THE COLUMBIA SPY STEAM-POWER PRINTING OFFICE WILL BE REMOVED ABOUT THE FIRST OF APRIL NEXT, TO THE NEW BUILDING NOW BEING ERECTED FOR IT-No. 2, BANK STREET, NORTH OF LOCUST STREET, AND REAR OF COLUMBIA NATIONAL BANK.

That Wrong. The Laucaster Examiner takes us to task for some pertinent remarks made in the SPY of last week. Well, what a pity that we should raise the ire of the publishers of that paper, who think it bigh treason that any paper outside of Lancaster should make any inquiries, or any inucados in reference to any officers, cliques, parties or rings, in that city. It is not the first time that that paper has taken umbrage at the Srr. It will-be recollected that some time since it called us very hard names, because we had the audacity to publish a county advertisement that was not ordered to be printed in that paper. Now, again, the Examiner, with terrible main and flory crest, rushes to the defence of one of the proprietors of that paper, for certain wrongs said to have been committed by the SPY. We can assure him that we do not mean to he diverted from the pursuit of our game by any such dodge as that. A bumarang can just as well reach the object aimed at, even if it is hid behind a whiskey still, as if it was in plain view. We were well aware that there were other ducks likely to feel the effects of our article, besides those whom he has chosen to defend. Before we are through with this subject, we expect to discover the itching palm that is extended. monthly to receive the small modicum of a thousand dollars from the members of the whiskey ring, respectively. Do you take, Mr. Examiner? We guess you did. You take occasion to inform the public that the collector of this district has politely invited ny to make a thorough examination of the matter about which this hubbub has been raised. We beg leave to decline the kind offer: we have neither the time nor inclination to enter upon any wild goose chase. If the collector seeks a thorough examination, let him make application to the proper department at Washington, for an expert in melling out whiskey frauds. It is not likely that any one would be green enough to keep a record of the fact in a public office. As the collector seems to be of an obliging disposition, we would thank him to inform us whether he made any effort to discover the owner, or the distillery from which was seized, in this place, about three months ago, forty barrels of whiskey, in a car belonging to a firm in Lancaster city. Did he not know that it came from a distillery owned by a namesake of his, and that a leading member of the "whiskey ring" offered to buy off the informer, although pretending at the time not to own or know from whence it came, or to whom it be longed? To understand the situation thoroughly, we must know first why this thing was not hunted up, and the distillery seized. Was it because, it was, and is, owned by the "whiskey ring?" We would like to know also the amount of whiskey tax paid month ly during the fourth quarter in 1866, and the amount paid monthly during the fourth quarter in 1867, by comparimounts with the number of distilleries running. Some idea may be formed as to whether everything is done

The Examiner protests against making s target of gentlemen holding official positions. When these officious gentlemen un dertake by trickery and fraud to foist themselves upon the Republican party as its representatives at Chicago and Philadelphia they must expect to receive an occasional fire. If it happens that all the cartridges one is to blame but themselves. In con clusion, Mr. Examiner, if we happen to hunt you up, don't get nervous, nor call us hard names. The bark of a dog never hurts -it is the bite. Avaunt.

Copperheads, Pay Your Taxes. It is very amusing to see the vaporing of the Copperheads in the organ of the Co lumbia Insurance Company, as to the won derful feats of blood and slaughter they intend to perform if the Radicals dure to expel a traitor from the Presidency, and put in his place an honest man. Such courage we heard let off very often before the rebellion broke out; but after Fort Sumte was taken by the rebels, these fighting gentry were as mute as mice; and but fev of them shouldered their muskets, first, for want of courage, and next for sympathy with the robels, although, under fear, they did occasionally reluctantly put out a Union flag, while they were around their necks a copper cent.

We have only to say to them now, that we would advise them, one and all, instead of blustering, to make honest returns of their incomes, and honestly pay their income taxes, as all good and loyal citizens will do lest they find themselves in print, and their bodies in the hands of the officers of justice A good and honest man will never shirk paying his taxes; but how many Copper-heads in this town alone have done it. Mr. Assessor, please hand us a list of the de Beduction of the Army. The bill for the gradual reduction of the army, reported by Senator Wilson and passed by the Sanate, provides that no more Second Lieutenants shall be appointed, except from graduates of the military academy; that the grades of Regimental Commissaries, Sergounts, Regimental Hospital Steward, Veterinary Surgeon and Regimental Commissary, in the regiments of cavalry, shall be abolished; that the number of Corporais in each company shall be reduced to four, and that fourtee of the military bands authorized by the act of July, 1860, shall at once be honorably discharged. The bill, if it becomes a law, will, it is said by Mr. Wilson, effect a saving of two millions of dollars per year in the expenses of the army, ffor the Sry.1 MR. EDITOR:—I thank you for the very digni-ed and complimentary article, in the last num-er of the SPY, in which you are pleased to allude nurself, as a. "Johnson, office holder, and a to mysulf, as a." Johnson offlee holder, and a silent member of the whisky ring," To the first charge I beg leave to say, that I was appointed to my present position, by a gentle-man whose republicanism has never been ques-tioned; it would, I cel assured, compare not un-favorably with that of any gentleman about the Sey offlee.

of the control of the

and measures of the Republican party, I should like to know it.

