

THE REPUBLICAN. CLEARFIELD Pa., May 1, 1852.

FOR PRESIDENT, JAMES BUCHANAN, OF PENNSYLVANIA. (Subject to the decision of the Democratic National Convention.)

FOR SENATOR, WILLIAM SEARIGHT, OF FAYETTE COUNTY. We expect to move our office next week into the 2d story of the new building of O. B. Merrell, on Second street, almost directly opposite our present location.

As next week will be court we hope as many of our friends as can make it at all convenient, will pay up old scores, as we want money just about as bad as ever we did.

The report of the committee appointed at the late railroad meeting held in this place, is crowded out. We call attention to the poetical bear story on our first page. The author is known to our readers as an occasional contributor for several years, and we have no doubt that they will properly appreciate the very great improvement he has made in the art of composition.

DEATH OF JUDGE COULTER. The Hon. RICHARD COULTER, one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of this State, died very suddenly at his residence in Greensburg, last week. Mr. Coulter was the only successful candidate on the whig ticket last fall.

Who will be the successor of Judge C., by appointment of the Governor, is not yet certain. We learn that Gov. BIGLER had tendered the appointment to Judge WOODWARD, who declined it.

Gov. Bigler and the Democracy. Now that the first session of the Legislature, under the administration of Governor BIGLER, has just expired, it may not be out of place to recur to the doings at Harrisburg during the last three months, and compare the acts and conduct of those whom the people have selected to guard and watch over the welfare of the Commonwealth.

The history of Pennsylvania legislation for the last thirty-five years, if it could be seen in all its deformity, would present a spectacle little creditable to our intelligence as a people. Special legislation has been the order of the day. If existing statutes did not provide for a man's present difficulties, all he had to do was to furnish the means of employing the proper number of lawyers, and his case was slyly tacked on to some omnibus, and safely carried through the forms of legislation—thus reversing the object of well ordered government, and making the law subservient to the citizen, instead of the citizen subservient to the law.

Hence it is that we occasionally hear a whig editor hypocritically ask "how it happens that the Democracy are always prating about vested rights, and their hostility to corporations, chartered monopolies, and class-legislation, when a majority of these measures now in existence owe their creation to Democratic legislation?" The hypocrisy of the in insinuation is self-evident; yet, as the Democrats have had control of the legislature four-fifths of the time during all this period, they had the power to preserve our statutes from all such blot; and for all such sins of omission they are justly culpable.

Now, however, the dawn of brighter days appears. The Democracy is about being restored to its integrity. The people, in their wisdom, have placed a man in the Executive Chair, who has, upon every occasion, proven himself as sincere in his professions, and as faithful to the principles of the Republican party, as they themselves. During this, the first session under his administration, an unexampled effort was made, and every artifice used, by those interested, to procure legislation for selfish purposes. They were confined to no section or party, but hosts of the Governor's warmest friends were among their most urgent advocates. He had been elected as a Democrat, with his principles spread broadcast throughout the land; and he doubtless desired to retain the approbation of his fellow citizens, one and all; but with him, this approbation could only be retained by an unflinching adherence to his integrity and plighted faith. And how nobly he has maintained that integrity, and discharged his whole duty, let his able veto messages answer. He says, in effect, to the legislature, "gentlemen, I am a Democrat, and have the most implicit faith in the soundness of the principles laid down by the founders of the Democratic party. The people elected me, judging me by the principles which I everywhere publicly professed to advocate. You may do as you please, but as for me, I can only discharge my duty by being faithful to those solemn obligations."

It is thus that the Democracy of Pennsylvania is now about being restored to its original position, and to abstain from all agency in the passage of selfish and unwholesome laws. The whigs cannot point to any anti-democratic law of this session, and say to the Democrats, "you are the authors." So let us continue. And whilst the Democracy remain faithful to their time-honored principles, and hold every agent to a strict accountability—rewarding the faithful and discarding the unworthy—there will be no rights taken from the many and given to the few.

JAS. L. GILLIS A "SLANDERED" MAN. We hope we are not in the habit of slandering any person, either publicly or privately, morally, politically, or in any capacity. Yet our last paper contained an outrageous misrepresentation of the conduct of the above named gentleman, as our representative in the legislature, and which we gladly embrace the earliest opportunity to correct. In noticing the message of Gov. BIGLER, vetting certain bank bills, we stated that "Mr. GILLIS had advocated the passage of these bills, but after the veto had voted against them." This is a plain no such thing—although, at the time, we thought we were telling the truth—though unpleasant—and whilst in the act of putting it in type, actually took down a copy of the Keystone to examine and make the thing doubly sure. How we read, and how we saw things topsy turvy, and reversed the yea and nays, is beyond our comprehension—but that that very thing happened is as clear as day; and it now affords us peculiar pleasure to make the correction, and to assure the numerous friends of that gentleman in this county—and they will be rejoiced to learn the truth—that he did not only not "advocate" the passage of or vote for either of these bills, but that he actually voted against nine out of the eleven. And subsequent, when eight other banks came up, he likewise voted against each and all of them.

