Waynesborough and its Associa-tions. Some time since we paid a visit to Waynesborough, the beautiful residence of Capt. W. Wayne, near Paoli, Chester county, Pa., and it is needless to say we were hospitably entertained by that gentleman. . We give the following particulars in reference to Waynesborough and its asso-The name of Wayne at once brings to the mind of every American, acquainted with the history of his country, the image of a brave, enterprising and active officer, ready. of will, and prompt to execute; impatient of restraint, and eager to attack his enemy sword in hand, The ancestors of Wayne were . English people, residing for many generations in Yorkshire, and Anthony Wayne, the grandfather of the subject of our present uotice. removed his family into Wicklow. county, in Ireland, during the reign of Charles II and established himself as an agriculturist in that county. In the battle of the Boyne Anthony Wayne, the elder, commanded company of dragoons in the service of King William, and fought with signal bravery throughout the hottest part of that memorable contest. He was at this time about thirty years of age. He continued to reside in Ireland for many years after the battle of the Boyne; but eventually, when over sixty years of age, migrated to America, and arrived in Philadelphia in the year

1722, with his four sons, each of whom had been well educated in Ireland. Old Anthony, in the year 1724, purchased an extensive tract of land in the county of Chester, province of Pennsylvania, assigning to each son a part. His youngest son, Isaac Wayne, frequently represented the county of Chester in the provincial Legislature, and, in the capacity of a commissioned officer, repeatedly distinguished himself in expeditions against the Indians. After a long life of usefulness, he died in 1774, leaving one son and two daughters. His only son, Anthony Wayne, whose public career shed so much lustre on American arms and character, was born in the township of Easton, Chester county, Pa., on the 1st day of January, 1745. His father was desirous of bringing the boy up to the business of a farmer, but he soon discovered that the labors of the field did not suit his son's propensities, and, inasmuch as he had the means of indulging the bent of the lad's genius, he resolved to afford him an opportunity of pursuing such studies as his inclination might suggest. For this purpose he was placed under the tuition of his uncle, Gilbert Wayne, a man of considerable erudition and mental acquirements, and who was a country schoolmaster. Affer Anthony Wayne had been with his unele for some time, the latter writes to his subject Treally suspect that parental affection blinds your and sparyon have mis-

He afterwards studied surveying at the Philadelphia Academy, and established himself as a new

In the year 1767. Wayne married a daughter of Benjamin Penrose, an eminent Philadelphia merchant.

Wayne, in size, was above what is termed he "middle stature." He had dark hair, his forehead was high and handsomely formed: the color of his eyes was a dark hazel, intelligent, quick and penetrating, and his whole countenance fine and animat ed. His morals were chaste, his manners refined. The best portrait of Gen. Wayne now in existence, is that by Peale, now in ession of Capt. Wni. Wayne. All who are familiar with the history of the American Revolution, are too well acquainted with the glorious military career of General Wayne, to need any repetition of it here. Waynesborough was the nam given by the General to-his possessions in Chester county, Pa., (inherited, and now in sion of his great grandson, Captain Wm. Wayne,) and comprises some five hundred acres of the most fertile land in the State. It is within one mile of Paoli station on the Pennsylvania R. R., and three miles from Paoli massacre field and monument. The house is substantially built of stone, and the exterior remains al most entirely unchanged. The parlor or sitting-room is sacredly preserved intact. as left by the General on his departure for the West, as Commander-in-chief of the army, and nothing is suffered to be added or taken from this room. The pictures seen on the wall, are very fine old engravings, copies from Rembrandt and Poussin. Here, Washington and Lafayette were frequent guests, and have, no doubt, often sat befo the cheerful wood fire in the ample fire place, discussing events which now occupy an important place in our National His

Here Capt. Wayne showed us the different relies now in his possession, and at one time the property of General Wayne. Such as his watch, medal, sword, pistols, shoe buckles, ring, a portion of his clothing, and many other valuable relies of Revolutionary memory.

