GEN. ULYSSES S. GRANT OF ILLINOIS. · FOR VICE PRESIDENT. SCHUYLER COLFAX,"

FOR PRESIDENT,

OF INDIANA.

WE have received a communication from a conservative citizen of Lancaster, who takes us to task about our article to " Laborers," in which he asks, us, a few questions. In order to-clear his party from any responsibility for the late war, and, assuming their entire innocence, he asks us what the Radicals " propose to do with the late wholesale pardoning of a lot of rebels, the most notorious rebels. bushwhackers and cut-throats any nation was ever cursed with, &c.""- We suppose in this he refers to Congress relieving some of the more moderate of the late rebels from their political disabilities ; if so, this conservative should not complain. for the great Triend of his party, the great " Moses," Andrew Johnson" had already pardoned the most notorious rebels, on purpose to use them against the Congressional plan of reconstruction: But when Andy pardoned these men, our correspondent did not see fit to call them cutthroats, rebels, &c. Oh, no ! They became then good Democrats, and are now represented in the New York Democratic Convention-among them such villains as Forrest, Hampton, and the like.

But when those who were rebels, and acknowledge the fact, are willing to abide by the decision of the sword, confess their faults before their countrymen, and, by their actions since the war, have given the country to understand that they will bereafter be faithful to the flag, and support our common country; when such men are forgiven, it is a terrible thing. We see very well that our conservative friend cares more about the pardon of rebels that are known to be good Democrats, and who are still hostile to the country, and would to day, were there a ghost of a chance to repeat the rebellion. Your friend, Andy, has just completed the work of his late proclamation, so we need say no more on the pardon subject. The tand of the Again he asks : "Who were the rebels, and traitors that robbed the African of from time immemorial he has had the We answer-the men who got up the rebellion : mostly the leaders of the Southern Democracy, who kept the negro in-slavery, and lived on the product of his labor. Complaints of Messrs. G, H & O: After the Seymour for President. We cannot but notice that a very serious After five days badgering, the immacu-injury is daily committed against three. The Copperhead party have nominated gentlemen, for whom we have great rest Horatio Seymonr, of New York, for the spect, and whom we think descrye better Presidency. Mr. G complains that people very commonly omit to notice him, and leave him out of company to which he properly belongs; as for instance. he says that when some pious folks (and he says he is fond of religion, too,) want to talk about the " roaring devil," the "bleeding nun." the

Mr. H. says his case is still worse, for he is used when and where nobody has a right to use him, and ignored where he has a right. For instance, a very learned gontleman, or one professedly so, because he came from college, always makes him stand up at the head, where he ought not to be, as for instance, he will insist upon saying (h)appre'end for apprehend, doubly insulting him by omitting him where he ought nut; (h)energy for energy; (b)enticement for enticement, (h)internal and .: (h)infernal for internal and threshings lately .: administered to our infernal ; (h)erring mortals for erring Slate makers, they would have hadia de
