tor of the Lancaster Intelligen-cer. EDITOR SrY:-The late Archbishop Whately exposed in one of his essays the stupidity of certain commentators on the sacred writings who were satisfied if they could make intelligible sense of a detached text without considering whether it was pertinent to the drift of the whole passage or whether it agreed or contradicted the context and other portions of scripture. But what those shallow divines did through innocent stupidity the editor of the Intel-ligencer in his shamelers abuse of Mr. Scott evidently does through perverseness and down right envy. The assumed cause of the editor's virulence and untruthful per-sonalities are that, "Two passenger trains pass through the city of Lancaster daily without halting." Under the old "Time Table" the "New York central" running from Chicago to New York arrived about 30 minutes before the Penn'a. Central arrives in New York ahead—so that it was a contention between two great rival roads in who:

We have known Mr. Scott for twenty-five years; a portion of that time we were inti-mately associated with him and had a good opportunity of studying and understanding his character. Jn 1843 Thos, A. Scott came to Columbia to clerk for his brother-in-law Maj. Patton who was then the collector of Tolls at this place. He held the position of clork for several years, afterwards engaged in the saw mill and ice business, subse-quently clerked on the Penn'a Central, and by his own intrinsic merit, (for he had no Central arrives in New York ahead—so that it was a contention between two great rival roads, in which Penn'a has been victorious, and every citizen out side of the little finished town of Lancaster re-joices in the victory. Mr. Smith has been very unfortunate in compiling the history of Thos. A. Scott. In a former issue of his paper he imparts information, while it has the novelty of being new, it comes far short of the truth, viz.—'' Paul Hamilton a late resident of our town.—brought "Tom of the citizens of Lancaster, &c., who are favorable to the construction of a railroad to extend from Lancaster to Unicorn Hotel. Drumore townshp, to be called the 'Peach Bottom Road.'" When that is completed while "Unicorn Mills" will be the terminous, Lancaster will continue to be the great emporium. To keep pace with the liberal short of the truth, viz_-" Paul Hamilton a late resident of our town, --brought "Tom Scott" (a poor illiterate boy.) from Frank-lin county, and gave him a position on the Rail Road, &c." But forsooth! he is now a "bloat," "rich" and "dishonest" cares nothing for the influence that gave him his position, and commits the unpurdonable sin of permitting two trains torun through tue great emporium of the World, Lancas-ter, without halting. and far-seeing policy of that enterprising city, a line of Conestoga teams will be daily run from Lancaster to Pittsburg, via Maytown, Harrisburg and Columbia will be entirely ignored in the new arrangement, (the latter city can never be forgiven for furnishing to the Penn'a. Central so much of its brains and motive power, viz : Thos.

A. Scott, G. C. Franciscus, H. H. Houston, I. I. Houston (dec'd.) S. D. Young, (dec'd) S. A. Black, Wm. F. Lockard, and a host of others.) Messrs, Smith and Evans of the City Council, will occupy the same relation to the new enterprise that J. Edgar Thompson and Thos. A. Scott do to the Penn'a Cen tral. Then the fight will commence in earn quantity clerked on the Fenn'a Central, and by his own intrinsic merit, (for he had no rich frie..ds to intercede in his behalf) he gradually ascended step by step until he occupies his present exalted position. Thos. A. Scott was thrown upon his own resources when but a yo.th, poor (it is true) and without the advantages of a collegiate or classical education, to battle with the world for a livelihood. While some are endow-ed with the highest order of talents they stop just short of genius. Mr. Scott has all the true characteristics, of genius I be is re-markable for rapidity of thought and prompt execution, tireless energy and ceaseless activity, and fully illustrates that genius must be wedded to idastry to insure success in any position of life. It gives us pleasure to trace the career of Thos. A. Scot, from the time he came to Columbia a poor boy clerking in the collector's oflice, until the present surrounded by all the luxuries of wealth, (spending his leisure moments in a room that the envious Mr. Smith says "the farniture alone cost $30,-000,") and occupying the proad position of one of the first Rail Road men of the coun-try. We write this much simply in vindi-cation of the truth. Personally we are un-der no obligations to Mr. Scott or the Fenn'a. It can then have no competition, and will at once monopolize the trade in gingerbread, pretzels, sweitzercase, lager beer. and flying horses, and all jurors will be selected from the eternal city.