We presume no one suspects us of intentional misrepresentation; or of a having the least desire to present his conduct in an objectionable light to his constituents. And while we would desire to show his every official act to his constituents—an exhibition from which he would be the last man to shrink—we would take much more pleasure in concealing what we conceived were faults, than in exposing them to his injury.

Our citizens have at length broken ground in the business of garden-making. New potatoes, it is thought, will be a scarce article in our market next fourth of July.

Graham's Magazine, for May, is pronounced by several who have perused it, as more than usually interesting.

The Million (Pa.) Democrat, is a new paper, by J. R. Eow, and looks well.

OUR JUDICIAL DISTRICT. The Act of Assembly transferring us into the Judicial District composed of the counties of Venango, Clarion and Jefferson, and presided over by Judge Knox, has received the sanction of the Executive:

"We have heard it said," says the Lycoming Gazette, "that the Tyrone and Erie railroad route is impracticable." No doubt of it. But then, there are a great many things "said" that are not true, and this is certainly one of them. And we again repeat, that if to make a direct connection of Philadelphia with Erie is the object, it is the very upper crust of folly to think of following the meanderings of the Susquehanna, when the whole thing can be accomplished at one-half the cost.

What has become of all the butter? We know a man who is willing to pay a snug round sum for a fair sight at a good fresh roll.

Rhode Island Election. PROVIDENCE, April 8.—Our Election has resulted in the return of Allen, Democrat, for Governor, by about 300 majority. Lawrence, Democrat, for Lieut. Governor is defeated badly. The Whigs have two majority in the Senate over all,—and eight in the House. Two Senators and four Representatives are yet to be chosen.

Second Despatch.—All the Democratic State ticket is elected, except the Lieut. Governor, by from three to four hundred majority. There is no choice of Lieut. Governor probably by the people. The Whigs however, have the House, and a majority on joint ballot, which secures his election. The Senate is close, and still in doubt.

For the Clearfield Republican. Father Matthew and the Rev. John Chambers. A short time since the Rev. John Chambers wrote a series of letters on the subject of temperance, published in the Pennsylvania. In the last of which he takes occasion to make a most brutal and vile attack on Father Matthew. What is most astonishing is, that the Pennsylvania should give publicity to such a piece of blackguardism—it would have looked much better in one of Paul de Kock's novels. The Rev. gentleman is evidently much excited at his own want of success in the anti-temperance, and most unwilling to allow Father Matthew the credit due him for his indomitable exertions and christian department in the cause of the poor inebriate's emancipation. The Rev. John Chambers has gained some celebrity from his repeated temperance speeches, but unfortunately none whatever from converted drunkards. All the drunkards were drunk by him he could, without any inconvenience, stick in his eye. Finding his great temperance speech thus wholly ineffectual, he has loaned it to the cause of the Main Liqueur Law, and the columns of the Pennsylvania are read the vehicle by which it is conveyed ready for immediate use to the door of every man, woman and child, and also all the rum-sellers in the Commonwealth. For the benefit of drunkards, and other respectable individuals, who possibly may not receive the Pennsylvania, I will give them a short synopsis of this speech:

"Rum-sellers," "Rum-suckers," "Licensed murderers," "Licensed robbers," "Assassins," "Midnight Assassins," "Assassins," "Thieves, who cannot escape the damnation of hell, I have warned you to flee from the wrath to come," "Betrayers of mothers, wives and sisters," "Seducers of fathers, sons and brothers," "If you are in favor of the Maine Liqueur law you are either a drunkard or in favor of making drunkards," "Every body who is opposed to the Maine Liqueur law, who says it is tyrannical, who opposes the searching of his premises by every blackguard who may feel disposed to annoy him, or rob his house, is in favor of making more drunkards."

Gentle reader—should you be a modest female, and feel disposed to censure the writer for writing, or the publisher for publishing the above rather bad synopsis of a temperance speech—I beg of you to recollect that the Rev. John Chambers, a minister of the Gospel, a man who professes to be a follower of the meek and lowly Jesus, is the author.

Then I beg you to contrast this man's conduct with that of Father Matthew, whose soul is filled with pity for the poor inebriate, regarding him as made in the image of God. He asked not for the passage of sumptuary laws—he wanted no system of espionage established—but, copying the example of his Divine Master, he went about from place to place, and in words of persuasive eloquence, exhorted them to sobriety and amendment. His success is not counted by hundreds, or even thousands, but millions now live to testify that moral suasion is the only, the surest and the most effectual method of reclaiming drunkards.

Now reader, which would you prefer, Father Matthew or John Chambers. A. B.
