characters—my creations of mere accident, but the result alone of thorough mental and moral culture—then and to. till then will they find at home, that fellowship of mind, that equal companionship,' which they now seek from solitary books and from their cultivated friends of the other sex. Then and not till then will they find at home those with whom they will delight to divide their highest joys, their mental joys, which undivided lose half their fragrance. T. S.

PAY OF JURORS.

There is, says a cotemporary, a general murmuring among Jurors who attend Court, at the inadequacy of the per diem. The law allows one dollar per day, and six cents mileage going and returning. This is barely sufficient to pay the landlord's bill, and not enough to pay the bootblack. A juror comes to Bellefonte, and is in many cases obliged to send home his horse and vehicle, because he can not afford to be out of pocket. A juryman who is obliged to neglect his farm at home—to leave his plow, his hay field, or his seeding—complains very justly that he is obliged to serve the public at great inconvenience, and be out of pocket. Frequently he is subject to great loss by neglecting his own business; for Court always comes at a "busy time," and the Judge never will excuse him unless he makes himself sick! The pay of a juror should be $1.50; this would pay his tavern bill, and leave a small balance at the end of two weeks, to buy a dress to take home to his "better half," and a few nick-nacks for the "little ones." His welcome home would be none the less cordial for these little acts of remembrance to the domestic circle. We commend this subject to our members of Legislature, and cordially recommend them to cut down their own pay to the old standard of $3.00, and raise that of jurors to $1.50, and witnesses also to $1.00.—Center Democrat.

"Why don't you hurry along?" said a teamster to a stranger who was passing him. That teamster had very kindly driven his team on one side of the highway, and waited for the other to pass. This act of kindness had excited in the bosom of his unknown friend, emotions of gratitude which would soon have been expressed in thanks. But just then the man of a kind fact cried out in a cross tone, "Why don't you hurry along?" Ah! that expression spoiled it all. It swept away in an instant all grateful emotions from the bosom of the other, and produced dislike. Thanks were no longer felt, and were never expressed. Oh, what a pity that kind acts should sometimes be spoiled by cross words!

THE SLAVE TRADE IN CUBA.—Chauncey and Wilm, two American sailors lately tried at Havana for being engaged in the slave trade, have been condemned to the chain gang. Five thousand Africans have been landed on the shores of Cuba, within three months; and a slaver having put about four hundred of the unfortunates into boats, was immediately set on fire and burned within sight of a British war steamer.

The following announcement appears in some of the English papers of December 6: "Died on the 17th ult., at his residence, Grecian-place, Lincoln, aged 80, Robert Bunyan, Esq., the last male descendant, in a direct line, from John Bunyan, the author of the celebrated allegory, Pilgrim's Progress."

The Religious Telescope says:

Nature has established an unchanging fitness in things, the beauty, excellence, or suitableness of which the cultivated taste readily perceives. It is fitting, for example, that little children should look, talk, and act like children; and when clothed and made to talk and act like old people, (as they are often made to do in religious fiction) they offend and even shock our taste. A cotemporary says:

"The wisdom of sixty, with the patience, self-denial, and piety of a persecuted saint, done up in a little girl of six, is simply absurd. God don't make such creatures, and has not for about six thousand years. They are very pretty ideals, dreams of impossible perfection, 'child angels' made earthly by human birth; but they are not human beings, and a writer might with as true artistic judgment introduce an archangel among his characters, as either of these."

Outrage upon Strangers.

A few nights since, says the Troy Budget, a well-dressed man, apparently a stranger in that locality, sauntered into the watch-house, and called for a glass of brandy.

"Don't keep it here," remarked the roundsman; "you'll have to go some place else, if you want brandy."

The stranger walked towards the official, and with a nod and a wink, gave him to understand that if he sold him some brandy, he need not fear exposure or prosecution on account of the prohibitory law.

"I tell you we don't sell brandy here," reiterated the roundsman in a vehement tone.

"Don't sell any brandy?" remarked the stranger, looking curiously around the room, and walking with an air of suspicion towards the door; "don't sell brandy! what in — do you keep open so late for, then?"

Soon after, the indignant stranger left the watch-house for more congenial quarters.

A pleasant writer from Germany, among other polite and amiable traits of German characteristics, notices the true delicacy manifested by them in affairs not relating to the detail of business:

They have a singular sensitiveness as to the money; at least in the handling of it as a thing of transfer, they often show a degree of delicacy quite beyond the finest instincts of other Europeans. For instance, is a lady teacher of any kind to be paid for a quarter's instruction, do you think that the gross and bare money is thrust into the lady's hand, with the request superadded thereto, that she would count it? Delicacy and good breeding forbid! They put the disgraceful commodity into an out-side wrapper; this again into an envelope and then seal it up; they then either send it to the rightful person, or else, with the greatest delicacy, slip it into her hand while they are talking about something else. A reduced German lady, of the best German family, who had been compelled in this country to make a profession of an accomplishment, and teach music, told me she was never more shocked than at the unceremonious manner of an American gentleman on the occasion of her receiving, for the first time in her life, her wages at the end of the first quarter. The cool business-like manner in which he took out his porte-monnaie, counted through the bank notes, and handing her a crumpled parcel requested her to count it herself, to see that 'all was right,' well nigh overcame her.

"If the slaves were not kept by their owners, they would perish. They can not take care of themselves."—Stephens's Speech.

John Little, a fugitive slave who went into the Canadian woods without a dollar, has raised crops this year that will bring him $2,400! He thinks he will be able to "take care of himself."—Syracuse Chronicle.

