LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.

Extracts of Lotters from Judge Story, Chancello Kent and John Quincy Adams.

Larbidge, April 24, 1844.

I HAVE read the prospectus with great pleasure; and significant and approve the plan. If it can only obtain the public patronagelong consultand arguenously, and recurrely coordinate to attain its true ends. It will contribute it an amment degree to give a healthy tone not only to our literature, but to public opinion. It will enable us to possess in a moderate cappass, anelect literary of the best productions of the age, it is opinion. It will redeem our periodical literature frust the reproach of being devoted to light and superficial reading to transitory speculations, to sinkly and ophemenal seatures talities, and fire and charter.

New York, 7th hay, 1854.

I approve very much of the plan of the "Living Are" and if it be conducted with the intelligence, spirit and taste this if it be conducted with the intelligence, spirit and taste the plan of the "Living Are" and of the propectus indicates, (of which I have no reason to doubt it will be one of the most instructive and popular periodical intelligence, spirit and taste the proposed of the day.

Of all the Periodical jurnals devoted to literature and silving which abound in Ectorice and in this country, this parallel and the property that appeared to me the most useful. It contains indeed the expension of the property of the human mind in the ulmost expansion of the present age.