To the second charge, I scarcely know what to reply. I understand very well the latitude which should be allowed to public journalists, in a political contest. I know the old proverb, ihat "all is fair in war," and that perhaps even this, can be justified on that maxim, and yet I cannot convince myself that such deliberate, unqualified lying is either honorable or gentlemanly.

The author of the article either knew nothing of what he wrote, or else knew it to be a base, malicious and utterly unfounded falsehood, which no political exigency can justify.

I ask for this the same publication as was given to the article in question.

Yours, Respectally,

We regret that this letter was written.

We regret that this letter was written; we did not intend to make any further allusion to the author of the above, as we have been assured that he is a most worthy and exemplary gentleman, and entirely too verdant to be engaged in any rascality. He seems to think that because we spoke of "Johnon office holders," that of course we implied that they were all Copperheads, or renegades from the Republican party. We do not doubt. Mr. Houston's loyalty to the party; but nevertheless we learn that he vas a blatant and noisy friend of the Hon. T. Stevens but two short years ago, when suddenly he became lukewarm towards that great man and his friends. The colder he grew towards them; the affinity between him and the "great corruptionist" grew closer and more attractive in the same ratio. Whatever his motive may have been, his reachery to his best friend was soon followed by its reward. When the masses of the party were about to be betrayed a few weeks ago by a few of the most unconscionable political rascals that have ever disgraced a party, they selected not only some of their wn number, but included Mr. Houston, also, it was fair to infer that he was in full accord with them. Thus much for his political consistency. We do not understand what is meant by "scratched a ticket." The reader can draw such inference therefrom as suits his fancy. To what he is pleased to term the "second charge," he scarcely knows what to reply, and takes good care to dodge the subject altogether, and goes to calling us hard names. You should recollect, Mr. Houston, that when a person trains in bad company, seeking for onors from the people, it is their right to know what manner of man he is. But why all this sensitiveness on your part? If there is no "whiskey ring," no one is hurt; but from your conduct and your communication above, no other inference can be drawn but that there is such a ring, and that you are aware of the fact, and dread the infamy which you know must attach to those who pelong to it. We learn that you have blus tered no little about this matter, and have mentioned others in connection with it You also make allusion to "gentlemen about the Sry office." We can assure you Friend Distances" is in a great ferment, at the present writing; but owing to the insignificance of some of the parties concerned, the "ferment" does not exactly "shake the Nation to its center." Doolittle said to "his Accidency," only yesterday: "The eyes of the whole world are upon you." (What good eyes the world must have to see him.) Not exactly; the eyes of the whole world are upon the United States Senate and House, who are going through Andy Johnson and his horde of releasympathizing office holders, in the most-"red hot" manner imaginable. When Johnson issued his orders to Gen. Thomas to take possession of the War Office, ad interim, and again sought to oust Secretary Stanton after he had been reinstated by the Senate of the United States, and in direct antagonism to their resolution, he put his foot in it; that was the last feather wanting to break his Accidency's back. When the Senate held back from the Impeachment question, on the ground that they did not feel that they had sufficient reason to impeach him, they were only laying this trap for Andy. They were morally certain when they reinstated Stanton that it would end as it has, and the prompt arrest of the would-be Secretary is an evidence that they WASHINGTON, Feb. 27th, 1868. they reinstated Stanton that it would end as it has, and the prompt arrest of the would-be Secretary is an evidence that they were prepared for this issue. You have, perhaps, seen the characteristic letter (?) written by Charles Summer, to Stanton, on Saturday last. As it is not very lengthy I will re-produce it for the benefit of your readers:

SENATE CHAMBER, Feb. 22d, 1868. Sincerely Yours, CHARLES SUMMER. "Stick."

Sincerely lours,
Charles Scener.

Secretary Stanton took the advice and "stuck," and from that time up to the present, he has not left his office for one instant; he has his meals brought to him and sleeps on a lounge. Verily he "sticks" to some purpose, when the President, Cabinet, and all combined can't get him out.

On Monday morning, 2ith inst., Gescard
Thomas again visited Stanton, and addressed him in these terms:
"Mr. Stanton, I have this morning again received orders from the President, directing me to take charge of the War Department and the records thereof, and discharge the duty of Secretary of War, ad interim.
In obedience to that order, sir, Lum here to

In obedience to that order, sir, Lum here to take charge of the Department and assume the duties of Secretary of War, adinterim."