The General's gold watch is of English origin and superior workmanship, indicating upon its face the day of the month, and hours, minutes and seconds of the day. The Stony Point medal, which was given the General by Congress, is a perfect master piece of workmanship and skill; the ma terial is fine gold, and the illustration show the exact size, and is, in every way a per feet fac simile of the original. This medal is perhaps the most valuable, both intrinsically and historically considered, of any of the relics. In this connection it may not be inappropriate to give the terse and aracteristic dispatch sent by General Wayne to General Washington, informing him of the surprise and capture of Stony

It is unnecessary to describe, or to give any history here of the Cincinnati badge, as all are familiar with the fact, that it was an sociation composed originally of Revoluonary officers, of which Washington was President, and Wayne a member. The Paoli monument marks the spot where some hundred and fifty of our soldiers, under General Wayne, were massacred in cold blood by the British troops, (see Lossing's Field Book of the Revolution.) General Wayne died at Presque Isle, a nilitary post, on what was then our Western frontier, Dec. 15, 1796, in the 51st year of his age, and his remains, at his request, were deposited under the flag-staff of the fort on the margin of Lake Erie. His remains were removed in 1809 by his son, Col. Isaac Wayne, to Radnor churchyard. Delaware county, where they now repose Radnor Church was erected in 1717. It is about one and a half miles south from the Spread Eagle tavern, on the Lancaster turnpike. The church is about four miles east from the Wayne mansion. By the direction of the Pennsylvania State Society of Cincinnati, a fine monument was erected, of white marble, which bears the following inscription :

Major General Anthony Wayne was born at Waynesboro, in Chester county, State of Pennsylvania, A. D. 1745. After a life of honor and usefulness, he died in December, 1708, at a military post on the shore of Lake Erie, Commander-in-Chief of the army of the United States. His military achievements are consecrated in the history of his country, and in the hearts of his countrymen. His remains are here deposited.

Copperhead Consistency. A most brutal and cowardly warfare i being waged by the defenders of the "lost cause," of the "Brick Pomeroy" order, against the standing and character of the irst soldier of the age, although by such conduct they know they are disgracing hemselves. They hope by this system of defaunation to lower General Grant in the estimation of the people—to their own level. If they can succeed in creating as much discust in the minds of the people toward iim, as they already feel toward this motley crew who are hounding him down, his case s hopeless, indeed, for future honor or

A few months ago "Brigham Young," who presides over the meanest Copperhead paper in the State, published articles where n General Grant was lauded as the mos popular, loved and honest man in this country. As specimen bricks we herewith ublish extracts:

"In 1868 the leaders of the dominant party will in all probability nominate a radical for President, which will be strongly opposed by the conservative portion of that party, who are now urging the claims of Gen. Grant. The Radicals know that Gen. Grant is an honest man and a brave soldier, and that, if he is elected President, Radicalism will cease to exist as an element of power. Gen. Grant is it he most popular man in the United States, he is loved by all the honest men in our country, and hated by all the Radicals, because he is honest. He is the only man around while the constructive element of all with the construction of the construction of the construction of the construction of the

We do not envy the man who can sit, as it were, upon the graves of fallen heroes, and with a sardonic grin ironically tell the living that Grant established a cometery over a hundred miles long, and buried one undred and twenty thousand Union soldiers, and in the end captured twenty-eight thousand starved rebs, as the result of all this destruction of life, and that the author of this is a liar and drunkard. Brigham this week calls for ropes and pullets for the loyal men of the country; but when bullets and ropes were needed to put down traitors, Brigham was not there. To, he went smiling around, like a snake in the grass, among his traitor friends, after every defeat of the Union army, and had not one word of condemnation for rebel Democrats killing and starving Union soldiers. Oh, no; that was a good thing; they were only doing what this slandering villain s now urging his traitorous companions to do. Try it on, Brigham, and you will see that two can play at that game. But what is the use of taking any account of what

Good evening, Brigham.

New Hampshire. The New Hampshire Republicans are working with a will, and will show a good day's record on the 10th of March. The otorious Copperhead, Henry Clay Dean, of Iowa, is the principal Democratic stump speaker. He is the same foul bird, who during the Presidential campaign of 1864, denounced President Lincoln as "the ignorant baboon," and the "monster who wanted more men for the slaughter pens. Dean never professed to be anything but a strong sympathizer with rebellion, and an enemy of the Government all through the war. He will help the Republicans more than he can possibly do them harm.

