

HONESDALE, Feb. 14, 1854.

FRIEND MANN: As per promise, I will endeavor to give you a brief statement of the progress of the good cause here in old Wayne.

To the Free Democracy of Potter County, glowing with the heat of a successful struggle, we, of Wayne, present a decided "icebergishness" aspect. Our hearts are warm enough, and so it may be safely concluded that the fault is in the circulation, resulting in cold extremities. I have heard old Revolutioners discourse of the "times that tried men's souls," (sols?) when they, with their comrades in arms lay on the frozen ground with their "soles" to the camp fire, to keep from freezing; but the Free Democrats of Wayne can scarcely boast of such a questionable luxury. Their camp fires flickered and went out in '48—some say they were choked by the mist from the marshes of Kinderhook; but I am inclined to think that they were drowned out by fogs and drizzling showers wafted from the cold streams of political Babylon. The elements of Free Democracy is here in profusion; but it is so entangled in its tissues of interest and ambition, and so mixed-up with antagonistic elements that it cannot resolve itself into a state of independence, so to speak.—The clanking of chains in the land of free men, every day grows more intolerable to pro slavery partisans even. Since the "Little Giant," astride of the Nebraska eagle, made a bold sweep for the Presidential chair, there are ominous head-shakings indulged in high places. But a few days since, while standing in the Post Office, a gentleman, a rabid Hunker by the way, called my attention to Nebraska as proposed and laid out on Monk's map of North America, a copy of which hung against the wall. "What do you think of this," said he, tracing with his finger the boundaries, "shall this be converted into an insurmountable barrier, against which the incoming tide of Freedom shall surge and swell and prevail not?" Such is the purpose of the slave interest," said I. "And I tell you," said he, warmly, "that the American people will say, NO!" That "No," spoke volumes. It was the war cry of a heart that had mastered, for a moment, every leaning towards party and prejudice, and cast them all towards humanity.

Last week, the gods especially favored us. We had lectures from that truly and liberal man, Dr. WM. ELDER, of Philadelphia. He is no venerated elocutionist—the heart speaks in every word and gesture. Then he is such a thinker—his every sentence is an idea polished and rounded up by friction with others. His first lecture was upon "Instinct and Intuition," and was ably handled. During his discourse he took occasion to rap the Biconian system over the knuckles pretty smartly, yet made no scruple to use it in his arguments immediately thereafter. So you can see that the Dr. is not always consistent, with all his honesty and candor. I suppose that scarcely one in the whole audience could agree with much that he said, everybody was delighted notwithstanding. His forte consists in setting the ideas of his audience in motion, rather than in furnishing ideas ready made. He is calculated to set men a thinking. None present will soon forget the new and somewhat startling idea which brought the house down in a whirlwind of cheers. He was speaking of that perfection which the human mind is destined to attain; how it makes use of this or that system to day in its development, and puts it behind to-morrow, taking up something higher and better, and finally wound up by saying:—"The progress of Science is punctuated with the tombstones of systems!"

On the evening following, the Doctor gave us a speech on the Nebraska question. He proposed to take up the question in its political aspect, but digressed a little, (happily I think) and excused himself by saying that he never could build up an argument against Slavery without first laying a moral underpinning. This he did effectually, and then proceeded to his work. His speech was the richest compound of argument, sarcasm, wit and satire that I ever met with. Doughfaces lost their balance and cheered and laughed with the best. He is just the man who would make one laugh while he struck a free blade under the fifth rib of your prejudices. The effect was admirable. Even the most rabid Southern men found more to praise than blame, and I have yet to see the first man who's dissatisfied with the speech or its maker.

From this it seems that free speech is becoming generally acknowledged as a right, and exercised as a privilege; and though the friends seem a little dampened and scattered just now, I think that an organization will be effected during the coming spring.

Yours, truly,
SILEX FLINT.

The Skies Brighten.
The people are moving against the Nebraska fraud, with a power and determination that must soon knock the life out of this precious banding of the little giant. Bradford, Tioga and Potter have already entered a manly protest against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and we hope soon to hear of like action in Warren county, for the last Warren Ledger has a well written article condemning in strong terms, this violation of the Baltimore platform. The Ledger article closes as follows.

