BY D. W. RANNEY.

Oh, Liberty! Sacred art thou, to hearts that feel Thy quenchless firel: Greek and Roman Thy attars built; and sacrificed At thy ho'y shrine, such offerings As in their zeal they gave to God. Fair Albion, where Saxon came With freedom's germ, which, planted there, Didst flourish like the towering oak, Which bowed not to the tempest's rage, But spread itself o'er every clime, And grace to all its needly children. But spread itself o'er every clime,
And gave to all its goodly shade,
Doh guard thee well with vigil keen.
Of Plymouth Rock was planted deep
That Saxon oak, which shades the West.
Touissiant, in the palmy groves
Of St. Domingo did'st raise for thee
His flashing steel, and swear by those
Who, fighting, fell at Marathon
And Lenetra, to ne'er give o'er.
The fiery Hun, on Europe's plain
Has littly torch of holy fire.

I make the comparison of Vermont and Virginia, at the present time, because the comparison will show some interesting statistics of both States, and because it exhibits most clearly the difference between a State of intelligent freemen, and one which is cursed with the blighting influences of slavery.

Nature has done everything for Virglnia-for Vermont she has done comparatively nothing; Virginia, with the exception of the Eastern section, has the finest climate in the world-Vermont has cold and frosts at least eight months in the year: Virginia is almost wholly a farming State from the want of intelligence and enterprise of her people-Vermont is a farming State from necessity; Virginia has a natural soil which nothing but slave labor could ever impoverish-Vermont has a soil which nothing but free labor could possibly live upon; Virginia has eight months in the year for the growth of her harvests-Vermont has only four; Virginia has inexhaustible mines of gold, iron, coal, and salt -Vermout is comparatively destitute of mineral wealth; Virginia has excellent facilities for foreign commerce-Vermont has none; Virginia has a great extent of inland navigation—Vermont has none; Virginia has 61,-000 square miles of territory-Vermont has 8,000; the population of Virginia is 1,421,661, or four and a half times that of Vermont, which is 314,120; the average decennial increase of the population of Virginia from 1780 to 1850, has been 11.39 per cent-that of Vermont has been 26.78 per cent ; Virginia las 23 inhabitants to the square mile-Vermont

Of this number, there are 616 Native American Adults who cannot read and write, or one is two hundred and seventy-two. This includes the Free Blacks. Perhaps Virginia may complain of this. We will omit them, and the result will be, Free White Population of Virginia, over 20 years of age, 413,428, White Native American Adults, who cannot read and write, 75,868, or one in five and a half.

Free white population of Vermont, over 20 years of age, 167,376; White Native American Adults, who cannot read and write, 565, or one in two hundred and ninety six.

Let us compare the Free Black Adults of Vermont, with the Native American white citizens of Virginia.

Free Black adults in Vermont who cannot read and write, one in eight. Free White adults in Virginia who cannot read and write, one in five and a half. Even the "poor, miserable, free niggers" (as a Virginian calls them) in Vermont, are ahead of the Virginia in point of intelligence. It is no wonder that Yankee teachers find such a fertile field for their labors, among the benighted inhabitants of the Old Dominion. But the boast of Virginia is her agricultural interests; let us see how

But Virginia has, in proportion to her population, twenty-two times as many asses and mules, and six times as many hogs as Vermont.

Let us look at the produce of the two States for one year. In proportion to her population, Vermont pro-

Nearly twice as much rye as Virginia. More oats.

More than five times as much wool. Seven times as many potatoes (of all kinds.)

Seven times as much barley. More than four times as much buckwheat.

Five times as much butter. Ninety times as much cheese. Ten and a half times as much hay. One hundred and twelve times as nany hops.

Twenty-three times as much sugar More honey and beeswax. Eight times as much value of orchard products. Virginia produces in proportion to her population, more tobacco, peas and beans, flax, wheat, and corn, than Vermont. Under the head of Literary Statistics, we find that in proportion to her population, Vermont has Nearly twice as many newspapers as Virginia. Their circulation is two and a half imes as much. The number of copies printed annually is much more. Also, that Vermont has, in proportion to her population, Eight times as many public libra-

Religious Statistics. Vermont has more churches, more seats in the churches, and nearly twice as much value of church property as Virginia, in proportion to her population. So much for the statistics of the two Powder, Flasks, &c. States.

It will be seen from all the preceding statistics that in everything relating to the education and intelligence of the people, Vermont is greatly superior to Virginia, while even in ly superior to Virginia, while even in agricultural statistics, which are the boast of Virginia, and for which her boast of Virginia, and for which her boast of Virginia, and for which her soil and climate are neculiarly adapt. soil and climate are peculiarly adapted. ### A LADY CLERK.

We find the following in the St.

ILLINOIS BELLE .- This very pretty little craft, just from the builder on the Ohio, and now engaged in our Illinois river trade, has one feature about her of peculiar attractivenessa lady clerk. Look at her bills of la-Three and a half times as many bing, and "Mary J. Patterson, clerk," will be seen traced in a delicate and very neat style of chirography. The insuarnce companies, under such an But look at the number of adults arrangement, will have to come down clerk on a western steamer! It speaks Rely upon it, the Captain of the Illinois Belle is a gentleman, else his clerk never could be a lady: and mark! there will not be much "eucher" or "poker" playing in the cabin of the Belle. Coarse jests, profane oaths and indecent language will be a rare exception amongst the hands, and recklessness unknown amongst the officers of that boat.

Every woman having a son, brother or husband on board has an insurance of his good conduct while in health, and of his being humanely attended in sickness. We knew an instance on board one of our Cincinatti packets when a pious colored chambermaid was to a great extent the guardian of the boat, and the wildest officer ot hand took pains to be and appear better than he would otherwise have been, for fear Elizabeth would know of his delinquencies.

A lady clerk must exert a much stronger moral influence, and the Republican is right in i s estimate; of the insurance risks and signs of moral progress .- Pittsburg Visitor.
