COE'S COLUMN.

COE'S COUGH BALSAM!

This long tried and popular Remedy is again offered to the public. It is a specific for all the year's colds, the proprietors assure that it cures the most obstinate coughs for the health, comfort and sustenance of the family through the long and tedious months of winter. Coe's Cough Balsam should not be forgotten. For years it has been a household cure, and millions anxious for the safety of their children, and all who suffer from any disease of the throat, chest and lungs, cannot afford to be without it. In addition to the ordinary form of cough, in all the various forms, which will incontinently with the other size, be found at all Drug Stores.

FOR CROUP, The Balsam will be found invaluable, and may always be relied upon in the most extreme cases.

WHOOPIING COUGH, The testimony of all who have used it for this terrible disease during the last ten years, is that it invariably relieves and cures it.

SORE THROAT, Keep your throat wet with the Balsam—taking little and often—and you will very soon find relief.

HARD COLDS AND COUGHS, Yield at once to a steady use of this great Remedy. It will relieve the most severe cold and all other remedies have failed.

SORENESS OF THE THROAT, CHEST AND LUNGS, Do not delay protracting and immediately taking Coe's Cough Balsam. It is a specific for all the above named difficulties. They are all preliminary symptoms of Consumption, and if not arrested, will lead to the grave. It is a household cure, and is sold in all the drug stores.

IN CONSUMPTION, Many a care-worn sufferer has found relief and to-day rejoices that his life has been made easy and prolonged by the use of Coe's Cough Balsam.

IN SHORT, The people know the article, and it needs no comment from us. It is for sale by every Drug and Grocer in the United States.

Unpleasant Reflections.

Not a thousand miles from Little York, Pa., lived a family who had in their employ a daughter of Erin. The lady having cause to doubt her honesty, had a mirror hung in the sitting room, so that while lulling away her time in her bonnet, she could watch the movements of the unsuspecting Biddy in the kitchen. One day while watching her make away with a large quantity of choice preserves, she rushed into the presence of the astonished girl. "How dare you eat all my nice preserves in this way?" Although she still held the jar and spoon, she replied, "Save measted, you must be mistaken, I've not tasted the jam for the try?" "Oh, Biddy! how can you deny it when I saw you from my room?" "Look!" and she pointed to the glass that reflected the center of her cozy boudoir, "in that glass I can see all you are doing in this kitchen, and I have not seen you there." Biddy stood in amazement, staring at the glass a few minutes, then rubbing her head over her forehead as though trying to comprehend the extent of the magical glass, cried out, "Oh, and sure!" she myself had been watching in the dining room, and I've my opinion that if the master was to see how you welcome that same gentleman partner of his, in your own private parlor, 'twould be yourself that would be discharged." It is not necessary to add that the glass was removed, and Biddy kept at an increased salary.

Quips, Quirks, and Quodlibets.

Mrs. Partington thinks the pillars of liberty are stuffed with the feathers of the American Eagle.

What joint of meat is most appropriate for an empty ledger? A fillet. (fill it).

We like a black eye? We like a blue one. We don't like a black and blue one.

A contemporary thinks that the public sinners should be entering the dining room with a pair of old tough chickens.

"Smile!" that fortifies sorrow.—The one that you take in the bar-room.

There's no harm in a glass of whiskey—if you allow it to remain in the stomach.

What fruit does a newly married couple most resemble? A green pair.

The pleasantest husbandry is the destroying of weeds—widow's weeds.

Unmarried ladies with independent resources should husband the dining room.

Quid Pro Quo—Ups and Downs in the World.

"Sir, bring me a good plain dinner," said a melancholy-looking man, to a waiter at one of the principal hotels in a Western State.

"Yes, sir."

The dinner was brought and devoured, and the diner called the landlord aside and thus addressed him:

"You are the landlord?"

"Yes."

"You do a good business here?"

"Yes, (in astonishment.)"

"You make, probably, $10 per day clear?"

"Yes."

"Then I am safe. I cannot pay for what I have consumed. I have been out of employment for seven months, but have engaged to work to-morrow. I had been without food four-and-twenty hours when I entered your place. I will pay you in a week."

