THE VOICE OF THE WINTRY WINDS.

BY MILES I. ANSON, JR.

The embers are sleeping,
Dark shadows are creeping.
Like midnight assassins they silently prowl;
The taper's faint glimmer,
Slow dwindleth dimmer,
And fearfully dismal the tempest doth howl.

How mournful it moaneth!
How awful it groaneth!
How terrible shrieketh the voice of the gale!
How fearful it sigheth!
How sadly it dieth!
How wild and pathetic its lingering wail!

Strange sorrowful noises,
Like far-distant voices,
Of dying unfortunates, laded the blast;
The grasp of the strangled,
The groan of the mangled,
The curse of the drowning seem hurrying past

Wild accents of horror,
Loud shrieking terror,
And despairing murmers of anguish and woe:
Now wild and pacific,
Now wild and terrific,
Now in loud heart-rending—now solemn and slow.

There comes a loud roaring,
And voices imploring
For mercy and succor in tones of despair;
And 'mid the wild clangor
Hersh voices, in anger,
Are heard, borne on the mimicking air.

Oh! verily, verily,
Dismal and dreadily,
Sounds the wintry hurricane's wail!
Hark! how it moaneth,
Hist! how it groaneth,
Hear the sad tones of its terrible tale!

COL. FREMONT IN CALIFORNIA.

In Bayard Taylor's narrative of his travels in California in 1846, we find the following allusion to Col. Fremont:

"In the morning we went with Lieut. Beale to call upon Col. Fremont whom we found on the portico of Mr. Cook's house, wearing a sombrero and California jacket, and showing no trace of the terrible harpships he had lately undergone. It may be interesting to the thousands who have followed him, as readers may, on his remarkable journeys and explorations for the past eight years, to know that he is a man of about thirty-five years of age; of medium heighth, and lightly but most symmetrically knit—in face, I have seen no other man with the qualities of lightness, activity, strength, and physical endurance in so perfect an equibrium. His face is rather thin and embrowned by exposure; his nose a bold aquiline, and his eyes deep set and keen as a hawk's. The rough camp life of many years has lessoned in no degree his native refinement of character, and polish of manners. A stranger would never suppose him to be the Columbus of our central wilderness, though, when so informed would believe it without surprise."

A Deed of Chivalry.

Rev. George D. Boardman, a son of the missionary whose name and memory are sacred with the Baptists of Maine, was recently expelled from his pastorate and from his home in Barnville, S. C., not for having taken part in political affairs, not for having preached against "the peculiar institution," but simply because he declined to unite in a public demonstration of sympathy for the ruffian Brooks.

A public meeting was recently called at that place, to express sympathy and approbation for Mr. Brooks, in the shameful assault upon Mr. Sumner. Mr. Boardman having no wish to participate in the meeting, was not present; whereupon a committee was dispatched to his residence to inquire the reason. Mr. B. quietly replied that he preferred to have no part in the proceedings. Upon this, he was required to give a categorical answer to the question whether he sympathized with Mr. Sumner and his views. To which Mr. B. answered in substance that he wished not to be thus catechized, but if he must answer, he could do no otherwise, as an honest man, than to say, Yes. This was enough; and he was at once told that he could have twenty-four hours to leave the place! Resistance or refusal was useless, and making such arrangements as he could in that brief period, Mr. Boardman took his departure for the North.

These are only the natural workings of slavery. Who can doubt the truth of the remark so often made, that slavery, in its nature and tendencies, is utterly barbarous, and at war with every principle of civil and religious freedom. In South Carolina not only is liberty of speech as entirely denied as in France or Russia, but freedom of opinion and of silence as well. A minister of the Gospel must be also a servant and a tool of slavery, or he cannot be suffered to dwell in South Carolina. —Zion's Advocate.

Resolution

Proposing Amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendments are proposed to the constitution of the commonwealth, in accordance with the provisions of the tenth article thereof.

FIRST AMENDMENT.

There shall be an additional article to said constitution to be designated as article eleven, as follows:—

ARTICLE XI.

OF PUBLIC DEBTS.

