

SENATOR ATCHISON ON KANSAS.

Senator Atchison on leaving home for Washington, made a speech, the purpose of which may be gathered from an extract:

Gen. Atchison said that his mission here to-day was, if possible, to awaken the people of this county to the danger ahead, and to suggest the means to avoid it. The people of Kansas in their first elections would decide the question whether or not the slaveholder was to be excluded, and it depended upon the majority of the votes cast at the polls. Now if a set of fanatics and demagogues, a thousand miles off, could afford to advance their money, and exert every nerve to abolish the Territory and exclude the slaveholder, when they have not the least personal interest, what is your duty? When you reside within a day's journey of the Territory, and when your peace, your quiet, and your property depend upon your action, you can, without an exertion, send five hundred of your young men who will vote in favor of your institutions.

Should each county in the State of Missouri only do its duty, the question will be decided quietly and peacefully at the ballot-box. If we are defeated, then Missouri and the other Southern States will have shown themselves recreant to their interests and will deserve their fate. The Abolitionists will have nothing to gain or lose.

Said he, if you burn my barn, I sustain a great loss, but you gain nothing. So it is with the Colonization Societies, and the dupes they send here to Abolitionize Kansas.

If these Abolitionists steal all your negroes, they gain nothing. The negroes are injured, you are ruined. So much the greater is the motive for activity on your part.

Fellow citizens, we should not be apathetic when so much is involved. We should be up and doing. He was for meeting organization with organization. He was for meeting those philanthropic knaves peaceably, at the ballot-box; and outvoting them.

If we cannot do this, it is an omen that the institution of slavery is to fall in this and the other Southern States; but it will fall after much strife, civil war and bloodshed.

If Abolitionism, under its present auspices, is established in Kansas, there will be constant strife and bloodshed between Kansas and Missouri. Negro stealing will be a principle and a vocation. It will be the policy of philanthropic knaves until they force the slaveholder to abandon Missouri. nor will it be long before it is done.

You cannot watch your stables to prevent thieves from stealing your horses and mules; neither can you watch your negro quarters to prevent your neighbors from seducing away and stealing your negroes.

If Kansas is abolished, all men who love peace and quiet will leave us, and all emigration to Missouri from the Slave States will cease.

In a hybrid State we cannot live; we cannot be in a constant quarrel; in a constant state of suspicion of our neighbors. The feeling is entertained by a large portion of mankind everywhere.

Yet he said he was willing, notwithstanding his pacific views, to hang negro thieves; he would not punish those who merely entertained abstract opinions; but negro thieves, and persons who stirred up insubordination and insurrection among our slaves, he believed it right to punish, and they could not be punished too severely; he would not punish a man who believed that a rape, murder or larceny was abstractly right; yet he would punish the man who committed either.

He said that there were a few men who entertained those opinions in the western part of the State of Missouri, and who no doubt practiced upon them, and that, when full evidence was obtained, justice should be done them. Convincing evidence must be had. He was opposed to violence—indiscriminate violence, but let punishment fall on the guilty.

Was it not strange to find, in a State so deeply interested in the question of slavery, a portion of the press denouncing such men as Douglas, Cass, Bright, and others, and exulting over victories lately obtained by the Abolitionists in the Northern States? Yet it was so. As to slanders and abuse heaped upon himself, he cared but little. It was the fate of better men. But a day of reckoning would come. There will be a reaction in the Northern States. The people of the North cannot be in favor of dissolving the Union.

The mad platforms upon which the recent fusion victories have been obtained, if carried out, would inevitably dissolve the Union.

He had always had great confidence in the intelligence and virtue of the people, but he acknowledged that this confidence had been somewhat shaken in late years.

He again told the audience that to succeed in making Kansas a slave Territory, it was not sufficient for the South to talk, but to act; to go peaceably and inhabit the Territory, and peaceably to vote and settle the question according to the principles of the Douglas bill.

CREDIT AND CHARACTER.

There is no lesson more important for the young, than that which inculcates promptness and punctuality, not only in all monetary dealings, but in every transaction of life. Nevertheless, it is a common error with many to disregard both qualities, and thus to impair confidence, destroy credit, and weaken character. Only let it once be understood that an individual is reliable and may be depended upon, and the character of that man will be established upon a rock of adamant. This is one great secret, not only of success in trade, but of confidence, esteem, and respect among friends and neighbors. It forms the soul and source of an enlarged credit. Reliability is indeed not only a great virtue, but it is absolutely essential in our dealings with one another, and in every phase and condition of life. Never make a promise that you do not intend to perform, and be especially careful to avoid entering into an engagement that you know it will be almost impossible to fulfill. The consequence of such an error must be to impair confidence, induce caution, and excite distrust.

War Declared at Last.

