

GIGING.

is a term known to sawyers, and will be understood when applied to characters which are rapidly changing in these United States. slave law men, anti-prohibition men, and Nebraska men, are the giggers. And I presume that good eyes, could see here one among the Pope's. They may be known by a worthy approval of the great moral reforms of the day. And we conversed with spoke terms of the prohibitory enactment in the Empire State, and endorsed the official acts of Pellock. Surely, thought I, against prohibition strong, favor of Bigler with a venture. Brother Mann, we have a lot to such men, and now is to discharge it. It is this. I urge them to keep giging, until they get out of the knotty, and rum eaten timber which have been "running in," and get a good ready to start furnish them with a "lot" which make the "panel."

Having these figures to speak for us, we'll for the present discontinue. Yours respectfully, S. W. KNOW SOMETHINGS LIKE THE POSITION correspondent of the Evening Post says: "A party of men in the country are tired over Mr. Wise's success in organizing the Know-Nothing members who are now being known as Know Somethings. They see in his victory, with attendant circumstances, that the South, and the support of that system of terrorism which we had so striking a success in the misgovernment of the country, and they are filled with confidence that the North will not be wanting at so important a crisis in the country's history. The existing sectional parties is to be re-organized, and we are to choose between submission and resistance, and we become as to hesitate for one moment as to which course we should take. A New York correspondent of the money market says: "Last week closed abundantly supplied money. The banks, bankers, and capitalists all have more confidence in temporary investment than they know how to use. It must be very embarrassing to them." "Here my lad," said an attorney about nine years old. "I was asked and asked the attorney what was to be tried next? The answer was, 'a case between the lawyer and the devil—which do you think will be most likely to gain the victory?' The boy replied, 'I guess it will be a pretty hard squeeze—the lawyer has the most money, but the devil has the most lawyers.'

Putnam's Monthly.

ITS assuming the publication of PUTNAM'S MONTHLY, it is only necessary for us to refer to the special notice issued, with our hearty approval, upon the first of April, by the late publishers. The Magazine will stand at greater excellence in the direction hitherto pursued, and, without being a partisan, will hold decided opinions, and will treat all public questions from a humane and truly national point of view. In all the other varied departments of a Monthly Magazine, it will hope to amuse, instruct, and benefit; to criticize generously but justly; and to attract to its pages, as it has already done, the contributions of able men in every walk of Literature, Science, and Art. The vast volumes are the best assurance that nothing offensive to the purest morality, and no wanton attack upon honest conviction, will ever find a place in the Magazine. All communications should be addressed to DIX & EDWARDS, Publishers of Putnam's Monthly, 10 Park Place, New York.
