

A Voice from Delaware.

Messrs. Editors:—A voice from the distant county of Delaware may not at this particular time be unwelcome to you. In the election returns published in the papers I could not discover the returns from this county. No doubt other counties have shared the same, so far as regards the Free Democratic vote. I am sure that my vote is small; it was not expected to be otherwise, as there was no movement such as is necessary to bring out a full vote. Yet, without any exertion, there were eighty-four votes cast for Freedom. From the feeling of indignation manifested by a large portion of the community, there will be a largely increased vote next fall.

The conduct of the two old parties, one in contending for the infamous Nebraska Territorial Bill, now before Congress, the other in its timid, non-serving policy, going for and against the bill as circumstances dictate, acting as it does from expediency, not principle, sufficiently demonstrates that they are irredeemably corrupt. They have basely deserted the great cause of Human Freedom—proved traitors to the principles which are at the foundation of our popular system of government, and have become the propagators of principles and founders of systems which have for their object the "crushing out" of every manly feeling of virtue and independence, and the grinding of Humanity into dividends.

I see that the "Democratic" Convention of Pittsburgh has declared for Bigler, and has also passed the Nebraska resolutions in favor of the bill. So be it. I hope that the Free Democracy will not be in want of men of talent and integrity, willing and ready to unmask the spurious and odious "Democracy," Shame, eternal shame, on the State of Penn and Franklin, if the spirit and deeds of her freemen do not redeem her from the disgraceful position she has been placed in by the rampant spirit of Hunkerism.

I enclose the resolutions passed at our meeting. I have just heard that it is in contemplation to have a meeting at Media. If a meeting is held there, I shall probably be present.

You will hear from me again soon. W.

PUBLIC MEETING.

At a large and respectable meeting of the citizens of Delaware county, without distinction of party, pursuant to public notice, in the Town Hall, in the Borough of Chester, on the 18th of February, 1854, to consider the subject of the Nebraska Territorial Bill now under consideration in Congress, the following named gentlemen were appointed officers of the meeting: ABRAHAM L. PENNOCK, President, WILLIAM EYRE, Jr., and DAVID B. SPACER, Vice Presidents, and G. W. DIXON, Secretary. The President stated the subject of the meeting, after which the following resolutions were submitted, and being ably discussed by John Shedden, Esq., and John Wild, were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the Nebraska Territorial Bill, now before Congress by which it is proposed to repeal the Missouri Compromise act prohibiting slavery north of 36 deg. 30 min., after the South has had the benefit of its provisions favoring slavery, is of such a character as to demand an expression of the opinion of all lovers of freedom, whether North or South; therefore

Resolved, That it is an historical fact recorded on the pages of American History, that the original settled policy pursued and marked out as worthy to be pursued by succeeding generations by Washington and his coadjutors, was against the extension of slavery beyond the States where it then existed; that the passage of the Jeffersonian Ordinance by Congress under the old confederation—its re-affirmation by its passage as a law by the first Congress that convened under the present Constitution, receiving the approval and signature of Washington—the act passed May 7th, 1800, for the organization of a territorial government for Indiana with slavery prohibited, and its approval by John Adams—the act passed January 13th, 1805, by which the northern part of Indiana was erected into a territorial government for Michigan, with the slavery prohibition; also, the act passed February 20, 1809, by which a territorial government was erected for Illinois, with the slavery prohibition, both of which were signed by Thomas Jefferson; the act passed April 20, 1850, by which the slavery prohibition was extended to a territory with the slavery prohibition, signed by Andrew Jackson; the act passed June 23d, 1850, organizing the territory of Iowa with the slavery prohibition, signed by Martin Van Buren; are in themselves a complete refutation of the modern doctrine advanced by recent statesmen, that Congress has no power to prohibit slavery in the territories.

Resolved, That the Missouri Compromise Act, so far as it relates to the prohibition of slavery north of 36 deg. 30 min. is in perfect accordance with all previous legislation on this subject; that the constitutionality of this prohibition was at the time submitted by President Monroe to his Cabinet, of which John Quincy Adams, John C. Calhoun, Wm. H. Crawford, and Wm. Wat, were members, and its constitutionality by their unanimous affirmance—that Missouri, as a slave State, would never have been received into the Union, had it not been distinctly understood that the compact would be faithfully observed—and that the attempt now made to set aside the compact at the South have observed all they could do from the compromise is an act that stamps with infamy and dishonor the originators and abettors of the proposed Nebraska Territorial Bill, and all who, by supporting the same, prove traitors to Liberty, and the just and guaranteed rights of the Free States, deserve and ought to receive the well-merited execrations of a free and independent people.

