His feet are swelling rapidly, but his intellect is unimpaired. In a conversation with him yesterday he expressed a regret that he had been dug up at all. The novelty of travel has ceased, and his only prayer is, "give us rest." Time, and in fact everything else about him, hangs heavy on his hands. The show business is wearing on him, He rolled over a little on one side to show us where it had worn on him.

When he was in Cleveland he tried some of the Cleveland whiskey. He felt as though his inside was eaten away worse than his outside was. At Columbus one half of the people who came to see him feel to pecking him. He understood it when informed that the Penitentiary was located there. They were so used to pecking stone they couldn't avoid it when opportunity offered. To a casual remark that he would find the weather very hot here, he remarked that he expected it-he came dressed expressly for hot weather, and in fact had a trunk full of just such clothes as we saw him in. He said he could spruce up as well as any body when he wanted to.

He holds himself subject to the "code,' and if any one feels aggrieved at anything they have said about him they can always find him in his office by paying quarter of dollar at the door.

How a man Puthis Foot in it and got his Shius Barked.

On Tuesday evening, as Conductor Wiseman's train was coming down from London, there being a scarcity of passengers, a disposition was manifested among those on the train to spread themselves and plant their "mudhooks" on the cushions. As this was inadmissible in all well-regu lated families, Mr. Wiseman objected.
The passengers immediately took their feet down. In a short time, several pairs of feet were up again, in the objectionable position referred to. Mr. Wiseman again alluded to the matter and requested the passengers to put down their feet. Finally one person named Alonzo T. Miller' and residing in Cleveland, and who was a Young gentleman of the period, with hair parted in the middle, remarked -

"Bigod," that he had paid enough fare to put his feet where he pleased,
Quite a colloquy ensued in which Mr.
Wiseman informed him that he had paid for only one seat and was occupying two (having turned the seat in front of him,) and that it was not allowable, anywhere, for persons to put their feet upon sea Mr. Miller still refusing to put down his feet, Mr. Wiseman quietly informed him that he should put the back of the seat over into its proper place, and warned him to take his legs out of the way.

This warning was not heeded, and the back of the seat came over and barked the shins of the gentleman who resides in the vicinity of the Northern Ohio Fair Grounds, for about a foot on each shin, leaving his pins in a raw and uncomfortable condition. On Wednesday, Mr. Wiseman heard that Esquire Miller was mixed up, in some way, with the matter, and, to gratify his own personal curiosity, gave him a call and talked over the matter with the "Esquire" and Mr. Miller.

The "Esquire" held that, as a gentleman Mr. Miller was under obligations to take his feet from the seat when requested, and that the barking of his shins was the result of his own unjustifiable obstinacy Whereupon Mr. Miller paid his costs of prosecution, and. Conductor Wiseman went his way acquit—justified of all men, and especially of the venerable magistrate as a faithful public servant.—Springfield Republic.
