written anything else. But the idea of not interposing to save us from the depredations of a few hundred bloats from the South whom he has commissioned and armed with U. S. arms, as the posse of a Bogus Law Sheriff, is is believed here that a great diplomatic mistake was made, as it seems the messenger took no whisky along. It is believed that a bottle of rot-ahem! would have had a mollifying effect upen the above letter. But let that pass.

I am indebted for these letters and other documents, to the kindness of Kilbourne, in 1852-3, but who is now a good Republican, and is giving his talent and abilities to the Free State movement in Kansas. Could not some their prejudices, and learn of his ex-H. Y. ample?

From the Evening Post. AMBAULT UPON SENATOR SUMNER.

WASHINGTON, May 22, 1856. A few moments after the adjourn ment of the Senate to-day, while Mr Samer was sitting in his seat writing, Mr. Brooks, a representative from South Carolina, approached him, and after exchanging a few words, struck him over the head with a heavy cane. The blow partially stunned Mr. Sumner, who, though staggering under its force, rose to defend himself.

Brooks repeated the blows, a number of times, while his associate, Mc. Keitt, of South Carolina, arrested the efforts of bystanders to stop the assault. Mr. Samier was then carried in a carriage to his residence, and Messrs, Brooks and Keitt walked away. There was every appearance of premeditation in this attack. Mr. Sumner was carried home in a state of partial step or, with two fing afful gashes on the back and side of his head, and with the blood streaming most profusely. His coat and shirt are complete- pand for Hides. ly saturated with blood.

The particulars of the case are these as I learn them from an eye witness Shortly before two o'clock in the afternoon, the Senate having adjourned, Mr. Summer was sitting in his place writing very busily. Brooks approached him, saying. "Mr. Sammer, I have read your speech twice. It is a liber on Seath Cardian and on Mr. Butler, who is a relative of mine." Mr. Samwho was still intently writing, knew : nothing more. Brooks struck him with a heavy cane, upon which Sumner sprang from his seat to defend him self with such violence that the heavy desk before him was wrenched from he floor, to which it was screwed. He was, however, so much staggered as to be rendered powerless, and the blows were repeated till he was senseless. The two cuts upon his head are each about two inches in length, and are very deep. Dr. Boyle, who was present, has sowed up and dressed the wound, and it is hoped they will not prove dangerous. There were at least a dozen persons standing near at the time of the assault, which was so unexpected that, as they say, they did not think of interfering. Close by stood, as I am informed, the Senate's Sergeant-at-Arms, a large, strong man, and yet he didnothing. Mr. Crittenden came forward from another part of the Hall, and denounced the attack to the perpetrator, with the manly indignation characteristic of the chivalrous veteran of Kentucky, as a "shameful transaction." But the reply was, I am told, "You'd better not interfere, we lick one at a time." Keitt stood by with a cane, ready to save Brooks from injury; many persons having the impression that he was armed, though no firearms were displayed, either by him or Brooks.

It is believed that Sumner would have certainly been killed but for the interference of Messrs. Murray and Morgan, representatives from New York. The former seized Brooks around the waist while he was striking Summer, and, with Morgan's help, pulled him away. Mr. Sumner's legs, at the time when he was attacked, were under the desk, so far that he could Souly tise by wrenching it from the floor. The stunning, sudden force of the blow knocked his head forward. shoulder, held him with the left hand, while with the other he kept laying the blows upon his head. When Mr-Murray, therefore, pulled away Brooks, Mr. Morgan took Sumuer, now unconcious, in his arms.

If you could see the distinguished senator, who is the victim of this atwhere his chief consistency lies. It | tack, senseless, with the blood gushing from wounds bestowed while he was sitting down, unprepared to defend himself, you would be as little disposed to mere comment as are his friends in Congress. There is not one of them who does not feel that the same blow was inflicted upon himself, and if this occurrence, coupled with the recent acting Governor W. Y. Roberts, late of outrages upon the people of Kansas, Pennsylvania, who was an old line hun- of whom Sumner has proved himself ker Democrat in the House with J. M. the pre-eminent champion, do not rouse the North to action, we may well

Mr. Brooks is a large framed man, who generally appeared very pacific of our democratic friends throw off in his manner and temperament. He is the one, you may remember, who has been so prominent in encouraging South Carolina emigration to Kansas. He is almost the last man in the Southern delegation whom I supposed capable of such a deed, but he was probably much excited by reading Sumner's satirical reply to his uncle Butler. Keitt, who accompanied him, appears a good deal more excitable. A few more such scenes as that of to-day, Rust's assault on Greeley, and Herbert's waiter-killing achievement, will ren-Washington a nuisance to all peaceable men.