Resolved, That we protest in the most solemn manner against the Nebraska Territorial Bill, repeating the compromise act of 1820, and that a copy of these resolutions, signed by the officers of this meeting, be forwarded to the Senators and members of Congress from Pennsylvania.

(Signed by the officers.)

A person in England, lately writing among his family documents, found written on the back of an old deed some words indicating that a pot of gold was buried in a certain place in the garden. It was at first regarded as a hoax, but on digging in the spot, an iron pot came to light, containing fifteen thousand guineas and a scrap of parchment much decayed, on which was written, "The devil shall have it sooner than Cromwell."

It is rather remarkable, says the correspondent of the Boston Atlas, that the only Governments of the world which have an excess of receipts over their expenses are Republics—the United States and Switzerland.

FACTS OF HISTORY.

In further illustration of the influence under which young men started in life formerly, we will now make a selection of circumstances occurring at a later period than those referred to in our last communication.

About twenty seven years ago, the writer of this article enlisted into a company of volunteer Artillery. Those arsenals was situated at a place called Union Village, in Broome county, N. Y.; which company had been organized and first commanded by a prominent and influential member of the Baptist Church in that place, and who afterwards was appointed one of the Judges of Broome county; and I may add, that those who succeeded him in command of the company whilst I knew it, were men of the first standing in the community—generally members of Churches. In short, such was the character of both officers and privates, that it was considered an honor to any young man to be a member of it. The meetings of the company for drill were generally held at a tavern; and it was customary for the commissioned officers to meet early at the place appointed and make preparation for the reception of the company. When a member arrived, he was invited into a room furnished for the occasion, where he would find a table, on which were bottles of all kinds of liquors in common use, and he would be asked to help himself to such as he liked. The time that elapsed between his arrival and "roll call," would be spent in friendly greetings and drinkings with his comrades. Soon after the company had paraded and got ready for drill, the corporals would be despatched for refreshment, which consisted of brandy and water, and would be passed along the line with the expectation that every one would drink. This refreshing process would be repeated during the course of the day frequently. When our meetings changed to be near any one of our former commanders, we were invited to pay our respects to them by repairing to their houses and taking a drink all round. Our company belonged to a regiment composed entirely of volunteers, and consequently had to travel further to meet the other companies composing the regiment than the ordinary militia. On these occasions it was customary to mount on our gun-carriage a ten-gallon keg of brandy when it would be inconvenient to get it otherwise.

Another custom prevalent formerly among military men, perhaps it would be well to mention: which was that known as "waking up officers." This was generally done by that part of the men who cared more for drinking than anything else, and consisted of meeting at some place previously agreed on, soon after midnight, each prepared with some sort of firearms and plenty of powder. They would visit the residence of every officer known to them in the neighborhood, and passing his door in single file, each would discharge his piece near the doorstep; after which it was expected the officer would come out, thank them for their attention, and furnish what was called a "treat." The frightful accidents that sometimes occurred in consequence of overloading their pieces, I think had a tendency to cause this practice to fall into disrepute.

Friendly reader, I do not recollect that during all the time I was a member of this company, a single warbling voice was raised to arrest the attention of the young and inexperienced. Not a single individual in community was ready to take us by the hand and say to us, Young men, beware; you are in danger of contracting intemperate habits. Not even to say to us, It is improper for you to put yourselves in the way of temptation. Is it at all wonderful that many did become dissipated in their habits? Indeed, is it not strange that more did not?

Premium Fanning Mills. Important to Farmers and Mechanics. The subscriber has purchased of J. B. Bamforth the right to use in Potter and McKean counties his patent in the construction of Fanning Mills. He has also, at great expense, commenced the manufacture of a PREMIUM MILL which will clean from 100 to 200 bushels per hour. This Mill was patented March 20, 1847, a date which time it has stood at the head of the list at all the State and county agricultural societies where it has been exhibited, and is a universal favorite with all farmers who have tried it. It took the premium at the first Agricultural Fair held at Harrisburg, Oct. 31st, 1851, when there were 30,000 people present; and at the great State Agricultural Fair at New-York, held at Rochester Sept. 16-19, 1851, this Fanning Mill received the highest honors.

Having met with uniform success wherever tried, I confidently invite the farmers of Potter and McKean counties to call at my shop in Coudersport and examine for themselves. A supply always on hand, to be sold on reasonable terms. 6-37f JOHN RECKHOW.