"I cannot pay my bills with such promises," blustered the landlord; "and I do not keep a poor-house. You should address the proper authorities. Leave me something for security."

"I have nothing."

"I will take your coat."

"If I go into the street without that, I will get my death sentence as this."

"You should have thought of that before you came here."

"You are serious? Well, I solemnly aver that one week from now I will pay you."

"I will take your coat."

The coat was left, and a week afterward released.

Seven years after that a wealthy man entered the political arena, and was presented to a caucus as an applicant for Congressional nomination. The chairman of the caucus held his peace. He heard the name and history of the applicant, who was a member of the caucus and one of the most respected citizens. The vote was tied and he cast a negative, thereby defeating the wealthy applicant, whom he met an hour afterward, and to whom he said:

"You don't remember me?"

"The coat was left, and a week afterward released."

The lady having cause to doubt her honesty, had a mirror hung in the sitting room, so that while lulling away her time in her bonnet, she could watch the movements of the unsuspecting Biddy in the kitchen. One day while watching her make away with a large quantity of choice preserves, she rushed into the presence of the astonished girl. "How dare you eat all my nice preserves in this way?" Although she still held the jar and spoon, she replied, "Save measted, you must be mistaken, I've not tasted the jam for the try?" "Oh, Biddy! how can you deny it when I saw you from my room?" "Look!" and she pointed to the glass that reflected the center of her cozy boudoir, "in that glass I can see all you are doing in this kitchen, and I have not seen you there." Biddy stood in amazement, staring at the glass a few minutes, then rubbing her head over her forehead as though trying to comprehend the extent of the magical glass, cried out, "Oh, and sure!" she myself had been watching in the dining room, and I've my opinion that if the master was to see how you welcome that same gentleman partner of his, in your own private parlor, 'twould be yourself that would be discharged." It is not necessary to add that the glass was removed, and Biddy kept at an increased salary.

Mrs. Partington thinks the pillars of liberty are stuffed with the feathers of the American Eagle.

What joint of meat is most appropriate for an empty ledger? A fillet. (fill it).

We like a black eye? We like a blue one. We don't like a black and blue one.

A contemporary thinks that the public sinners should be entering the dining room with a pair of old tough chickens.

"Smile!" that fortifies sorrow.—The one that you take in the bar-room.

There's no harm in a glass of whiskey—if you allow it to remain in the stomach.

What fruit does a newly married couple most resemble? A green pair.

The pleasantest husbandry is the destroying of weeds—widow's weeds.

Unmarried ladies with independent resources should husband the dining room.

Quid Pro Quo—Ups and Downs in the World.

"Sir, bring me a good plain dinner," said a melancholy-looking man, to a waiter at one of the principal hotels in a Western State.

"Yes, sir."

The dinner was brought and devoured, and the diner called the landlord aside and thus addressed him:

"You are the landlord?"

"Yes."

"You do a good business here?"

"Yes, (in astonishment.)"

"You make, probably, $10 per day clear?"

"Yes."

"Then I am safe. I cannot pay for what I have consumed. I have been out of employment for seven months, but have engaged to work to-morrow. I had been without food four-and-twenty hours when I entered your place. I will pay you in a week."

"I cannot pay my bills with such promises," blustered the landlord; "and I do not keep a poor-house. You should address the proper authorities. Leave me something for security."

"I have nothing."

"I will take your coat."

"If I go into the street without that, I will get my death sentence as this."

"You should have thought of that before you came here."

"You are serious? Well, I solemnly aver that one week from now I will pay you."

"I will take your coat."

The coat was left, and a week afterward released.

Seven years after that a wealthy man entered the political arena, and was presented to a caucus as an applicant for Congressional nomination. The chairman of the caucus held his peace. He heard the name and history of the applicant, who was a member of the caucus and one of the most respected citizens. The vote was tied and he cast a negative, thereby defeating the wealthy applicant, whom he met an hour afterward, and to whom he said:

"You don't remember me?"

"The coat was left, and a week afterward released."