SEC. 1. The state may contract debts, to supply casual deficits or failures in revenues, or to meet expenses not otherwise provided for; but the aggregate amount of such debts direct and contingent, whether contracted by virtue of one or more acts of the general assembly, or at different periods of time, shall never exceed seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and the money arising from the creation of such debts, shall be applied to the purpose for which it was obtained, or to repay the debts so contracted, and to no other purpose whatever.

SEC. 2. In addition to the above limited power the state may contract debts to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the same in war, or to redeem the present outstanding indebtedness of the state; but the money arising from the contracting of such debts, shall be applied to the purpose for which it was raised, or to repay such debts, and to no other purpose whatever.

SEC. 3. Except the debts above specified, in sections one and two of this article, no debt whatever shall be created by, or on behalf of the state.

SEC. 4. To provide for the payment of the present debt, and any additional debt contracted as aforesaid, the legislature shall, at its first session, after the adoption of this amendment, create a sinking fund, which shall be sufficient to pay the accruing interest on such debt, and annually to reduce the principal thereof by a sum not less than two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; which sinking fund shall consist of the net annual income of the public works, from time to time owned by the state, or the proceeds of the sale of the same, or any part thereof, and of the income or proceeds of sale of stocks owned by the state, together with other funds, or resources, that may be designated by law.—The said sinking fund may be increased, from time to time, by assigning to it any part of the taxes, or other revenues of the state, not required for the ordinary and current expenses of government, and unless in case of war, invasion or insurrection, no part of the said sinking fund shall be used or applied otherwise than in extinguishment of the public debt, until the amount of such debt is reduced below the sum of five millions of dollars.

SEC. 5. The credit of the commonwealth shall not in any manner, or event, be pledged or loaned to, any individual, company, corporation, or association; nor shall the commonwealth hereafter become a joint owner, or stockholder, in any company, association, or corporation.

SEC. 6. The commonwealth shall not assume the debt, or any part thereof, of any county, city, borough, or township; or any corporation, or association; unless such debt shall have been contracted to enable the state to repel invasion, suppress domestic insurrection, defend itself in time of war, or to assist the state in the discharge of any portion of its present indebtedness.

SEC. 7. The legislature shall not authorize any county, city, borough, township, or incorporated district, by vote of its citizens, or otherwise, to become stockholder in any company, association, or corporation or to obtain money for, loan its credit to, any corporation, association, institution, or party.

SECOND AMENDMENT.

There shall be an additional article to said constitution, to be designated as article XII, as follows:

ARTICLE XII.

OF NEW COUNTIES.

No county shall be divided by a line cutting off over one-tenth of its population, (either to form a new county or otherwise,) without the express assent of such county, by a vote of the electors thereof; nor shall any new county be established, containing less than four hundred square miles.

THIRD AMENDMENT.

From section two of the first article of the constitution, strike out the words, "of the city of Philadelphia, and of each county respectively" from section five, same article, strike out the words, "of Philadelphia and of the several counties;" from section seven, same article, strike out the words, "neither the city of Philadelphia nor any," and insert in lieu thereof the words, "and no;" and strike out section four, same article, and in lieu thereof insert the following:

"SEC. 4. In the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and in every seventh year thereafter, representatives to the number of one hundred, shall be apportioned and distributed equally, throughout the state, by districts, in proportion to the number of taxable inhabitants in the several parts thereof; except that any county containing at least three thousand five hundred taxables, may be allowed a separate representation; but no more than three counties shall be joined, and no county shall be divided, in the formation of a district. Any city containing a sufficient number of taxables to entitle it to at least two representatives, shall have a separate representation assigned it, and shall be divided into convenient districts of contiguous territory of equal taxable population as nearly as may be, each of which districts shall elect one representative."

At the end of section seven, same article, insert these words, "the city of Philadelphia shall be divided into single senatorial districts, of contiguous territory as nearly equal in taxable population as possible; but no ward shall be divided in the formation thereof."

The legislature, at its first session, after the adoption of this amendment, shall divide the city of Philadelphia into senatorial and representative districts, in the manner above provided; such districts to remain unchanged until the apportionment in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four.

FOURTH AMENDMENT.

To be section XXVI, Article I.

The legislature shall have the power to alter, revoke, or annul, any charter of incorporation hereafter conferred by, or under, any special, or general law, whenever in their opinion it may be injurious to the citizens of the commonwealth; in such manner, however that no injustice shall be done to the corporators.
