Labor the Basis of Republican Institutions.

FRIEND RAMBO.—If, as has been said, idleness is the mother of mischief, occupation and industry are the progenitors of virtue and good order. The universal hasto for wealth, coupled with unwillingness to toil for its acquisition, is fruitful of crime and destructive of business integrity. Throughout the whole country, the cities and towns are thronged with idle Micawbers, waiting for something to turn up by which they may become possessed of a for-tune, and pass their lives in luxurious ease. Such men are the bane of society. They seem to believe that labor is degrading, and think nothing more honorable than surreptions dependence. And yet society is filled with them. Not a reader of this paragraph but can point to those within his immediate acquaintance.

The folly of the presentage is its want of appreciation of true manliness. He is not the best type of American nobility who apes the foreign aristocracy, and considers nest labor degrading and unworthy, The genius of our democracy is the exaltation of labor, and its triumph is the vindication of toil from the contempt of an effete nobility, that clings with the tenacity of life to ancient ideas and obsolete distinc-

We are a great and progressive nation, ecause we are shaping out our own destiny by the iron hand, of labor. We have een singularly successful in our experiment of self-government, because we make it the first principle of conduct to depend upon ourselves for results, and not to hope or anything from ancestral titles or inherited wealth. The founders of the American Republic were men of independence. When they landed on these shores, they shook off, they training of Duropean coustons, they laid uside forever the pride of family that had enervated the youth of their nativethe great principles of democracy, laid the foundations of a government whose corner-

It was the law among the ancient Jews, hat every man should learn a trade. Ho. was not bound by an obligation to follow it, for if inclination prompted him to afterwards seek another profession, he was at liberty to do so." The wisdom of this law. commends itself to every mind. -If, in adverse times, misfortune should lay its hands upon them, and they should be compelled to leave their chosen pursuits, they were provided with an occupation, which was a safe-guard against extreme poverty or vant. If such a law existed in this country, it would prevent many of the evils that now prevail, and render our people rosperous and happy. Howeverstrue to the principles of denocracy our fathers may have been, we are fast leaving them behind. Instead of honoring labor, we are attempting to degrade t. Parents, ambitious; for their children, often express the hope that their lot will not be so arduous or toilsome as their own has been, forgetting that by their labor the country has been blessed; and because of the industry of their sons, generations yet o come, will be grateful that they wer orn in Republican America. It is the first duty of parents to instil into he minds of their children the necessity and dignity of labor. To be useful in any phere of life, should be the ambition of our youth. Our vast fields of enterprise invite competition, and promise satisfac-tory rewards. The producer is he whose oss is most felt by society. Success in nechunic art is as honorable us professiond eminence; agricultural industry is far nore profitable to the nution than umbitions statesmanship. The watchwords of democracy are that all honest labor is honprable. It is not what one does, but the nanner of doing it, that dignifies the man. Nothing can be more degrading than a quack in medicine, a pettioger in law, or a blockhead in priestly garments. No one can be more honorable than an industrious and skillful artisan or a faithful and intelligent tiller of the soil. It is a mean and worthless spirit that despises the garb of a laborer, and scorps to welcome him to a place of equality.

Nothing can be more false than our usual idea and definition of a gentleman. 'It is not the dress, it is not the employment that permits this appellation. It is the kindly eart, the industrious, virtuous life that makes the gentleman. A carcer of idleness is generally a career of crime. It is not the mily or wealth that entitles one to honor, It is the intelligent, manhood, that, entitles him to respect. We honor those who have risen from humble spheres of life to places of trust and usefulness, not because of the riches they possess, not because of the po-sition they occupy, but because of the energy and industry which they manifested in the attainment of what they have .- Fortune smiles on some, while she frowns on others, but her favorite is no more entitled to bonor than he who, with equal industry, strove to win her regard. The world's distinctions are often wrong.

It is diligent, patient labor that is to be nonored by the true friends of republican institutions. The drone in society, whether possessed of millions, or dependent upon public charity, should be despised and avoided by every honest man. We, as a nation, must change our ideas of nobility, or we shall decline in prosperity. He is a noble man who uses to the best advantage the powers of body and mind with which his Creator has endowed him. Any claim nor founded on this is false and pernicious When the people of any mation cease give to labor its true diguity, and affect to despise the laborer, their own dishoner is assured, and the doom of national prosperity is pronounceit!

sological theory that the natural ago of nan is one hundred years. The duration of life he believes to be mearured by the time of growth. When once the bones and elyphysus are united, the body grows no more, and at twenty years this union is effected in man. In the camel it takes place in eight years; in the horse at five; in the rabbit at one. The natural termination, of life is five removes-from these severa points. Man, being twenty years in growing, lives five times twenty years; that is, one hundred; the camel is eight years in growing, and five times eight years; that is to say, forty years; the horse is five years in growing, and he lives twenty-five years; and so with other unimals. The man who does not die of sickness; lives everywhere from eighty to one hundred, years. au har Being Agrecable.

