Yes, quite possible. Do you remember one day, when that same Arthur Dunning was about to demolish a play-house just constructed by Mary Herbert, how you laid your hand upon his arm and said pleadingly, 'I wouldn't do it!'

'I think I do have some faint recollection of it now.'

'You recollect, I presume, a visit paid to your friend, Mrs. C., some five years ago?'

'Very well.'

'Do you recollect one evening during that visit falling into the company of two or three of the college students, who were discussing the plan of combining to refuse obedience to certain college regulations offensive to them?'

'I think I remember the circumstance.'

'And do you remember that one of them appealed to you for your opinion asking you if you would advise those present to join in the scheme, and that you replied modestly, but firmly and emphatically, 'I wouldn't do it!'

'And was that student yourself?' asked Ellen, wonderingly.

'It was, and I didn't do it. If you recollect the fate of those who did, you will believe that I never regretted it.'

'Strange that we should have met at three different times so far apart,' said Ellen musingly. 'I did not recognize in you the student I met that evening.'

'This is not strange, as you only saw me that one evening. But the impression made on my mind was far deeper,' said Arthur, in a tone which mantled the cheeks of Ellen with blushes. 'And now, Miss Hasting, will you not permit me to ask you one question? Do you not think you were destined to be my guardian angel?'

Ellen's brightened color was the only answer to this question.

Arthur took her hand respectfully, and in low, earnest tones, said,

'Will you not walk with me through life, dear Ellen, that you ever may whisper to me, 'I wouldn't do it, when temptation invites me to dangerous paths? Is not the ready obedience I have yielded on such occasions when you have been my kind mentor, a pledge that I shall never turn a deaf ear to your gentlest admonitions, but that it shall ever be yours to mould me and guide me as you will?

Ellen gave no definite answer to these questions that evening, but she did not refuse to take them into serious consideration; and in the end, she did not refuse to become the wife of Arthur Dunning.

We know not how often after their marriage, she had occasion to whisper in his ear, 'I wouldn't do it;' but as her husband was ever respected and honored in all the high stations which he was called upon to fill, we may rationally suppose, that female influence had something to do with his prosperity after marriage as well as before.

A. Stumper.—Children ask some curious questions. An exchange says—"We have a little boy in our house, who came home from Subbath school one day, and meeting his mother the following dialogue took place:

"Mamma!"

"Well, my dear."

"Mamma, the teacher says people are all made of dust."

"Yes, my dear, so the Bible says."

"Well mamma, are all white people made of dust?"

Yes."

"Well, then, I spose colored people are made of coal dust, ain't they?"

"I'M TALKING IN MY SLEEP."

BY MRS. OSGOOD.

I have something sweet to tell you,
But the secret you must keep;
And remember if it isn't right,
I'm talking in my sleep.

For I know I am but dreaming
When I think your love is mine;
And I know they are but seeming,
All the hopes that round me shine.

So remember, when I tell you
What I can no longer keep,
We are none of us responsible
For what we say in sleep.

My pretty secret's coming—
O! listen with your heart,
And you shall hear it humming
Before 'twill make you start.

O! shut your eyes so earnest,
Or mine will wildly weep—
I love you! I adore you! but—
I'm talking in my sleep.

AYER'S PILLS.

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A

FAMILY PHYSIC.

There has long existed a public demand for an effective purgative pill which could be relied on as sure and perfectly safe in its operation. This has been prepared to meet that demand, and an extensive trial of its virtues has conclusively shown with what success it accomplishes the purpose designed. It is easy to make a physical pill, but not easy to make the best of all pills—one which should have none of the objections, but all the advantages, of every other. This has been attempted here, and with what success we would respectfully submit to the public decision. It has been unfortunate for the patient hitherto that almost every purgative medicine is acrimonious and irritating to the bowels. This is not. Many of them produce so much griping pain and revulsion in the system as to more than counterbalance the good to be derived from them. These pills produce no irritation or pain, unless it arise from a previously existing obstruction or derangement in the bowels. Being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity; but it is better that any medicine should be taken judiciously. Minute directions for their use in the several diseases to which they are applicable are given on the box. Among the complaints which have been speedily cured by them, we may mention Liver Complaint, in its various forms of Jaundice, Indigestion, Languor and Loss of Appetite, Listlessness, Irritability, Bilious Headache, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side and Loins; for, in truth, all these are but the consequence of diseased action in the liver. As an aperient, they afford prompt and sure relief in Costiveness, Piles, Colic, Dysentery, Humors, Scrofula and Scurvy, Colds with soreness of the body, Ulcers and impurity of the blood; in short, any and every case where a purgative is required.

They have also produced some singularly successful cures in Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Gravel, Erysipelas, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Back, Stomach, and Side. They should be freely taken in the spring of the year, to purify the blood and prepare the system for the change of seasons. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, and restores the appetite and vigor. They purify the blood, and, by their stimulant action on the circulatory system, renovate the strength of the body, and restore the wasted or diseased energies of the whole organism. Hence an occasional dose is advantageous, even though no serious derangement exists; but unnecessary dosing should never be carried too far, as every purgative medicine reduces the strength, when taken to excess. The thousand cases in which a physic is required cannot be enumerated here, but they suggest themselves to the reason of every body; and it is confidently believed this pill will answer a better purpose than any thing which has hitherto been available to mankind. When their virtues are once known, the public will no longer doubt what remedy to employ when in need of a cathartic medicine. Being sugar-wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For the rapid Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

This remedy has won for itself such notoriety from its cures of every variety of pulmonary disease that it is entirely unnecessary to recount the evidences of its virtues in any community where it has been employed. So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs which are incident to our climate. And not only in formidable attacks upon the lungs, but for the milder varieties of Colds, Coughs, Hoarseness, &c.; and for Children it is the pleasantest and safest medicine that can be obtained.

As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best that it ever has been, and that the genuine article is sold by

SMITH & JONES, and D. W. SPENCER, Coudersport, Pa., and by Country Merchants and Druggists everywhere. 9:43–4ma.