The Baltimore American learns that or ders have been received at the Bultimore Custom House, direct from Washington, requiring all the employees to subscrib oney to be used to promote Democratic success, in the elections shortly to take place in New Hampshire. Corn Copperheads. It is positively asserted that no distillery in the county can be "run," outside of those that are in the "Ring," with the corn Copperheads, or whisky bounty-jumpers, we night term them. When an individual desires to "run" a still outside of the whisky "Ring," he must give bonds in a very large amount, say thirty thousand dollars, and agree, in addition thereto, to give some plain man, in the vicinity of the still, ten, fifteen, or twenty barrels of whisky; after which the still is soized and the concern smashed up, because those concerned "ain't in the Ring." Does any body know where the money, obtained from the sale of centraband whisky, goes? or are the proceeds divided between the informer and collector? As in lmost every case the informer is bamboozled by bribes, or forced into a settle-ment in some way, or he gets nothing.

The Liquor Law. In the Legislature, last week, the House, by a unanimous vole, passed a bill entirely repealing the liquor law act of 1867, and the same was sent to the Senate for con

Action of the Republican County EDITORIAL & MISCELLANEOUS.

In pursuance of a public call, the Comlittee met in Lancaster, on Monday last for the purpose, as was supposed, to provide measures to have the party fairly represented in the National and State Conventions. It was supposed by the country members of the Committee who were not in the " whiskey" or some other "ring," that measures would be taken whereby the people could express their preference for the several candidates whom they desired to administer the affairs of the General and State Governments, and also their preference for the man whom they desired should represent them in those conventions. Before the Committee met, it was painfully evident that a few designing and corrupt men had already arranged and intended to force a majority of said Committee to select the delegates already pre-arranged in some back room, without regard to the wishes or best interests of the party. As. soon as the Committee met. Jack Hiestand an incorruptible and pure patriot, who never cares about his own interests when they conflict with those of the party, offered an additional rule to those already in force, for the government of the party, which gave the Committee sole power to select delegates to the National and State Conventions. We are at all times in favor of majorities ruling, but when corrupt and designing men attempt the gag game, we will oppose them to the bitter end. It was evident that this rule, as well as the ticket selected, was to be put through, but the minority of the Committee were determined that this inovation-this outrageshould not be consummated until every man was made to show his hand. The record is now made up, and the parties to it cannot go back of it; it is before the people. A number of the would-be rulers made speeches. Jack pictured an ox bedecked with ribbons, but no one could see what that had to do with the Committee, or the subject under discussion. Thus, after delivering themselves of windy arguments, these gentlemen proceeded to carry out the programme of what had been previously arranged;-professing great love for the soldier, yet no place could be found for him, and he had to stand back and give place to Johnson's office holders, like Bill Wiley and Bob Houston-silent members of the "whiskey ring." A minority of the Committee, believing that the action of the majority was a fraud upon the party, met in the afternoon to discuss and take measures whereby the people could find a mode to rebuke the men who by bribery and corruption had ignored the will of the people; and to have a voice in the matter of selecting delegates to represent themselves and the party. They at once took measures to submit the matter to the people, in accordance with the system adopted last fall by the party. They have appealed to the people, who are responding in thunder tones all

From present indications, a few gentlemen who concealed themselves in some back room, and attempted to "rule the roast," but were "smoked out,"-these

The no-partisan press generally agree in the conclusion that-in the recent correspondence between Mr. Johnson- and General Grant, the President has failed entirely in his effort to impeach the veracity hot from Brigham's brain, a few days ago: and destroy the reputation of the General. The whole matter is summed up in this sense by Wilkes' Spirit of the Times in the following clear and convincing manner:

"One point is distinctly made out, not withstanding all the contradiction and confusion, and that is, that General Grant gave, the President the required notice of his change, of views, and thus learning fully at liberty to make the game for himself, General Grant did not resign on acquainting Mr. Johnson with this change of views, because that would have been an active co-operation with the Presidential plans against the Senate; but he deliberately placed himself in a position to be suspended; and, if Mr. Johnson had meant anything more serious than a political wrangle, he would have suspended him at once, and tried to issue with Gongress on his own resources."