Mr. Stanton replied, "I do not acknowledge the authority of the President to give any such order, and refuse to surrender the Department to you. You will proceed to your room, sir, and discharge the duties as Adjutant General of the Army."

General Thomas replied, "I will not do so, sir. I have been ordered by the President to discharge the duties of Secretary of War, adinterim, and I will obey that order."

Many exciting reports have been in circulation since Saturday, as to the part to be taken by the military hereabouts, in the difficulty between the President and Congress. It was currently reported yesterress. It was carrently reported yester-lay, that the 12th Regiment, Colonel Wal day, that the 12th Regiment, Colonel Wallace, was to be employed to enable General Thomas to take military possession of the War Department—that General Thomas was then to get himself arrested under the Civil Tenure Act, for the proceeding, and pardoned by the President before trial, under the President's pardoning powers.

On Saturday, Andy sent for General Emory, who commands the Department of Washington, and whose co-operation, retherefore, doubtless regarded as a very important adjunct to his scheme. Had General Emory consented to become his tool, it eral Emory consented to become his tool, it is not likely that we should have heard any of the pacific talk to which we are now of the pacific talk to which we are now treated; at least until an attempt had been made to use stronger measures. But he was too good a soldier, and too loyal a citizen to lead himself to Andy's purpose, and it is even said that he informed the President of his position in the somewhat blunt expression, "You can't use me." Andy tapped the wrong barrel that time.

It is understood that the commanding officers of the troops within the Department of Washington have all had their atment of Washington have all had their attention called to the law, and been reminded of their duty thereunder. It is stated that the President sent for Colonel Wallace, commanding the 12th Infantry, but found him as incorruptible as General Emory. ment of Washington have all commanding the 12th Infantry, but found him as incorruptible as General Emory. The only encouragement he has met with, so far as I can hear, is from the venerable Secretary of the Navy. This "old man of the sea," with characteristic officiousness, has tendered to the President the service of the Marines located in this city, of which there are about four hundred, under command of General Zeilin, an officer who is in accord with Congress. All things considered, circumstances seem very unfavorable for a resort to force against the Secretary of War, if Andy really entertained such a design. He, (Andy.) sent in to the Senute, on Monday, the nomination of Thomas Ewing, Sr., to be Secretary of War.

The pressure and excitement at the Cupitol for the past few days, and at the present writing, surpasses anything known since the most exciting periods of the war. It was found necessary this morning, for the preservation of order, and to preven the windows and passages from being entirely blockaded by the excited crowd, to call in the aid of the Metropolitan Police.

Philadelphia Correspondence. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26th, 1868.

DEAR SPY:—It is hardly necessary to state that there has been great excitement in the city for the past few days. All over the land, the news of our accidental Presi-

the land, the news of our accidental President's last act in the attempted removal of the Secretary of Yur, has aroused the people to a true sense of his defiant opposition to the legislative part of the Government, and intense interest in the affairs of State prevails everywhere. History is being made among us with lightning quickness in these days, and there seems to be no end to startling deeds and unexpected events. What we are coming to, and what the bearing of these rapid changes on our future history will be, are questions which may well cause us to pause and reflect. But the die has been east; the President has again defied the power of Congress; and some history will be, are questions which may well cause us to pause and reflect. But the die has been east; the President has again defied the power of Congress; and some blow must be struck for the cause of truth and good government. Doubtless while I am writing this, our loyal Representatives in Congress have already taken the preliminary measures which will lead to a speedy removal of the usurper. The downfall of this treacherous man, we hope and believe, will bring peace to our land—and the South, seeing their last prop gone, will the sooner come back to us, accept of our terms, and be again received into our fold. May we not hope that the overruling hand of Providence will speedily bring about such a happy state of affairs?

Washington's birthday was pretty generally observed as a holiday here, although not half so strictly as in times that are past. Many strangers were attracted to the city on this account, and they together with the liberated working-people, made our streets present a lively appearance. It has been said that Philadelphia is noted for its handsome-young mon, Baltimore for its beautiful young ladies, and New York for a slight sprinkling of both; but one would think from the array of charming faces and forms, aided by the attractions of the present style of dress, which "the fair" presented on that afternoon, that Philadelphia could easily compete with Baltimore for the palm in this respect.

The design of the new Masonic Temple, which was inserted in my last letter, does not seem to give general satisfaction. Letters on this subject from practical and amateur architects have frequently appeared in 'our daily papers, and their general tone is that of dislike for it. One writer, that the building will be a disgrace to the city in point of architectural leauty; another, that the city should not permit such a design to be used; and still another, that not only Masons but every one else should be interested on the subject, and that whoever has the improvements. I do not profess to know anything abo posed to spend upon it, should give to the city one of the most handsome structures ever erected, one that will be an ornament to it, and an attraction to strangers.