The art of being agreeable is to appear well pleased with all the company; and rather seem well entertained with them than to bring entertainment to them. A man thus disposed, may not have much learning nor much, wit, but if he has common sense, and something friendly in his behaviour, il conciliates men's minds more than the brightest parts without this disposition; and when a man of such a urn comes to old age, he is almost sure to be treated with respect. It is true, that we should not dissemble and flatter in company; but a man may be very agreeable, strictly consistent with truth and sincerity by prudent silence when he annot concur, and a pleasing assent where he can. Now and then you meet with a person so exactly formed to please, that he will gain upon every one who hears or heholds him this is not merely the gift of insture, but frequently the effect of much knowledge of the world, and a command over the passions. REPUBLICAN' CANDIDATES FOR CON-BESS.—The Republican nominations for Congress in this State, are now complete. The following table carefully prepared, will be found useful. The names of the present members are in italics:

A SAD SIGHT.-An overworked woman s'always a sad sight, sadder a great deal han an overworked man, because she is the city, that from his experience in feedso much, more fertile in capacity of suffering than a man. She has so many varieties of headache; sometimes as if Juel were would give nearly double the amount of driving the nail which killed Siserea into milk that the same cows would give kept her temple; somotimes tightening around the brow as if her cap-band were Luke's iron crown; and then her neuralgias, and back aches, and her fits of depression, and many more trials, linked to her fine and noble structure, entitle her to pity, when she is placed in conditions; which develope her nervous tendencies. THE other day, at Toledo, Obio, a cattle dealer received pay for a steer which had been sold to a butcher, and rolling the greenbacks into a small wad, put them into his tobacco box. Shortly after, he extricated, as he thought, a portion of the to-bacco, but with all his mustication could expectorate none of the savory juices, and finally took his guid out of his mouth to look at it, when he found he had been chewing his roll of greenbacks. He stood aghas for a moment and then burst out: "Curso" he luck! a whole steer to one chaw!"

AGRICULTURE is the most pseful and most poble

COMMUNICATIONS, Selections, Recipes and articles of interest and value, are solicited for this department of the paper. We desire to supply the public with the best practical information in reference to the farm, garden, and household. CHANGED SEED WHEAT .- The Minnesota Agricultural Society has asked the aid of the Agricultural, Department at Washington in procuring new varieties, of spring wheat. It appears that the yield rapidly diminishes under their system of continuous cropping from twenty-five to thirty bushels on new land to twenty, fifteen, and even ten bushels per acre. The result is attributed to a "degeneracy in the vitality of the seed," rather than to an exhaustion of fertility in the soil, and it is thought that if new, good seed of suitable varieties could was formerly cultivated, but has now entirely disappeared. The Commissioner in remains complete, and at seventy-five old his reply recognises the importance of the and promises to: make special ef forts to procure new varieties of spring and

THE heat of thol-sun during the excessively warm weather of last summer was employed by, an inhabitant of Berlin for the purpose of inicining of hen's eggs in sand. On the 22d of July he placed six in a box filled with sand, and expoused the case to the sun on that and the following days. The first chick broke the shell or the 9th of August, the second on the 10th, the third and fourth on the 11th, and the other two on the following day: The young chickens, it is stated, are all going on well, being fed on boiled eggs out up small, and mixed with millet. The average period of hatching chickens is twenty-one days; in the present case the first'chicken was produced in nineteen.

THE BEST PICKLES EVER MADE. -A connoisseur in pickles gives the following recipe for making the very best in use: A peck green of tomatoes, sliced, one dozen onions, sliced, also, sprinkle them with salt, and let' them all stand until the next day, then drain them. Then use the following as spices: one box of mustard eed, one and a half ounces of black popper, one ounce of whole cloves, one ounce of yellow mustard, and one ounce of allspice, put in the kettle a layer of spice, one of tomatoes, and of onions, alternatic, cover them with vinegar, wet the mustard before putting it in; let the whole boil about twenty minutes. Musif, OR HASTY PUDDING .- I suppose some think there need be no directions for cooking a dish so simple as mush. But there is a right way to do everything. In the first place, butter your kettle so the mush will not adhere so closely to it. Let the water be boiling, or the mush will have a raw taste. Stir three or four spoonsful of the meal into cold water, enough to make a thin gruel; put this in the boiling water, a spoonful at a time, and the mush will not be lumpy; then add dry meal until thick as you wish. Let the mush stand upon the stove and cook slowly fifteen or twenty minutes. THE Maine Farmer is informed by Mr. Ainherst Alden, of Bangor, who keeps eight or nine cows and carries their milk to ing milk cows he is satisfied that cows fed on hav cut from the 5th to the 10th of July, on hay cut from the 25th to the 30th of the month. In 1867, Mr. Alden sold something over a thousand dollars'worth of milk from nine cows.

To show that honey-bees, instead of being an injury to farmers, are a benefit to them, the fact is cited as well known to observing bec-keepers that when we have a fine yield of honey from the brick wheat, or the orchard, that we have a corresponding yield of grain or fruit, unless premiturely destroyed by frost or other causes. There are seasons when bees work very little, on, buckwheat, and the result has been, with scarcely an exception, a small yield of grain.

CORN RUSK.—Take one pint of cornmeal and scald it with one quart of milk, a half a teacup of warm lard or butter, a little salt, three eggs, yeast enough to make it raise; then stiffen it with wheat flour; let it stand and raise about three hours; then roll and let it raise again; bake it and eat warm.

MR. B. J. CAMPBELL, of Glen Haven, N. Y., wrote to the Country Coulleman that he vas foddering hay that was put in the barn about half dry, with a little lime sprinkled on it. It came out bright and clean from SETMOUR ought to steep well-he lies so dust. Without the lime it would have been, he says, a perfect smudge. he says, a perfect smudge.