This shus the New York Stratis the following clear and convincing manner:

manely, violate the law: If he had courage equal to his passions, he would have put another maning Grant's, place on that very Saturday when the General notified him he would not continue in office after the approaching action of the Senate₂₀But that was a step he was not prepared for. So he let matters take their course, and compensated himself by misrepresenting and maligning the General after all was over.

CLIMAX.

Page's Climax Salve, for burns, scalds, scrofu salt rheum, sores, broken breasts, frost bites, chib lains, stings, bruises, cuts, swellings, de., whether upon man or beast, is the most wonderful article ever produced. Other good articles alleviate: this cures. It allays inflammation, subdues pain, and heals without a sear. It is worth its weight in gold to any family, and should always be on hand. It arranted to do what it says every time.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PIELS & PHOENIX - BITTERS.

Vere first used in private practice in 1825. They were introduced to the public in 1835, since which time their reputation has extended, until they have a sale in excess of all other cathartic and purifying dicines. There is hardly a family among civil ized nations who have not personal evidence of their beneficial effects. Their great success is owing to their uniform reliability in cases of constipation bilious and stomachic diseases, whether of long or short duration. They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and harmless to the gentlest infant One ingredient opens the pores of the skin; another is diuretic; and stimulates proper action of the hid neys; a third is emollient, loosening phlegm and humor from the lungs; other properties are warmin and cathartic, and cleanse the stomach and howel from unhealthy secretions. Their combined effect is, to regulate the impaired functions of the system and to produce health. It is not asserted Moffat's Pills are a cure-all—that they will cure all complaints -but under ordinary cicumstances they may b relied upon to cure nervous and sick headache, co tiveness, dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice, liver anp bilious complaints, colds, scurvy, general weakness de. They are expressly made for these diseases. Millions upon millions of cures can be cited. In no single instance has a complaint ever come to our knowledge, where they have not operated as re-com The printed circular around each oux fully explain the symptoms and effects of each disease, specifics realment, furnishes evidence, &c. > .

We briefly refer to Rev. David Eder, Franklin, N. C., who was cured of dyspepsia. C. R. Cross, o Theoike, Ill., cured of liver complaint- H. Hooley, o Springfield, Pa., bad scrofula, and had to use crutch es: was cured in three weeks. James D. Dolens, o drian, Mich. cured of bilious fever. Rev. SOME FOLKS CAN'T SLEEP NIGHTS.

Very many suffer from general debility, other from weakness of the stomach and inability to di-gest their food; some have creeping sensations along the nerve fibres, or pain in the back, with aching and weary throbbing of the limbs. Thousands of ladie suffer through long years from what are called Female Complaints, caused by the relaxation of mus-cle and ligament that attend deficiency of vital force. Thousands of business men, overworked in mind and body, use up the nervous fluid and become un fit for duty or the enjoyments of life. Excesses is youth, and the terrible effects of fever and ague, in volve shattered constitutions and the failure of th general functions of health. To sufferers from a

DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR offers an invaluable boon—a natural and efficien recovery of lost powers. No person, man or woman suffering from any cause, can afford to neglect this remedy. The Nervine will be found to possess an equalizing and nutritive principle. It allays irritaition, and like sleep promotes the secretions of the system. It has affinity for the nervous fibres, and supplies them for the waste that is constantly taking place. Like wholesome food taken into the stormel it undergoes rapid digestion; invigorating in its process the digestive organs, and producing a CALMNESS AND TRANQUILITY, unknown to any other preparation. It contains pium or hasheesh, and so far from producing co reness, it will be found an efficient cure for const ireness, it will be found an efficient cure for consti-nation, and has obtained a world-wide renown for this peculiarity. WHAT PEOPLE SAY. "Dear Doctor: The last medicine prescribed by our I obtained, and will say that Dodd's Nervine and nvigorator is all that it claims to be. I feel like itew man; the aching of my limbs is all gone; I sleep reall, have a good appetite, and feel stronger than lave for many years past " [Contributed by Dr. II v. Tucker, 259 Clinton street, Prooklyn, New York. "I have used the Nervine, and find myself much benefited by it, particularly in the increase of strength and cure of those trembling sensations. My costiveness also seems to be entirely cured. Letter to Dr. Tucker.]

