Impeachment. There does not seem to be any particula advancement towards that great end to which the whole world is looking forward with such undivided attention and anxiety. The mere details of the trial to a looker-on have nothing particularly interesting in them, indeed, it would require more stoicism than usually falls to the lot of common mortals to sit in the galleries of the Senate Chamber inhaling the unwholesome atmosphere for hours, occasionally catching some faintly delivered sentence to which he utterly fails to attach any meaning, merely to be able to say that he had "been there." The impeachment tickets, at the present writing, are at the beck and call of any one who wants them, literally "without money and without price," in fact they almost go begging and the attendance grows slimmer and more scanty as the trial drags its monotonous length along. If there he at present any interest manifested in the proceedings it is certainly not apparent in quarters where it would be most naturally looked for and expected; journals which devoted columns of editorial to the subject some weeks since now, content themselves with the dry details and the re-production of the arguments for and against. with, scarcely any comment. The legal passages at arms occasionally bring forth a faint burst of applause from the members of the profession, but the people at large fail to appreciate (perhaps,) such things in their anxiety to have something more definite and something tending to elucidate the great mystery " which now enshrouds the proceedings of the Court of Impeachment. The prevalent and universal opinion at Washington seems to be that even should there be a two-thirds vote for conviction removal will not necessarily follow, that the time will be occupied in technicalities etc., consequent upon so important a step and

Still They Come.

"Every mall, almost, brings us a package of the Legislative Mecond which, as the Legislature adjourned several weeks ago, furnish very fresh, and interesting reading. A record of the proceedings, if published the day succeeding that on which they took place, would be full of interest, as giving the public some idea of what the Legislature was doing; but coming long after adjournment they are worthless except for reference, and are rarely, if ever, read.—Pillsburg Dispatch. petrated upon the tax-paying people of this commonwealth than this Legislative Record. It was the purport and intent of this journal to give the Legislative proceedings every morning, the same as any daily paper, but instead it is published some days, and sometimes weeks after the proceedings have been published in all the papers, rendering it almost useless. We hope that something will be done in reference to this matter at the next meeting of the Legislature to abate the evil complained of, or abolish the publication altogether. Lancaster City Election.

The poor, chaste Democracy of Luncaste city have our sympathy. They have cause for grief. The late elections have resulted so differently from their expectations, and they are so certain to lose many of the good lobs and pickings on which they could fatten. They cry out as if they were undone forever. Paving the streets—the waterworks, and other matters, have fed their lazzaroni so long that we fear they will have to go it a little stronger on the illicit whisky business to sustain themselves. The whisky ring may expect a few recruits, or perhaps the Ku Klux Klun may help them in their distress. If they will make themselves sufficiently amiable, perhaps Mr. Wylie might recognize them as worthy of a whisky sop, or perhaps honest Jack Heistand might give them a share of that thousand dollars. Many of the sterner sex have heretofore objected to females being elevated to Congress, or any other legislative body, lest there would be nothing but gab and gos-aip. not be seriously urged.

Titaddens Stevens. Speaking of Mr. Stevens, Flake's Gal

It is perhaps, unnecessary for us to say that we are not admirers of the course followed by Thaddeus Stevens. We have perhaps, too frequently expressed this disobation to repeat it now. We do not ike his course, in its intense radicalism We would gladly have seen him less vinlictive and far less extreme. But while we lisagree with him and disapprove of many of his projects, we cannot but admire his y convinced of his own rectitude and of the mate wisdom of his acts, would day by day follow them out with such intense anxiety while the clods of the grave were crumbling

Day after day he totters or is carried into the House, straining the brittle thread of ife-for the purpose of accomplishing political act—an act from which he can gain no possible good, but which he profes clieve necessary for the good of his country and of its people. No man can read the daily reports of Congress and doubt the onesty of this old man, nor the pureness of his motives, however much he may doubt his wisdom. Right or wrong, still the sight of Thaddeus Stevens battling for that which he thinks is right with scurcely an hours lease on life, is one of the grandes views of human nature that the manhood

How great an error To look over and over a hundred exchange papers, from which to select enough for one especially when the question is not what shall, but what shall not be selected, is no very easy task. If every person who eads a newspaper could have edited it, we should have less complaining. Not unfrequently it is the case that an editor looks ver all his exchange papers for something nteresting and can find absolutely nothing. Every paper is drier than a contribution box, and yet something must be had-his paper must be out with something in it, and he does the best he can. To an editor who has the least care in what he selects he writing he has to do is the eaisest part of his labor. Every subscriber thinks the paper is printed for his own benefit, and is there is nothing that suits him, it must be stopped—it is good for nothing. As many subscribers as an editor has, so many tastes he has to consult. New York Correspondence. NEW YORK, May 4th, 1868.