The London papers speak of a ball of fire which, on the evening of Nov. 30, appeared in mid air, and darted along in a strait line over about a third of the sphere, leaving behind it a comet-like trail. It then burst like a rocket, but without a noise, falling in a shower of sparks, which, however, instantly disappeared.

THE NEW YORK HORTICULTURAL REVIEW,

A Journal of Suburban art.

SUPERBLY AND PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED

Devoted to the Advancement of the Rural Interests in AMERICA.

This one of the largest and most elaborate works of the kind in the world.

Rural Architecture forms one of the principal features. Each number contains from two to four engravings of model cottages, from designs by eminent and skillful architects.—Space is also assigned to the historical art of Landscape Gardening; engraved plans of gardens in every style, and adapted to the peculiarities of different orders of architecture, beautify the work.

Engravings of new fruits, new flowers, new vegetables, &c., are illustrated and described as soon as their respective qualities can determined, forming the most complete and elegant Manual of Rural Husbandry ever attempted.

An experienced corps of practical writers seven in number, are engaged to fill its columns.

It contains seventy large pages, and is printed on the finest pearl-surfaced paper, manufactured expressly.

TERMS:—$2 per annum, payable invariably in advance. Fifty cents commission on each subscriber allowed to those who act as agents. $1,000 will be distributed at the end of the year among those who send the twenty largest lists of subscribers. These premiums will be paid in cash. The first premium will be $400.

The following are selected from hundreds of similar notices, voluntarily contributed by contemporaneous publications:—

The Horticultural Review deserves the most liberal patronage. It is not only eminently practical, but is written in a style that equals the best efforts of the late A. J. Downing.—Anti Kerocker.

The most elegant and useful book of the kind that has ever come under our observation.—Inquister.

Mr. Meages, the Editor of the Horticultural Review, is a practical pomologist, and one of the most scholarly of our country boasts of. He possesses the glowing descriptive powers of Dickens, the elegant gossip of Wagoe, combined with a thorough knowledge of rural art.—State Police Intendent.

Farmers, buy it for your sons—buy it for your daughters. It is a treatise decidedly practical combination of the beautiful and the useful.—Argus, N. Y.

We have thought that in Downing's death, the eloquent advocate of rural adornment had become only a cherished remembrance; but in Mr. Meages we discover an equally rich mine of mental wealth, that he dikens the influence of the spirit has is gone.—Montrose Transcript.

Advertisers will find this an unsurpassed medium of publicity, as the Horticultural Review circulates exclusively in every State in the Union. Advertisements inserted at the rate of $10 per page.

WOOD ENGRAVING

Those requiring Wood Engraving, can have their orders executed in an unrivaled manner. Special agents have given 36 views of ANIMALS; an experienced English Draughtsman is engaged for this express purpose. Persons having animals they choose can forward a daguerreotype of the object they wish engraved, which will be a sufficient guide to obtain a perfect fac-simile. Stock breeders will be dealt with on very liberal terms.

Our Exchange List is already very large.—A further extension is not desired, unless publishers are willing to give the above advertisement several insertions in their respective papers.

Agricultural Books can be furnished on every useful subject, from both English and American publishers, by enclosing to our address the price of the book required.

Specimen copies will be forwarded on the receipt of 18 cts. in postage stamps.

The Pennsylvania Telegraph

ENLARGED FORM AND REDUCED TERMS.

THE CASH SYSTEM ADOPTED.

On and after the First of January, 1856, the Pennsylvania Telegraph, published at Harrisburg, Pa., will be owned and conducted by the undersigned, who will give their best energies to make it worthy of its cause and of its friends.

It will commence the new year printed on entirely new type, and the Weekly greatly enlarged in form, while the price will be lower than that of any other paper of its class ever published at the Capital of the State, and PAYMENTS WILL BE REQUIRED STRICTLY IN ADVANCE.

No paper will be sent until it is paid for, and all will be discontinued as the subscriptions expire, unless they are renewed.

The Telegraph will be issued SEMI-WEEKLY, on a sheet of twenty-four columns, during the sessions of the Legislature, and WEEKLY on a double sheet of forty-eight columns the remainder of the year. It will present a comprehensive summary of the Legislative proceedings; all important general laws as they are passed, and aim to give the current political intelligence of the times in the fullest and most reliable manner. In short, the proprietors hope to make it a complete Family and Political Journal, and they confidently appeal to the people of Pennsylvania to sustain their enterprise.

The Telegraph will advocate a liberal political policy, and aim to unite all those who, though animated by the same common purposes, and looking to the same beneficent results, seem disposed by the conflict of distinctive organizations. It will sustain the highest standard of American Nationality; and, while yielding a sacred obedience to the compromises of the Constitution, will determinedly resist the extension of Human Slavery. It will give a cordial, earnest but independent support to the administration of Gov. POLLOCK.

TERMS—STRICTLY IN ADVANCE.

The Telegraph will be furnished SEMI-WEEKLY during the sessions of the Legislature, and WEEKLY, on a double sheet, the remainder of the year, at the following low rates—the money invariably to accompany the order:

Single subscriptions	$2 00
Five copies ($1 80 per copy)	9 00
Ten copies ($1 70 per copy)	17 00
Twenty copies ($1 50 per copy)	30 00

And at the same price ($1 50 per copy) on any number over twenty.

Clubs should be made up at once, and the subscriptions forwarded before the first of January, so that they can commence with the session of the Legislature.

☞ Subscriptions will be forwarded from this office. All orders must be addressed to

M'CLURE & SELLERS,
Harrisburg, Pa.

☞ Business men will find the Telegraph the very best Advertising Medium in Pennsylvania, out of the cities.