[Letter to Dr. Tucker.]

"The medicine you ordered (Dodd's Nervine) we have taken three bottles of. It is a great thing: My wife says she would rather have one bottle of it than forty doctors. She is certainly better, don't feel the dragging down so much; bowels move easier, and in better nervous condition every way."

G. B. Martin, Cashler Glenn House, Long Branch, New Jorsey, states that Dodd's Nervine has cured him of chronic weakness of the stomach, dizziness and sick headache, and greatly strengthened his whole system.

David Hartshorn, 399 State street, Brooklyn, cured of chronic muscular and nervous debility.

John Harbut, Brooklyn, N. 3, says: "To regulate the bowels without producing cathartic effect, question of the system. I have never used anything that equalled Dodd's Nerview."

never used anything that equalled Dodd's Nervine."

W. F. Deans, Esq. Eastford, Conn.. "My wife has suffered for seventeen years, with extreme nervous debility and mental prostration. She was induced by a friend to try Dr. J. W. Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator, and by its use is now restored to perfect health."

Dr. C. C. York, Charlestown, Mass.: "In cases of great pervous debility, not confined by any means to the female sex, although from the greater delicacy of the female sex, although from the greater delicacy of the female sex, although from the greater delicacy of the female organization more continuou than among men, I employ Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator with the happiest effect. It exceeds in tonic power anything that I know of, while its action upon the bowels is all that can be desired."

DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGURATOR is employed in the Massachusetts Hospital for the Insane at Taunton.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

Is a soothing expectorant, prepared to meet the urgent need of a safe-and reliable cure, for discasses of the throat and lungs. A trial of many years has established the fact, that it is more efficacious in palmonary affections, than any other remody. It efficacy has now become so generally known, that it is justly regarded in many countries as a medicino of indispensable necessity. In Great Britain, France, and Germany, where medical science has reached its highest perfection, it is prescribed in domestic practice, and constantly used in the armies, in hapitals and other public institutions, where it is regarded by the attending physicians as the most speedy and agreeable remedy that can be employed. Scarcely any neighborhood can be found where well known cases of diseased lungs, which had baffled the efforts of the most skiffini and experienced doctors, have been pernamently cured by it. These results are the most convincing proofs of the superior curative properties of this preparation; and to them the authors point with peculiar satisfaction. While it is most powerful against confirmed diseases, it is extremely gentle as a medicine in infancy and youth, being quite harmless to even the youngest, when administered judiciously.

This health-restorer accomplishes even more hyprevention than cure. If taken in season, it lients all irritations of the throat and lungs, whether arising from Colds or Coughs, or from other causes, and thus prevent that long train of painful and incurable diseases, which would arise from the neglect of them. Hence no family should be without it. Influenza, Croup, Hourseness, Whooping Cough, Pleurisy, Incipient Consumption, and other affections of the breathing organs, give way before this pre-eminent combination of medical virtues.

Prepared by Da. J. C. AYER & CO. Lovell, Mass, and sold by all Druggists and dealers in Medicine everywhere.

VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

HAS STOOD THE TEST OF SEVEN YEARS BEFORE THE PUBLIC; And no preparation for the hair has yet been discovered that will produce the same beneficial results. It is an entirely new scientific discovery, combining many of the most powerful and restorative agents in the VEGETABLE KING-DOM. It restores

GRAY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL YOUTHFUL COLOR.

It makes the scalp white and clean; cures dand-ruff and humors, and falling out of the hair; and will make it grow upon bald heads, except in very agod persons, as it furnishes the nutritive principle by which the hair is noutrished and supported. It makes the hair moist, soft, and places and is unsurpassed as HAIR DRESS.

IT IS RECOMMENDED AND USED BY THE FIRST MEDICAL AUTHORITY. The wonderful results produced by our SICIL-IAN HAIR RENEWER have induced many to manufacture preparations for the Hair, under various names; and, in order to induce the trade and the public to purchase their compounds, they have resorted to falsehood, by claiming they were former partners, or had some connection with our MR.
