Our National Finances. Not a few pens are now employed in ferretting out a plau by which an early resumption of specie payment may be had. Truly such a consummation would be a proud one, bailed with inexpressable joy by the entire people. In the way of resumption we find many obstacles, not the least of which is the enormous debt of the country and the extent of the obligations of the National Treasury. It is useless to recapitulate the causes of this debt and obligation. The important step is to remedy the evil. How shall this be done? In answer to this question we find the talent of the country employed, and several plans suggested. The New York Tribune says "increase the revenue by every consistent means, and apply every dime to the buying and destruction of national bonds." We do not endorse such a dangerous course. Let such a theory be promulgated abroad and our credit at once depreciates and our pledges come in doubt. The Tribune also favors resumption, and argues, an enhancement of national credit to secure that end# It's two ideas seem to conflict. We beg to differ with the Tribune, almost in toto, believing that our revenue cannot now be consistently-increased, and that the burden of taxation is already sufficiently enormous to call forth the objection of the people. An increase of taxation would speedily replenish the treasury ; but would it advance public fuith or inure to the satisfaction public care. of the governed? Did not the recent election pronounce against increased taxation, and did not Congress, by its reduction of revenue make a precedent to meet public demand? And did not the Tribune throughout the recent campaign spend its energies in opposing the New York platform, and especially its taxation plank? We think the case is plain, and that no necessity-exists for increased revenue, unless it is to feed political thieves and to create discusion, among the people. The destruction of government bonds would not enhance their value, unless destruction means to create rather than destroy; nor, are, the people ready though excluded from voting by the Confor an increased tax in order to try such a doubtful experiment.

The idea to us most feasible, is the one simply looking to an enhancement of the National credit. The Nation has issued bonds, these bonds are payable in gold, and the nearer they can be made to approximate the value of gold, the nearcr we are to a resumption of specie payment. Individual companies and associations, by economy of government make their obligations valuable-so can a nation. dren, Greeting:

Our Patron Saint, the noble and venerable Santa Claus, having again appointed me, your humble servant, his agent for disbursing to you, the good people of Columbia and vicinity, from his vast collection of Gifts, gathered from Faderland, the Celestials, from sunny France, from the depths of the Ocean, and from the dear nutmeg State. I have accepted the trust out of pure love for the dear people, who would find it hard to be turned from the beaten path to the Storehouse of your unworthy ervant: and have opened the campaign. leared the decks for action, double shotted the guns, and put sabres and boardingpikes in place. My venerable old Dutch naster. Santa Claus, has entrusted me with most bountiful supply of Noveities for the approaching Holidays. Never was there seen such a Museum of curiosities in Columbia as are gathered together in this Great Variety Store. The man of Wooly Horse, Mermaid, and

The stubborn donkey, who shakes his head angrily at the spectator; the innocent Lamb, that bleats his complaints ; the Magic Lantern ; the noble Horse, saddled and bridled for his new master; the train of cars, ready to take upon an excursion the Lilliputians standing near; the Hook and Ladder Wagon, and Steam Fire Engine, ready for the "bohovs!! to "ran wid der Machine ?" the little Horns, Trumpets, Books and Tea Sets for the little misses; the Guns and Drums for the "bold soger boy ;" the Drays for the young draymen; the sets of Dishes

Paper is too dear, and the columns of the newspaper too short, to contain a full list of the immense number of novelties. Suffice it to say, that we will astonish you when you call (and we know you that have a good, big heart will) to see them. We have presents for ladies, presents for gentlemen, presents for misses, presents for boys, and presents for the dear little children. Men who wish to make the heart of their bosom companion glad, wives who wish to reciprocate the mark of affection, parents who want to re-pay the good deeds of dutiful and affectionate children, and children who wish to honor their parents, lovers who wish to give to their idol, masters to their servants and servants to their masters, can find at Ress' just what they want-the most appro-

On Saturday last, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the laws of Delaware were again executed by the barbarous and inhuman use of the pillory. Another horrible tragedy occurred, in Philadelphia, yesterday morning, about four o'clock, in Olivostreet. A Mrs. Craig, sixty-livo years of ago, was found in bed with her throat cut. She had two sons, grown, and testifies that one of them, named Hugh, perpetrated the deed. When she was first discovered, she was speechless, and blood hay around the room in puddles. Hugh Graig was found in bed, feigning sleep, with his hands and clothing covered with blood. He was arrested and taken to the station house. He was a printer by trade, and had been noticed to act, in an unusual manner for sometime, sitting up and studying late at night, &c. Negro Suffrage.

Negro Suffrage. Mr. EDITOR:--I am somewhat at a loss to know how to address you, I am not a subscriber to the Spy, neither do I approve of the principles which it advocates, yet I do not go as far as some of my Democratic brethren do in denouncing negro suffrage. I have refrained from discussing that ques-tion, because I knew I stood alone amongst the Democracy of Columbia, and I did not wish to cause dissension or irritation in the party with which I am connected, and so much love and revere. Now that the elec-tions are over, I take the liberty of telling my fellow Democrats, that I have not the borror and dread some of them have at the bare idea of voting with the negro.- I went to the polls in this place and voted for Gen. Jackson (God bless his memory,) in 1832, a number of colored men also voted tor him, oue of whom is now living in Philadelphin, Jumber of colored men also voted for him, one of whom is now living in Philadelphia, whose wealth is almost equal to the com-bined wealth of the entire Democracy of Columbia; I refer to Stephen Smith. James Burrell, a retired lumber merchant of Co-lumbia, and Frank Knight, decensed, and formerly a pilot on the river, all voted the Democratic ticket. Perhaps two or three other colored men voted our ticket, their names I havo forgotten. I remember of quite a number who voted the Whig ticket, many of whom are yet living and, will again vote. Thomas Waters, Jessee Burrell, Richard Rice, James Hollingsworth, Joshun P. B: Eddy, Harry Worthington, John Pat-terson, Jessee Mays and Alexander Smith, Many of those who are living are well to do, and would east a ballot with as much in-telligence as myself. Therefore, Mr. Ediand would cast a ballot with as much in-telligence as myself. Therefore, Mr. Edi-tor, I speak by the book, when U say that there is no disgrace in going to the polls and voting, even if the colored man also exercised the same right. I hope my friends will cease from thissenseless channer against negro suffrage. It is, bound to come, and when it does, I do not wish to see the Democratic party so act as to drive every colored min into the ranks of the thieving Radical party.
