of the sacred Scriptures. I desire very much to have an opportunity of making known to my former hearers and readers the change which has taken place in my views and feelings, and the considerations and influences by which, under God, it has been effected."

The Vanity of Dickens. Mr. Dickens sports an immense double gold chain, spanning the space between his vest pockets. From this suspended, in line with his buttons, another gold chain with a locket dangling at the end. Three heavy gold studs adorn his immaculate bosom. A heavy gold button peeps from under his crayat and a heavy diamond ring glistens upon each third finger. A fondness for jewelry is one of the novelist's weaknesses. He has been marked in London, since boyhood for this failing, and his toilet is never completed until he has crowned with jewelry every part of his person that will admit of it.

Compromising with Frand. On Monday Senator Morton introduce in the Senute and important resolution which he intends to press to a vote at an early period, prohibiting the Secretary of the Treasury or any other officer of the Government from compromising with parties guilty of violating the Internal Revenue aws. The present law is regarded as one of the most fruitful causes of defrauding the Government, as officers are allowed to compromise and settle with those engaged in stealing from the Government and cheating the revenue.

This great remedy is too well known and is performing too much good to make it necessary to go into an elaborate discussion of its merits. Suffice to say that it still maintains its supremacy in curing diseases of the most obstinate character, and that old who suffer from the above complaints, after having tested this remedy, seldom have occasion to resort other appliances to insure a perfect restoration health.

WEST WINTILD, N. Y., Dec. 10, 1860.

Messrs. S. W. FOWLE & SON, BOSION.

Gentlemen: During the winter of 1858 I was very much out of health, afflicted with a severe Cough, Pain in the side and Lungs, and a general depression of health to such an extent as greatly to alarm myself and friends as to the rosult. During this time I tried several highly recommended remedies, with little or no good result, and had concluded to try the effect of a Southern climate upon my health: but, before carrying this re-olution into effect. I was induced by the urgent solicitation of your agent, Mr. Huntley, to give Dr. Wisran's Baisawa or Wild Chranar a trial. I did so, and to my great joy found immediate and permanent relief by the use of only one bottle, and I am now in as good health as ever. I believe your Baisam one of the best remedies for Coughs, Colds, and all Lung Diseases, now in use, and conscientiously recommend it as such. cientiously recommend it as such.

We began in 1861 to make improvements in the style and make of Ready Made Clothing, and continued to do so, introducing new styles and ideas every year, so that the entire character of the business is now vastify better and totally different from the systems of older houses. Our first idea is to learn exact! WHAT THE CUSTOMERS WANT and instead of persuading him to bu what may be most conveniently a hand, we take the utmost pains to mee HIS wishes.

The building we occupy is the MOST CONVENIENT SIZE, LARGEST AND BEST ADAPTED for our business of any in Philadelphia

Customers can see what they are surjing, our Establishment being on the corner of three large streets, Market, Sixth and Minor streets, abuniant light is afforded from all directions. A light store is far better for customers than a dark one. Merchants know that our sales are larger than those of any other house in Philadelphia, in our line: hence, we have to buy larger quantities of goods, and so get them at lower prices, es-pecially as we buy altogether for eash. Buying cheapest, we can sell cheap-est.

The time wasted in looking over the stocks of a dozen stores can be avoided for, under one roof, we offer for sul an assortment equal in variety and extent to that embraced by a score of the ordinary houses.

We have 600 hands employed in the manuscture. of Clothing, who are constantly making up slock to take the place of that daily sold; this gives our austomers new and fresh goods to make aslections from. Lescendes from the control of the co

CLIMAX. A plain statement of facts. Linherited Scrofula and many of my relations have died of it. In 1839 my case was frightful. Tumous and ulcers spread until in 1842, under the advice of my physicians I went to Avon Springs. I received no bonefit—tried every medicine and did everything I could. I had o rest my arm on a cushion; and had not been able to raise it to my head for over a year. The dis-charge from two ulcers was nearly a pint a day. Amputation was recommended; but pronounced dangerous. I could not sleep, and my sufferings were intolerable. A friend brought me in English physician who spplied a salve with which he said he had_accomplished extraordinary cures in the aspitals in England. It commenced to relieve; ersisted in its use; it finally effected a perfect and three cure. It is now 1848. It is five years since had the appearance of a scrofulous sore, and m health has been good over since. I procured the receipt of this wonderful article—this blessing of humanity—and have called it "Paor's CLIMAX SALVE," and allow the public to use it or not as they choose This is a brief but candid statement, given more fully in my circular, J. M. PAGE.
GENEVA, New York, December, 1848.

New York, Oct. 16, 1806.
"I have known J. M. Page, Esq., of Geneva, N. Yor many years. He is one of the first citizens of Western New York. I saw him last week in good calth. His case was a most remarkable one, but ictually true in every particular. We have watched the unaided but growing favor of "Page's Climax Saive," and availing ourselves of "hage's Climax Saive," and availing ourselves of the knowledge of its wonderful curative powers, have become proprietors of the same.

It is a sure cure for Burns, Seaids, Scroula, Sait Rheum, Fever Sores, Broken Breasts, Frost Bites, Chilblains, Stings, Bruises, Cuts, Swellings, &c., whether upon man or beast. It subdices pain and information with a surentance and the subdices of the same of th flammation with surprising celerity, and heal irns without a sear. No family should be withou it. It is always wanted, and is always ready. We will forfelt a dozen boxes for any single failure. We believe there was never anything like it in the world. It is put up in hig boxes surrounded by a circular giving facts, directions, testimontals, &c., and can be ordered through any respectable Druggist throughout the world. Price only 25. cents.