Poor Lancaster ! we pity her spasmodic efforts at greatness. Remove the Court House to Columbia, (where it should have been ten years ago,) divert the railroad around the city and all its vitality will be dried up, and Maytown and Lancaster will rival each other as lasting monuments to old fogy enterprise. Mr. Smith's only salvation will be to take up his traps and come to Columbia, where we promise, if he is not too old, and his itinerant education too deeply imbedded, to make a man of him ! We accede to him talents and industry, an abundance of motive power, lacking a governor or balance wheel to keep him steady upon the track, while he condemns 'Tom Scott's lightning trains "that run through Lancaster without halting." There is an old saying, that the sons of itinerant Preachers, grow up to be tyrani-cal, dictatorial, and exceedingly vain, (un-less restrained by grace.) This weakness may be organic or chronic in the editor of the Intelligencer, and thus he assumes to speak for the entire city of Lancaster. Mr. Smith is evidently not acquainted with Mr. Scott, and judges from appearance, (which is exceedingly unsafe.) For example the first time we met the editor was at a Demo-cratic convention at Harrisburg; whilst all was excitement and bustle at the hotel in the midst of it all Mr. Smith cooly stood before a mirror arranging his long flow ing locks behind his ears with all the artis tic skill of a bourding school Miss prepar-ing for an evening party—then shifting his position with his eyes intently fixed upon the glass, evidently to ascertain the most favorable attitude to assume when he would address the convention. We must say our first impression was not favorable; we imagined his self conceit was so appa-rent—that we naturely wondered if his burp of approbativeness did not cover his whole head, and yet we have learned since rather to like the gentleman, with all his idiosyncrasy of character. In conclusion we will venture one word by way of advice to friend Smith. If we can't all secure free tickets, and control those corporations,— so as to convince the dignitaries that Rail Roads must be managed exclusively to the interest of Lancaster of counts. sions so rashly and recklessly, that it is worth a man's neck to attempt to grasp them. Whilst an editor should be ever vigilant and careful of the interests of the community in which he lives, and sound the alarm at the first approach of danger, he should be equally careful to be just, and not prostitute the columns of his paper to gratify a morbid spleen, to prey upon personal character, he should never forget that calm dignified criticism has more weight with a discerning public than blackguardism. We don't believe in the sovereignty of corporations; whenever they violate their chartered privileges, and recklessly infringe upon the laws, they should be strictly held amenable. But railroads like all other corporations have rights which they must brotect, the interests of their stock holders must be consulted to make them success. The great Penn'a. ANOTHER ACCIDENT .--- James Bennett was instantly killed on Wednesday evening by a car passing over his neck, and right shoulder. He was drawing a car from the "grade" to the siding and as the team was starting, Bennet, it is supposed, attempted to jump on the bumper, missed his hold, fell on the track and was instantly killed. No one saw him fall, as the driver was on the opposite side of the car. An inquest was held by Deputy Coroner Fraley. Mr. Bennet has been on the road nearly 35 years. He leaves a wife but no children. His life was insured for $2.000.00. His remains will be buried to-morrow.

Still Another : On Thursday morning Peter Sheid of Lancaster was instantly killed about 1 mile below Mountville. He got on the morning train at Mountville and rode on the platform. At the place of the accident, his hat fell off, when he deliberately stepped off, as though the cars were still and was thrown with such violence as to cause instant death. His body was taken to Rohrerstown, where an inquest was held by Coroner Dysart.

where PASTORAL CHANGES .---- We understand hat the Rev. B. J. Douglass has resigned the charge of St. Paul's church in this porough. It is a matter of regret with his entire congregation. There has been a steady growth attendant upon his labors and he leaves the church in a flourishing condition. The church is well organized in its appointments and presents an unusually fine field of work for a young man without a family. The want of a Rectory has been the main cause of the resignation of the present Rector. We have learned further that the Vestry have called the Rev. Geo. W. Kirkland a young man of fine promise, who, it is to be hoped, will accept, and carry on the work which opens so favorably for the future.

Rev. Mr. Kirkland preached for the congregation on last Sabbath. He is a young man of pleasant address, and possesses a fluency and diction, rarely met with in one so little accustomed to public speaking. We are sorry to part with Mr. Douglass. and in saying this, we no doubt express the sentiments of the community as well as of his parishioners. Our acquaintance with him does not extend over a long period but is none the less pleasant for that. His uniform courtesy and kindness, his cheerful greeting and his disinterested friendship for the young in particular, have won for him a strong feeling of love and esteem. Mr.

Douglass has our best wishes for his happiness and success in whatever new field he may be called to labor.

FAST RAILBOADING. - The summer time-tables of the Pennsylvania Railroad make some important changes in the running time. The most important is that of the fast line, leaving at Philadelphia 12.30 noon and the corresponding train from Pittsburg. This train stops nowhere between the two cities except at Harrisburg, Altoona and Gallitzin. The stoppage at the latter place is in compliance with the rule of the road, which requires every train to stop there, on account of the heavy mountain grade each side. 107 miles, is made in three hours and twenty minutes. From Harrisburg to Altoona, 132 miles, and from Gallitzin to Pittsburgh, 105 miles, are the other long stretches, and the time on them is correspondingly short. On no other railroad in America are such long distances made without stopping for wood and water. But they are made on the Pennsylvania Railroad without inconvenience. A day or two ago, when the train from Altoona arrived at Harrisburg, there was still a good supply of water in the tank, and this after a continuous run of 132 miles. The New York companies tried this year, as usual, to make shorter time over their roads to the West than the Pennsylvania. But the latter having the shortest road, is the best and safest. The track of the Pennsylvania Railroad, be-tween Steamboat and Philadelphia, is being straightened, which when completed, will save several miles of travel.
