

FATHERS.
"Oh dear, oh dear! I wish they would come. I can't be patient any more; I'm so tired of waiting," said Andrew, as he threw himself into the rocking chair, almost crying with disappointment.

"Mamma, when do you think they'll come?" said Maria, taking up Andrew's complaint; "do stop reading, and come look for the carriage." So the children begged, and teased, and fretted for half an hour, till they were quite out of humor, heated and vexed by fretting, and running, out to look for Uncle William's carriage.

"Pretty soon a man or horseback came in sight, to say that Mr. Bailey's carriage had broken down, and an hour must pass before they could start on their picnic and sailing party."

"Now Andrew and Maria cried right out, and little Kitty, who had been quite content with her blocks, joined in the lament—"An hour! Oh dear! it will be so long; we'll never get off." Just then Aunt Phoebe came into the room, and calling her nephew and niece into the hall, said, while taking off their hats and shawls, "Now, children, be patient like your mother, and the time will soon pass."

"O mamma is big, and knows how to be patient; we can't," said Kitty. "You can, if you will do just as your mother does," said Aunt Phoebe. "What is that?" said Andrew, putting his lips and shaking his shoulders. "Go look at your mother and come tell me what she is doing."

Andrew peeped into the room, and then said, "She has laid her hat on the sofa, and is reading a book, just as if we were not going."

"Well, suppose we try the same thing, and see if it will not make us patient like mamma." So Aunt Phoebe went with the children to their book case, and took down "Rollo at Play" for Andrew, and "Susy's Six Birthdays" for Maria, and as Kitty cannot read, she got a big book full of pictures for her to look at.

Thus equipped with their books, they all went out on the piazza and sat down, the children in their little chairs and Aunt Phoebe in a large one, and commenced reading. Nothing was heard for a long time but the song of a little robin who was building a nest in a tree close by, and Kitty's "Oh's and Ah's" as she turned to a new picture. As they sat there, "as still as mice," as Aunt Phoebe said, Uncle William drove up and called out, "Phoebe, have you given up going? You look like a deaf and dumb institution."

"Oh, I guess we are going," said Andrew, throwing down his book, "but the man said it would be an hour, and he has been reading."

"Well, we must hurry, for my hour has extended to an hour and a half." "An hour and a half," said Andrew, as they got into the carriage, "it didn't seem a minute, I was so busy reading about Rollo and James."

"And I had just got to where Susy Miller burnt her fingers," said Maria. "What are you laughing at, Auntie," said Kitty, "wasn't I good, too?" "Yes, you were all good; I was only thinking how much like big people certain little ones looked when they sat down to read, instead of pouting and fretting."

THE PEN—in a hand that knows how to use it, is the most powerful weapon known. As the tongue of the absent, how cheering! When the golden fints of virtue guide it, how beautiful! Where self-respect gives it a new vigor, how pleasing! Where honor directs it, how respected!—Where wit sharpens it, how fatal! When scrutiny wields it, how contemptible! 'Tis the weapon of the soul.

FREEDING THE ALLIES.—It is stated that three or four thousand hogs have lately been slaughtered in Greencastle, Indiana, for the use of the army in the Crimea. Contracts for thirty thousand head for the same purpose have been made, with different parties throughout the State.

The new King of the Sandwich Islands has appointed his new wife prime minister of the Kingdom.—Wake up, ye strong-minded women, and lie away to a land of palms and oranges, where women may be made prime ministers, governors and judges.

A man's moral principles, like the dykes of Holland, or the levees of the Mississippi, need to be continually watched and strengthened. He is ruined if they are undermined or overthrown.

HYGEANA.
Brought Home to the Door of this Million.
A Wonderful Discovery has recently been made by Dr. Curtis, of this city, in the treatment of Consumption, Asthma, and all diseases of the Lungs. We refer to "Dr. Curtis' Hygeana, or Inhaling Hygean Vapor and Cherry Syrup." With this new method Dr. C. has restored many afflicted ones to perfect health; as an evidence of which he has innumerable certificates. Speaking of the treatment a physician says: "It is evident that inhaling—constantly breathing an agreeable, heating vapor, the medicinal properties must come in direct contact with the whole of the aerial cavity of the lungs, and thus escape the many and varied changes produced upon them when introduced into the stomach, and subjected to the process of digestion. The Hygeana is for sale at the druggists' through out the country.

WAR DECLARED AT LAST.
THE long repose of Europe is about to be disturbed by the bugle's note and the rattle of the drum, calling its slumbering millions to arms in the defense of their friends and their country. England and France are calling for men and means, and sending forward their armies to battle against the aggressions of the Russian Bear; but while the Old World is convulsed by revolution, unusual peace and plenty reign in the New.

Premium Fanning Mills.
Important to Farmers and Mechanics.
THE subscriber has purchased of J. Bamforth the right to use in Potter and McKean counties his patent in the construction of Fanning Mills. He has also, at great expense, commenced the manufacture of a PREMIUM MILL, which will clean from 100 to 200 bushels per hour. This Mill was patented March 20, 1847, since which time it has stood at the head of the list at all the State and county agricultural societies where it has been exhibited, and is a universal favorite with all farmers who have tried it.

Tin and Hardware.
THE undersigned has connected with Business, that of HARDWARE and CUTLERY—so that in addition to the business heretofore conducted by him, he is now ready to supply the public with almost every variety of Hardware, Mill and Cross-Cut Saws, Hoop Iron, Nails, Cable and Ox Chains, Carpenters' Adzes and Broadaxes, Manilla Rope for Cables, a general assortment of Clocks, Japanned Ware, Toys of every description; and in short, he designs to keep all such things as the public want in his line, which he will sell, not for less than cost, but for a very small profit indeed, and hopes by a strict attention to his business to receive liberal share of public patronage.