Some of your readers, who have been in the city, have, perhaps, noticed the fine chromo-lithograph portrait of Gen. Grant, now in Earle's window. It is one of the finest chromos I have ever seen, and judging from photographs, as exact a likeness of the General as could be produced. He is sitting in a chair in an easy and graceful manner, dressed in regimentals, and the expression of his face is not at all strained, but very characteristic. Those who wish to secure a good likeness of our future President, would do well to call and see it.

The last readings of Charles Dickens in this city, were not nearly so well attended as the first, and it is said there were four hundred vacant seats on the last two occasions. Tickets were to be purchased at fifty cents, and speculators lost a great amount on their investments. The manner in which the affair of speculation was managed has at last leaked out. A New Yorker bought all the seats of Concert Hall before the day of sale, sold a certain number from the box-office, and reserved a great quantity bought all the sents of Concert Hall before the day of sale, sold a certain number from the box-office, and reserved a great quantity which were distributed for sale at hows-stands and bookstores, so that during the first readings, he must have made at least secenty-five per cent. on the original in-vestment.

sereiny-tive per comments to streets, and the opening up of new ones, the numbering of houses and corner signs of streets, lead one to think you are fust becoming a city. Doubtless we shall hear ere long of a letter-delivery, and of the introduction of street cars.

Truly yours,

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22d, 1868. THE CITY.

Never has there been a greater depression in business matters than at present, and never was there a greater exertion to revive the stagnation, than is now displayed the merchants and business men of t the merchants and business men of this metropolis. Domestic goods of every description are again "on the rise," and there is some excitement among buyers, in consequence. Wholesale dealers seem willing to sell, notwithstanding tho cry of higher prices, and everything moves on in a strictly business-like manner, with hopes that the spring trade will make all things right, when it fairly opens—the time of which will be about the middle of March or the first of April. Heaven grant their predictions may be true. SMITH VS. SMITH.

The habeas corpus case of Mrs. Helen T. Smith, to gain possession of two children from the custody of their father, Robert Smith, has attracted considerable attention in the Court of Quarter Sessions, during the past week. I would detail some of the particulars, did I deem the evidence of a fitting nature to be paraded through the columns of a respectable journal. Those who wish to know the particulars may find them in the pages of the Police Gazette, or some other scurrilous sheet of that pursuasion. Whether Mrs. Smith will gain the custody of her children or not, remains now with the decision of the Judge, as two of the ablest lawyers of this city have already argued the case before him. It is hoped by many that the children may remain with the father, as the mother appears to be very well known as not expable of frain-Smith has attracted considerable attention main with the lattice, as the monter appears to be very well known as not capable of fraining them properly. Judge Allison is a "wise Christian gentleman"—according to the sideas of Daniel Dougherly, Esq., and will not fail to act wisely in the case before him.

I had the satisfaction to look upon the personage of this notable southerner, a few days since, as he passed in the street. From the accounts of most of the newspaper writers, one would be inclined to imagine Mr. Stephens an old, decrepit man, but such is not the case. He is as sprightly, and has a step as clastic as a young man of thirty years. He wore a suit of black, and a broad brimmed slouched hat, said to have been his custom for years at home. He is stopping with Mr. Jones, of the National Publishing Company, in whose office he is completing the closing manuscripts of his book soon to be published, entitled, "A Constitutional, view of the late War Between the States; its Canses, Character, Conduct, and Results," More Anon. CLIMAX. A plain statement of facts. I inherited Scrofula and many of my relations have died of it. In 1870 my case was frightful. Tumors and ulcers spread until in 1842, under the advice of my physicians I went to Avon Springs. I received no benefit-tried every medicine and did everything I could. I had to rest my arm on a cushion, and had not been able to raise it to my head for over a year. The disto raise it to my head for over a year. The discharge from two ulcers was nearly a pint a day. Amputation was recommended; but-pronounced dangerous. I could not sleep, and my sufferings were intolerable. A friend brought me an English physician who applied a salve with which he said he had accomplished extraordinary cures in the hospitals in England. It commenced to relieve; I worked on the field of the property of the propert persisted in its uso; it finally effected a perfect and entire cure. It is now 1818. It is five years since I had the appearance of a scrofillous core, and my health has been good ever since. I procured the receipt of this wonderful article—this blessing of humanity—and have called it "Pane's Clanax Sure," and allow the public to use it or not as they choose. This is a brief but candid statement, given more fully in my circular.

We began in 1891 to make improvements in the style and make of Ready Made Clothing, and continued to do so, introducing new styles and ideas every year, so that the online character of the business is now vastly better and totally different from the systems of older houses.