The long repose of Europe is about to be disturbed by the bugle's note and the rattle of the drum, calling its slumbering millions to arms in the defense of their firesides and their country. England and France are calling for men and means, and sending forward their armies to battle against the aggression of the Russian Bear; but while the Old World is convulsed by revolution, unusual peace and plenty reign in the New.

In the peaceful and quiet pursuit of our business we have formed a copartnership under the name and style of N. S. BUTLER & CO., and have taken the store in Empire Block, in the village of Olean, formerly occupied by Thing & Brother, and are now receiving a splendid new stock of goods adapted to the season and wants of the community, which we intend to sell exclusively for cash down, at prices that will cause consternation and dismay in the ranks of old fogies that have been so long established in this section.

Our stock will consist in part of the following Goods:

- Hardware, Crockery, Boots & Shoes, Hats, Caps, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Drugs, Medicines, Dye Stuffs, Glass, Paints & Oils, Sash, Putty, Chairs, Bedsteads, Mattresses, Feather Beds, Stone and Wooden Ware.

And we mean to keep such an assortment of the above goods that persons from a distance can be assured of finding everything they usually want at prices that will do them good Call and see for yourselves.

THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

Daily.....$6.00.
Semi-Weekly.....$3.00. Weekly.....$2.00.
ALWAYS IN ADVANCE.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE commences its 11th annual volume with the month of September—announces it with a circulation (15,000) larger than was ever before accorded to any general newspaper whatever. This circulation has been gradually and laboriously attained by concentrating upon THE TRIBUNE the best efforts of many editors and correspondents and by a greater liberality of outlay in each department than was probably ever before risked on any journal. It has been attained, not by sailing smoothly in the current of opinion before the wind and banking in the smiles of majorities, but by an earnest, fearless devotion to Truth and Progress as above all partial exigencies, all temporary interests, all momentary illusions of popularity and success. Its thorough advocacy of Temperance and Liquor Prohibition, of Justice to the despoiled and down-trodden, and of the equal and inalienable Rights of the Human Race, have from time to time repelled many sunshine friends, whose prejudices or seeming interests were thereby contravened, but have combined to form a character which will endeavor to main an independent position among journals which we feel that it will be hereafter a success not to impair.

The leading ideas to which THE TRIBUNE is devoted may be briefly set forth as follows: 1. Freedom of the Press, and especially right to Political Freedom; 2. Order, or necessary right of the legally indicated majority to interfere in the sphere of action all practices which it deems demoralizing, therefore prejudicial to the common weal; 3. Beneficence, or the wisdom and policy of employing the resources and credit of the community to accomplish works of general and unquestioned utility to which individual means are inadequate or which, though eminently conducive to the public good, do not promise to reimburse by their direct income the outlay required for their construction; 4. INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT, as the corner-stone of a true and benign National Policy, conning the "naturalization" of a new and valuable art or product of the soil as more important than the acquisition of a fresh province or island, and equally within the legitimate sphere of National concern; 5. National Unity, as a vital condition of true Progress, to be cherished by the most anxious, assiduous study to proffer as readily as we are prone to require redress for every wrong, and never to be surrendered except at the call of endangered Liberty. Such are the chief landmarks by which THE TRIBUNE directs its course.

But a small portion of THE TRIBUNE is allotted to what is currently distinguished by the name of reading; but review of New Books of decided interest, with choice extracts illustrating their quality, are freely given, while the great body of our paper is devoted to a lucid and careful digest of the News of the Day, with editorial comments thereon. We have reliable Correspondents in each portion of the globe, and in every civilized portion of Europe and America; and their reports will aid our readers to a clearer understanding of the causes which are now gradually converting the Old World into one gigantic arena, for the death struggle of rival passions and ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE contains reliable reports of the Markets. Our Cable Market reports, alone are worth more than the price of the paper to those who are engaged in raising and selling Cotton.

No party or involving so great an expense as our Weekly and Semi-Weekly could be afforded at the price of these sheets except in connection with a Daily, nor could our Daily be sustained at its price without the aid of our Country editions. Large as our circulation it would involve an enormous outlay, were the reports for Advertisers. We believe that in THE TRIBUNE is realized the largest variety and extent of solid information concerning the events of the day which has been or can be combined with extreme cheapness; and in that faith we commend it to the favorable regard of the reading public. We offer no premiums for subscribers, tempt none to take it by gambling prospects of winning farms or mansions in a lottery in which tickets are furnished to his patrons, employ no traveling agents to importune people in taking it, and was a none of our room in dunning our subscribers for pay.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE.

This mill was patented March 20, 1847, since which time it has stood at the head of the list at the State and county agricultural societies where it has been exhibited, and is a universal favorite, with all farmers who have tried it. It took the premium at the first Agricultural Fair held at Harrisburg, Oct. 31st, 1851, when there were 30,000 people present; and at the great State Agricultural Fair at New-York, held at Rochester Sept. 16-19, 1851; this Fanning Mill received the highest honors.