Now, up to the present time, not a word has been urged in favor of repealing the Missouri line. On the contrary, it has always been recognized as a basis of settlement, and expressly reaffirmed in the Compromise measures themselves. We hear, for the first time, the announcement that it has been repealed by the spirit and intention of the Compromise measures, and should now, in this Nebraska bill, be repealed in express terms. We are sorry to see this effort. It can only have the pernicious effect of loosening the sense of public obligation to solemn compacts. If the friends of the Compromise deliberately repeal one of its stipulations, what faith can be expected from its enemies, who have always viewed its provisions with repugnance? It is asserted that slavery never can gain a footing on this territory—that free states must inevitably be torn out of it. If so, why permit it to go there? why open an avenue which never can be travelled? Why deface the fair proportions of the Compromise for an empty nullity?

We believe that the Southern men who have always clung to the Missouri line will not consent to its repeal; we believe the voice of the North is against it, and we hope the "little giant" will come out of this political speculation, a dwarfish pigmy.

Bogus Democracy.
The Pierce Democrats of Philadelphia City and County met in convention on the 10th of January to choose delegates to the 8th of March convention and to define the position of the party. They adopted a long string of resolutions from which we select the following.

3. Resolved, That we continue to regard the anti slavery dogma, disseminated by the abolitionists, adopted by the free-soilers, and countenanced by the Northern Whigs in abhorrence, as dangerous to our free institutions, and that it is a pleasure for us at all times to declare our unabated hostility to such infidel doctrines, which no Christian patriot can safely countenance—and we do this not only on account of the fraternal feelings which we cherish for our brethren of Southern sister states, but because we believe that to hold political communion with such parties would have a tendency to undermine the principles of the Constitution, and overthrow the Government.

4. Resolved, That in our opinion the inhabitants of new territory should be treated as free people, whose right it is to adopt or reject such domestic institutions as may please themselves.

5. Resolved, That we adhere to the principles of strict construction taught by Jefferson and Jackson, and therefore pledge ourselves now and forever to oppose the unconstitutional doctrines of internal improvements by the general government.

The inconsistency of these resolutions is apparent at a glance. They quote Jefferson for authority and yet repudiate the very policy which he adopted in reference to the organization of territories.

As this is the largest and most important convention the party has held this year we trust our new neighbors will let their readers see these resolutions, for they doubtless express the true position of the party in this State.

We ask the freemen of this County what they think of such democracy as this, which is so anxious to proclaim itself the natural ally of slavery.

Premium Fanning Mills.
Important to Farmers and Mechanics.
THE subscriber has purchased of J. Bamborough the right to use in Potter and Kean counties his patent in the construction of Fanning Mills. He has also, at great expense, commenced the manufacture of a PREMIUM MILL, which will clean from 100 to 200 bushels per hour. This Mill was patented March 20, 1847, since which time it has stood at the head of the list at all the State and county agricultural societies where it has been exhibited, and is a universal favorite with all farmers who have tried it. It took the premium at the first Agricultural Fair held at Harrisburg, Oct. 31st, 1851, when there were 30,000 people present; and at the great State Agricultural Fair at New-York, held at Rochester Sept. 16-19, 1851, this Fanning Mill received the highest honors.
Having met with uniform success wherever tried, I confidently invite the farmers of Potter and Kean counties to call at my shop in Connersport and examine for themselves.
A supply always on hand, to be sold on reasonable terms. JOHN BECKHOW, 6-37f

"Economy is the Mother of Wealth."

THE subscriber would announce to the public that he has removed to a new store, next door north of J. W. Smith's Store and Tinware establishment, where he has just opened a large stock of goods for the fall and winter trade. The stock is marked at the very lowest cash figures, and at such prices as cannot fail to suit those who study economy in buying. I intend to adhere to the one-price system, believing it to be the only fair and honorable mode of doing business; and by taking a straight-forward course, hope to receive a liberal share of public patronage.