THE SUBTERRANEAN ROAD. It is said that Gotham is soon to becom It is said that Gotham is soon to become a second London, at least in her metropolitan improvements, and an underground railrond is to be made from the head of Broadway to Park-Place; but a poet once declared that "It might have been," which I am inclined to think may be applicable to this project at the expiration of the five years in which it is to be completed, or we might add the interrogation, and await the reply "Is it to be?" By the terms of the bill anthorizing this wonderful London-like operation, we are told that an opening (a running ulcer to the city,) is to be made on Broadway, at or near Park-Place, which will not cease to pour forth its rubbish for five, or six long and dreary years, very much to the inconvenience of the already aggravated vehicle traffic of the city. In noticing the removal of gas pipes on upper Broadway, one can very readily discern what a horrid, provoking "mess" there will be made of this "last but not least" of municipal "improvements." That the chronic condition of this sort of "improvements" will not only impede travel and traffic, but add a constant thow of rubbish to last for years, can not be denied, and that after all this work and inconvenience. and London, at least in her metropol traffic, but add a constant flow of rubbish to last for years, can not be denied, and that after all this work and inconvenience, it is questionable whether it will over be completed, and I am forced again to ask "Is it to be?" Just think of it, reader, a big hole in Broadway, pouring out cart loads of dirt and rubbish for over five years to come? What do you think of it?

2 . W THE LOEW BRIDGE. This pontine structure has been subjected to the greatest stress of test of any heretofore ever constructed in the world, and jokes of the heaviest and most ridiculous culibre have been aimed at it since its commencement until that noted actress rode across it on her high-trained charger. There has been plentiful quips in the days of dry weather, at the expense of the bridge but when Broadway was ankle deep in mud and water, when even a six foot policeman could not secure an unsullied skirt to lady crossers, the conviction was strongly borne in upon wayfarers that this bridge was a public convenience, though it might also scrve as a laughing stock to some. It would be a benefit and a public convenience to the pedestrians to have these bridges spanning. Among the many monstrosities practiced by the "blood-suckers" of Gotham, I may mention the following as the most high-handed: The tax-payers have the privilege of paying an addition, for the coming year, to the salary of each alderman, of enough to make his pay $3,500 a year, exclusive of perquisites; also the increase of the clerk's salary to $7.500; also the deputy's to $5,000, and soon, making the total salaries in the Legislative department $211,450. Ten years ago in was not over $7,000 in all. Those were the times when men served as Alderman for the honor of the position, but the honor has long since yone, and now it is grab while you can. A riot was attempted on Saturday afternoon last, in consequence thereof, at the Tax Department, but was soon put down by the police force. Much ill feeling is shown, and trouble anticipated. AN INCREASE.

Mucu in actions it is a first of New York is far ahead of other cities in its attractive features presented to the traveler, and among them most prominent are its amusements. Some idea of the extent of the patronage to these resorts may be drawn when I say a certain theatre in this city, for the month of February footed up its receipts to the amount of over $50,000. Among the minstrel troupes, of which class there are quite a number, I may name that of Kelly & Leon's, whose receipts in the month of. March amounted to nearly ten thousand: dollars. After Recorder Hackett's charge was given, which required fifteen minutes in its reading, the jury retired, and soon returned and resumed their seats, and all in the room resumed the seats they had left during that time. The audience was as still as death, hushed with expectation. Mr. Kelly was the coolest man in the room. Mr. Sparks then said: "Gentlemen of the Jury, please answer to your names," and the roll was called. Mr. Sparks: "Please rise to your feet, gentlemen of the Jury. Stand up, Mr. Kelley; Jury, look upon the prisoner; prisoner, look upon the jury. How say you, gentlemen of the jury, do you find the prisoner at the bar—Edwin Kelley—guilty or not guilty?"

Jurors—(all) "Not guilty."

Mr. Sparks—" And so say you all?"

Jurors—"We do."

A long drawn breath passed over the audience, which immediately gave way to the most tumultuous applause, during which Recorder Hackett suid, "Mr. Kelley, you are discharged." Mr. Kelly hus not fully recovered from the wound he received in the recontre, the ball still remaining unabstracted.

We would cell especial attention to the fine American Organ, manufactured by S. D. & H. W. Smith. Boston, Mass., containing two banks of keys and fourteen stops, which was used at the musical convention, to assist in supporting the chorus. At the concerts, the deep sub bass notes were plainly manifest above the 300 voices in the grand Hallelujah, chorus, while in the accompaniment of the solo, "He was despised." The touching effects of the tremolo, with the soft stops, was strikingly exhibited.—Burlington Sentinel.
